QUESTION I am flying to England in May. Where may I obtain a passport application and what do they cost?

ANSWER: Passport application forms are now available at Post Offices across Canada. The new passports are good for five years and cost $10. You will need documentary proof of Canadian citizenship, vaccination and two identical passport photos. weeks to get a passport but it sometimes takes a lot longer, so it would be wise to send your application in as soon as posible before the spring rush gets underway.

QUESTION: Is it a good buy to purchase a demonstrator automobile?

ANSWER: That depends. If it has been driven by a lot of people as a test car, chances are it has suffered from some bad handling. On the other hand if it has been driven by employees of the dealer as a show car it is probably a good buy. There usually is a substantial saving on the price of the car, usually up to $500. If it has been driven carefully and has a true low mileage, this is quite a saving.

QUESTION: I'm considering purchasing a car in Germany in conjunction with a European holiday and I wondered under what circumstances I could bring the car back to Canada without duty.

ANSWER: Persons formerly residents of Canada, who have been absent from Canada for a period of at least 12 months and have owned and used the automobile for six months, may import it duty and tax free, for their own personal use.

EMO Ready To Help Clear Town

PORT FRANKS, Ont. (CP) — The Emergency Meaasures Organization of Lambton County has notified Bossanquet Township council it is prepared to assist in evacuating residents of this town, 32 miles northwest of London in event of the potential flooding of the Ausable River.

The ice on the river at this community on Lake Huron is almost level with the top of the river banks and the mouth of the 100-foot wide river is blocked by waves of ice.

Explosive tests were made at the mouth Friday, and further tests are to be made this morning to determine the feasibility of creating a greater channel for the flow into the lake.

OES Chapter 55 Marks 52nd Birthday

In February 1919, Belleville Chapter No. 55 was organized and duly instituted as a Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. On Friday evening, the 52nd anniversary of that event was celebrated in the form of a birthday party at the Masonic Temple on Foster Avenue.

Members and visiting members filled the Chapter room to capacity for the occasion. All were welcomed by the Worthy Matron Mrs. Dorothy Jones and the Worthy Patron Rex Chaplin.

Among the distinguished guests were Mrs. Edna Dobbs, Associate Grand Conductress of the Grand Chapter of Ontario; Mrs. Verna Young Grand Electa of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, Mrs. Mary Bedford, District Deputy Grand Matron of District No. 12; Past DDGMs. Other guests were present from Kingston, Brighton, Campbellford, Warkworth, Colborne, Belleville. There was a large number of Past Matrons and Past Patrons from other Chapters and 30 Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Belleville Chapter present. All were introduced, welcomed and escorted to the East.

A special event was the presentation of a 50-year pin to Mrs. Thelma Liddle, a Past Matron of the Chapter and a Past Grand Electa. Mrs. Liddle was escorted to the East by the Conductress, where the presentation address was given by her daughter, Mrs. Lois Chaplin, PM, and the honor of pinning it on was given to her son-in-law, Rex Chaplin, Worthy Patron of the Chapter. Mrs. Liddle thanked the Champter for the Pin, representing 50 years of membership and service in the Chapter.

Honorary memberships were conferred on three members of Frontenac Chapter, Kingston; They were, Mrs. Gladys Hector, PDDGM of District 13; Mrs. Anne Baker; and Mr. Jack Baker W.P. The presentations were made by a long-time friend, Mrs. Wynne Tomlinson P.M. and secretary of Belleville Chapter.

The highlight of the evening was the birthday candle ceremony. Candles and books of matches were distributed to each one present, then a beautiful birthday cake was wheeled in on a tea wagon. This cake had been made and presented to the Chapter by the secretary, Mrs. Wynne Tomlinson PM, among its beautiful decorations were the large numbers 52, and the top was adorned with a replica of a sailing ship, made by Robert Jones, P.P. and her husband of the Worthy Matron, who also made the large sailing ship in front of the lectern. Tall tapers in the colors of the star points surrounded the base of the cake. The Worthy Matron read an appropriate birthday poem, then each star point officer in turn recited a verse and lit the candle in the color of her office. During the impressive ceremony an appropriate solo was sung by Sister Beverley Shaw, accompanied on the piano by Sister Marjorie Gray P.M.

The birthday cake was cut by the Worthy Matron Dorothy Jones and the 50-yr. member, Mrs. Thelma Liddle, P.M.

Lunch was served in the auditorium, and a social hour enjoyed.

Reports Given By Manor Auxiliary

Mrs. D. Maclean, president of the Hastings Manor Auxiliary conducted the meeting held recently at the Manor and welcomed members and visitors.

During business various reports were read and Mrs. Wessels reported that Valentine cards were sent to all the residents. It was decided that the Auxiliary would buy a 30-cup coffee urn. A bingo is planned for the residents on Feb. 24. On March 5, a World Day of Prayer service will be held at the Manor.

For the program, games of bingo were enjoyed and films were shown and fruit was passed out to all those in attendance.

Refreshments were served which included the birthday cake cut by two who were marking birthdays — Mrs. Mary Linderfield her 90th and John Goodwin his 94th. Tea was poured by Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Loney.

Centrepiece Arrangements

Mrs. T. R. Colden, Division Commissioner and Mrs. A. M. Haig, Area Gold Cord chairman admire the dolls made by Brownie Pack 16 which were used as centrepieces for the tea tables at the annual Guide and Brownie tea held on Tuesday afternoon at St. Thomas' Parish Hall. In the background is the main table centrepiece which was an arrangement of dolls dressed in various national costumes by the Gold Cord Guides.

Winners of 'Speak-off' Announced

MARMORA — Connie Colden and James Hughes, Jr., were winners of the 'speak-off' sponsored by Branch 237 Royal Canadian Legion at Marmora Town Hall on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 21.

Miss Colden's speech on "Statue of Liberty" took top honors in the 1-6 class. Runner-up was Craig Killian who spoke on "Bobby Orr" and the third prize was awarded to Tim McCoy whose subject was "Dogs".

In the senior group, James Hughes chose "Our Labrador Retriever" as the topic for his address. Second prize was awarded to Brenda Colden, who spoke on the "Seminole Indians" and third went to Tony Fondyga for his "Laser Beam". The three other contestants were Judy Killian, Ruth Lingertat and Evelyn Kotulski.

The judges were Mrs. Burton Morton, Stirling, Mrs. Don Robinson, Oshawa, and John Murphy, of Madoc Public School.

Mr. Murphy pointed out to the contestants at the conclusion of the speeches that judges look for enthusiasm, as well as volume control and proper enunciation when judging.

The winners may advance to a Zone F-3 'speak-off' next Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28, when contestants from Hastings and Prince Edward Counties will compete in Marmora Town Hall at 1:30 p.m.

Guide and Brownie Annual Tea Held in St. Thomas Parish Hall

A variety of exhibits symbolic of all aspects of Girl Guide and Brownie work and designed to show the viewer the various ways in which the movement helps each girl to develop her personality to its fullest possible extent were artistically displayed at St. Thomas' Parish Hall on Tuesday afternoon, at the Guide and Brownie tea, one of the special events organized in connection with Guide Week which began on Feb. 22.

The most noteworthy displays were a replica of a float done by 16th Belleville Girl Guides which was entered in the Santa Claus parade this year and a miniature Indian village done by Brownie pack 16 who were also responsible for the centrepieces at the tea tables. The replica of the float realistically depicted a campfire scene and reminded the viewers that camping is one of the most important of all Guide activities. The Indian village was made with great attention to the most minute detail and was complete with a totem pole, drummer and some bead jewellery characeristic of Indian handicrafts.

Besides these displays there was a number of posters showing among other things the various types of knots learned by Guides, Brownies and Rangers. Guides and Brownies of various lands and projects designed to increase the girls' knowledge of other countries.

In the tea room, the focal point of interest was the main table display consisting of blue cornflowers, golden daffodils and a number of life-like dolls dressed in various national costumes.

This arrangement was done by the convener, Mrs. J. Stewart Robertson but the dolls were dressed by the gold cord Guides since one of the qualifications necessary to earn a gold cord is a sound knowledge of the world.

Receiving guests at the door was Mrs. T. R. Colden, Division Commissioner.

The district commissioners who work with Guide Captains and Brown Owls throughout the year were responsible for much of the behind-the-scenes work for this tea. Along with Mrs. Colden, several district commissioners greeted the continuous stream of guests. They were Mrs. M. Chartrand, Mrs. R. Schrieder, Mrs. F. Donohoe, Mrs. R. Mason, Mrs. A. Steenburg and Mrs. D. McLean.

In another room, long tables laden with a tempting variety of cakes, pies and other home-baked items provided by the mothers of the Guides and Brownies attracted a large crowd of customers. The district social conveners, Mrs. Beth Collyer, Mrs. Lil Waters, Mrs. Marie Fuller, Mrs. Marlene Coulter and Mrs. Ruth Pringle were in charge of the home baking.

Pouring tea at the attractive main table were Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. A. M. Haig, Mrs. J. Denton, Mrs. A. Welch, Mrs. J. Russell Scott, Mrs. C. D. Ashley, Mrs. J. Kuntze and Mrs. D. Wishart.

The overall convener was Mrs. J. S. Robertson while the afternoon and evening conveners were Mrs. Murray Workman and Mrs. Brian Jukosky respectively. The Rangers helped to set up the tables and arrange the hall for the event. The proceeds of the tea and bake sale will help send Guides to camp, provide funds for the camp at Waupoos in Prince Edward County and also help pay for the training of Guiders.

Later in the evening, starting at 7 p.m., a special program was held for the parents and friends of the Guides and Brownies. From 7 to 8 p.m., each Brownie pack did a program for ten minutes, consisting of songs, folk dances, games and other activities they had done throughout the year. From 8 to 9 p.m. each Guide company did a similar ten-minute program.

Ann Landers

A Little Romance Adds to Marriage

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You goofed. The lady who said the romance had gone out of her marriage asked for help. You told her to put away her story books and accept the realities of life. You pointed out how much she had to be grateful for. You exhorted her to count her blessings.

You'll have to admit, Ann, her life sounded pretty darned dull. Why didn't you tell her to give that half-dead marriage a shot of adrenalin? There are many things a wife can do if she has the imagination. She can lose ten pounds, get a new haircut, read a book, get a part-time job so she'll have something to talk about besides the broken dishwasher, the kid's report card, and her mother-in-law. Best of all, she can have a love affair — with her own husband. She can suggest they spend a night in a local hotel. And she can buy a black nightie for the occasion. He'll look at her with new eyes.

If a wife acts like a household appliance, her husband will treat her like one. Every man wants a loveable, vibrant, exciting, fascinating woman. Be one! — LOVE BIRD WHO SINGS A LOT.

DEAR BIRD: I vote for the local hotel bit. It's easier than losing ten pounds and it's got to be more fun. If anyone out there tries it I'd like to know how it works out.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What steps must be taken to get a name changed? I got stuck with a real loser. And please, while you're at it, Ann, advise parents to give their kids common, everyday monnikers like John and Mary. All through school my name created an uproar. Even now, when I'm introduced in a group someone laughs and asks, "Is that really your name?" I feel like an idiot. I'll use a nom de plume for this letter. My real name is worse. — MARMADUKE CRUMBUM.

DEAR DUKE: To change your name in Illinois you must file a petition in the Chancery Division of the Circuit Court. You will receive a court date and appear before a judge. Costs run between $50 and $60. Other states have similar procedures.

But I'm giving you fair warning — no matter what change you make, you'll forever be running into people who knew you by your old name, and that's what they'll call you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't know what is happening to our world, but honesty and integrity are fast disappearing from the face of the earth.

Stealing seems to be as natural as breathing. If a person sees something he wants — he takes it. If he wants something bad enough, he'll hit somebody over the head with a piece of pipe — or stab him with a knife, or even shoot him. Honest people are virtually helpless but a few simple precautions can help prevent some crime.

Never, and I repeat never leave anything of value in a locked car. A hophead looking for a fast dollar will think nothing of smashing a window or breaking a lock.

Our daughter's honeymoon was ruined when a thief broke into her fiance's car and took all their suitcases. Our neighbor lost about 40 Christmas presents he was getting ready to deliver. They, too, were in a locked car.

It's a sad state of affairs when even locks don't deter thieves, but these are the facts. — POORER BUT WISER.

DEAR P.B.W.: You're right on both counts. Thanks for writing.

Successful Living

Poet's Riches Are Not Earthly Jewels

THE READING MOTHER

I had a mother who read to me
Sagas of pirates who scoured the sea,
Cutlasses clenched in their yellow teeth,
"Blackbirds" stowed in the hold beneath.

I had a mother who read to me lays
Of ancient and gallant and golden days;
Stories of Marmion and Ivanhoe,
Which every boy has a right to know.

I had a mother who read to me the things
That wholesome life to the boy heart brings —
Stories that stir with an upward touch,
Oh, that each mother of boys were such!

You may have tangible wealth untold;
Caskets of jewels and coffers of gold.
Richer than I you can never be —
I had a mother who read to me.

Strickland Gillilan.

Dear Doris: When our children were younger and were asked by the teacher what schooling their parents had, they would say, "Our dad has grade 10 and our mother grade nine." They would often ask if it was wrong to tell little white lie, because they would have liked for us to be as educated as they are.

Doris, I have only grade five and my husband grade eight. Through the years I have helped the children with their lessons, and have read everything I could lay my hands on. Once I worked in a hospital as a maid and the Sister there suggested that I go to night school to learn to nurse the sick people or to do social work, since I had an aptitude for working with them.

With 23 years of married life not too happy, with just a few bright spots here and there, how can I best help? I'd like to help people the way you do. You are a blessing. — In My Forties.

Dear Forties: From the sound of you, you would make a first rate social worker. But, alas, a diploma in social work is a long way from grade five let alone a degree.

There are ways to upgrade education which your local Board of Education will outline for you; and you can do quite a bit in a short time, especially if you are a good reader and have been keeping up on things.

Aim for an assistant - type job: nurse's aide, or case aid, or practical nurse. Or you might think about getting into the work by the stenographic route. Others have.

• • •

Dear Doris: Please send me the name of some books on everyday manners. And who thanks whom after a dance or a skate? — God Manners.

Dear Good: Nobody has a monopoly on saying thanks. Nobody looks down from a perch to bestow the favor of their company on a grateful, lesser one. Or they shouldn't.

DORIS CLARK

When you go on a date, you go all out to be gracious, interested, and good company. If you both do this, the thank-yous just naturally happen, both ways.

My 10-cent list of books on matters and etiquette is on its way.

• • •

Dear Doris: I am back at studying and while I don't consider myself a howling success I am enjoying the classes. I think I am the only one over 30 and I really have to work to keep up to the rest of them.

I enjoy English most of all. Science is a necessary evil but in my first science test I got 80 per cent. Math is not so good, but if I don't make my Grade 10 it won't be for lack of trying and I can't come out of it without learning something!

Yesterday was the first time I looked forward to homework time. Usually my mind just wouldn't soak up another thing. TV is a thing of the past. — Grey Hairs, Grade 10.

Dear Grey Hairs: What a plucky student you are! Living proof that people can go right on learning all their lives. It can be thrilling to pick up on study and begin to see a whole new world. What you are doing will inspire a good many other Canadians.

Egg Main Dish Casserole for Six

By MARY MOORE

Early this month I made Eggs Divan, gave the recipe here and figured the cost was around 75 cents for a dinner for four.

Because the price of eggs is still low I am featuring another Egg Main Dish Casserole for six. It is full of flavor, rib-sticking and attractive. I hope you will add it to your Casserole file.

EGG MAIN DISH CASSEROLE

6 hard-cooked eggs
⅔ cup raw long grain rice
1½ cups boiling water
½ tsp. salt (first amount)
½ cup mayonnaise (not salad dressing)
1 envelope cheese sauce mix
¾ cup milk
1 tbsp. instant bottled onion
½ tsp. salt (second amount)
One 10-oz. pkge. fresh frozen peas
2 med. firm tomatoes chopped
Paprika

First put the eggs on to cook in cold water to cover, put on lid, bring to boil, turn heat to simmer for 10 min. then set off heat and let stand 20 min. Flood with cold water to chill, peel off shells and slice thinly (preferably with your egg slicer).

Meanwhile in a heavy pot put rice on to cook with water and ½ tsp. salt (first amount). Bring to boil. Remove from heat for 5 min., then return to heat and simmer 20 min. (This gives you 2½ cups cooked rice which is the required amount for this recipe.)

In large mixing bowl beat together the mayonnaise, cheese sauce mix (directly from pkge.), milk, onion and salt (second amount). Remove beaters and stir in peas, tomatoes, rice and four of the sliced hard-cooked eggs. Sprinkle with paprika.

Turn into large shallow casserole and arrange the remaining two sliced hard-cooked eggs in an oval pattern around edge. Cover (with foil if necessary) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 40 min.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Grilled Golden Pickerel; Barbecue Sauce; Curried Rice; Creamed Celery with Sliced Almonds; Sliced Cucumber and Onion Rings; Individual Maple Custards; Tea.

A Flavorful Casserole

Casserole cooks come to attention! Take advantage of low egg prices. Mary Moore gives you a flavorful rib-sticking dish that hungry budgeters and their broods will welcome.

High School Girls Fix Flats

OTTAWA (CP) — Teen-age girls at Sir Wilfrid Laurier high school are preparing for heavy road-hazard tasks they might face if full female emancipation ever becomes a reality.

Experimental classes conducted by teacher Juair Monson have graduated 17 girls who won't need to resort to old-fashioned female wiles if stranded with a flat tire.

The classes, part of a 13-week driver education course, taught the girls and 15 male classmates how to change a tire, start a flooded engine with a comb, take apart air cleaner, fill radiator and administer other auto first aid.

Mr. Monson felt that the textbook theory of the course as normally offered could not always be put into practical use —hence the extras.

"For instance, I asked a girl in the class what she'd do if she had a flat. 'I'd cry,' was the answer."

The girls didn't exactly relish the dirty job, but thought it was useful.

"If my tire got flat, I'd have to change it—we live way out in the country and there aren't many cars passing at night along our road," said Angelika Zeisig, 16.

Beverley Bright, 17, found the job dirty and awkward, but said she'd now be able to do it without help "if I had to."

The boys didn't balk too much at the female mastery of the traditionally male task.

"It's a good idea," said Robert Moyes, 18. "It's a nice thing for them to know, but I wouldn't like my girl-friend to fix a flat tire for me. It'd be kind of embarrassing."

A diploma in the regular course, sponsored by the Ottawa Carleton Safety Council, entitles the student to a reduction of up to 22 per cent on insurance rates.

Mother: "It's so hard to talk to Sherry now that she's in high school. Her world seems so apart from ours. There really is a generation gap. She never will answer questions about what goes on in school."

Father: "Our luncheon club speaker discussed drug abuses in high schools, but he didn't seem to have much explanation for the great appeal of drugs for high school students. What do you think about it?"

Personal questions may make teen-agers clam up, but most of them enjoy thoughtful discussions with interested and understanding adults.

Denticare Won't Overcome Fear of Dentists

SUDBURY (CP) — The president of the Canadian Dental Association said Tuesday that despite proposals for a national dental care program people's fear of dentists will keep them from getting proper treatment.

Dr. W. J. Spence of Toronto said in an interview that fear of dentists is a major cause of poor teeth.

Commenting on a report tabled in the House of Commons Monday that Canada's 7,000 dentists are able to provide only one-third of the country's dental needs, Dr. Spence said "only 33 percent of the dental need is translated into actual demand even if the money is available."

He said the association will give detailed study to the report. Already, the group has approved the recommendation calling for an increase in dental assistants.

Dr. Spence said the association agrees with the report's proposal for a dental care program for children, starting at the age of three.

However, he said, the association opposes the extension of a dental care program beyond school age at present.

"We couldn't handle it," he said.

Drug Users 85 Per Cent of Young Transients

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a study prepared for John Munro, federal minister of health and welfare, reports that 85 per cent of the young transients in Canada last summer used marijuana.

The newspaper says the report was the work of a "youth services study group" that interviewed 280 young transients throughout Canada.

Their report showed 78 per cent of the transients were students or had jobs and most were travelling only for the summer. They are described as self-reliant, temporary transients with no special problems.

—20 per cent had used or were using amphetamines, such as speed;

—48 per cent had used or were using hallucinogens, including LSD;

—Three per cent had used or were using heroin;

—10 per cent used no drugs at all.

Spring Election Possible

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson, president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, said Tuesday the postponement of six nomination meetings in Progressive Conservative riding associations does not mean a spring election for Ontario has been ruled out.

He said the postponements had no bearing on when an election would be held and added it was done "as a courtesy" to give Premier-elect William Davis time to assess situations in ridings before candidates are selected.

Mr. Eagleson said he had suggested that riding associations hold off their nomination meetings before the Progressive Conservative leadership convention in Toronto Feb. 10-12 because many of the association members were working on the leadership campaign.

The party president said he wrote to riding associations again last week asking that they hold off nomination meetings until Mr. Davis has had a chance to assess the situation.

Ontario's Tax Plan Favored

TORONTO (CP) — One of the first decisions facing the new Ontario cabinet of William Davis is whether the province should collect its own income tax, Ian Macdonald, deputy provincial treasurer, said Tuesday.

Mr. Macdonald was interviewed following a speech Monday by W. A. Macdonald, a Toronto lawyer and tax expert, in which the suggestion of provincial collection was made.

The lawyer told the Canadian Club Monday that Ontario tax proposals are far more acceptable than those in the federal white paper. The provincial plans would give low-income Canadians tax credits and provide incentives for small businesses.

Fatal Fall Not Murder

WELLAND (CP) — "They were both sailors and when they got some free time in the winter, these things happen," said Mr. Justice Edward Richardson in recommending a not-guilty verdict in the non-capital murder trial of Gerald Joseph Arsenault, 31.

After 15 minutes, the Ontario Supreme Court jury returned with a verdict of not guilty in the death of Thomas Patrick Walsh, 45. Both men had no fixed address.

Walsh fell to his death when he tried to hang by his toes from a highway overpass in Thorold, Ont., late at night Sept. 24, 1970.

"When people get crazy drunk, anything can happen," said the judge. He said he believed a statement Arsenault gave police 10 hours after the incident.

The accused told police that Walsh had said: "I've got courage," and then hung from the railing by his hands. Arsenault said he pulled Walsh back over the railing and said that was nothing.

Walsh then told his drinking companion: "I'm going to do a real good one—hang by my feet," then proceeded to do so. He fell to his death.

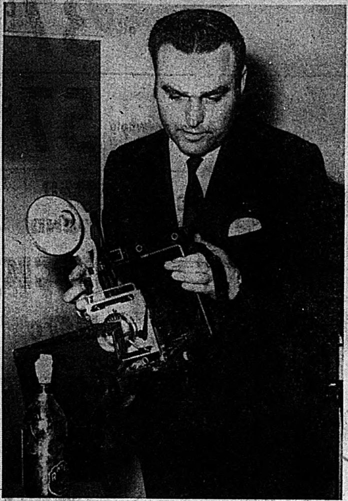
Photography An Important Aid in Work of City Police

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Complete indentification, both to determine the extent of innocence or guilt, is one of the most time-consuming jobs in police work. It has to be! "I can't present a case unless I'm absolutely sure," said Detective Dale Ashbury, Identification Officer for the Belleville Police Department in a recent interview.

To this end, painstaking piecing together of evidence often takes long hours, and sometimes proves fruitless.



Closeup Shot Records Fingerprints as Evidence

Such was the case with a vehicle containing an engine with serial numbers scratched out. Carefully photographing the entire scene, including the plate mounted on the engine, Detective Ashbury removed the piece of tin on which identification numerals should have been visible.

"They had been completely scratched out," he said, indicating a photograph to illustrate his point.

What followed removal of the plate was 4½ hours of painstaking work in which a variety of substances was used to bring the reverse indentations to a readable position. Acids are often used for this purpose but in this case ordinary shoe polish did the trick, or at least, most of it.

Careful developing of the photographic negative produced a readable serial number . . . easily traced. However, no conviction was brought against the party in possession of the vehicle.

"This happens, but we've got to be sure . . . we can't go into court with only partial evidence," the detective stated.

One of the principal aids for investigation work is photography. Together with the regular investigation work employed by police departments, the camera can bring evidence before a court that in many cases would be cumbersome and time-consuming.

For instance. At the scene of an accident, a complete series of photographs taking four angles of the scene can be produced and an accurate picture of the situation is readily observed. Close-up work provides extra details where necessary.

Tire treads, positions of broken glass, paint damage, (vital in hit and run cases where particles discovered elsewhere can be matched) and road conditions can be recorded in a short space of time by the police photographer.

In cases of break and entry — a wave of such cases occurring in the first part of this year and almost completely cleared up — photography records fingerprints, loose fibres and footprints, together with detailed records of methods employed to gain entry, such as a jimmied window.

Murders, suicides, arson and burglary are the more colorful subjects for the photographer's camera, but not many such cases have been recorded by Belleville police.

When Detective Ashbury first joined the force 12 years ago, photography was a hobby. "I played around with cameras in an amateurish way and developed a few pictures, nothing serious."

He explained that a large identification section did not exist then, but with the help of Ontario Provincial Police officers who were at the time aiding the city police in their identification, "I became interested in this work."

Gaining experience in the OPP darkroom, the investigation department head, gained further knowledge through a U.S. investigation correspondence course. With the purchase of needed equipment, the city police began their own indentification department, a full-time job for the detective for the past nine years.

First-hand training entered the picture in 1965 when the detective attended an intense two-month course at RCMP investigation headquarters in Ottawa. Simulated crime scenes, detailed investigation methods, proper packaging of exhibits, and training in the Forensic Sciences Laboratory in Toronto, plus a criminal investigation course at the Aylmer, Ont. police academy, have provided the Belleville force with what Chief Douglas Crosbie terms "a complete, first-class identification department."

With the establishment of the department, two constables Dave Thomas and Gerald Robertson, have undergone practical training together with investigation courses. Constable Bob Thomas, the newest man on the team, as yet has only received on-the-job training.

Formerly a one-man, almost 24-hour on call operation, a team has been built up to handle the workload, which not only includes actual investigation work, but extensive processing of material, complete reports filed not only in the office but at the central file at RCMP headquarters in Ottawa, and presentation of material in court.

Every person arrested gets mugged (full-face and side-face photographs) and fingerprinted. Former offences, subsequent convictions or acquittals all go onto the forms kept on file.

When fingerprints are discovered at the scene of a crime, there are a number of methods employed to put them on record. Using iodine fume, silver nitrate and the more archaic charcoal dust, the print is outlined and then either photographed or lifted by use of special tape. The fingerprint now on record from the scene is carefully studied through a magnifying glass and characteristics in the whorls of the print are noted.

Each fingerprint is different, a non-disputed fact, and by matching patterns in the lines, taken from the suspect and the scene of the crime, the identifying officer can prove, where a clear print has been obtained, which person had made the print. Records at the central file can provide prints with which to match the lifted print.

Again the camera, in this case a Crown Graphic with a negative four inches by five inches in size, provides an accurate record of the fingerprint, whether taken at the scene or later, from a dusted article. The actual print is photographed with aid of an extension tube to provide a one to one shot . . . actual size. On a special identification board, the blown up shot is placed next to a diagram showing characteristic lines in the print. Together with actual size photograph, this board is then presented as evidence. The preparation is a long, drawn-out process, but when presented "without a shadow of doubt" it is a vital link in proving either innocence or guilt.

Detective Ashbury also indicated that clear prints can be taken from paper, forged cheques were one example.

"The camera actually gets used like a second hand."

Specialist Says:

There's Profit in Roadside Stands

PICTON (Staff) — Consumers tired of buying fruits and vegetables promoted in chain stores primarily because of their prolonged shelf life, are creating a demand for increased roadside marketing.

Robert Cobbledick, fruit and vegetable specialist for the Ontario department of agriculture and foods in Prince Edward County has predicted that local farmers can capitalize on this trend toward field-fresh produce.

"I feel that with the tourist traffic we have on Highways 14, 33 and the Rednersville and West Lake Roads, there is fantastic potential for roadside marketing," he said.

The fruit and vegetable specialist remarked that Prince Edward has "a moderate number" of umbrella-covered table stands and only a few highly organized roadside stands. "If the farmers put out a wide variety of fruits and vegetables of top quality there would be a significant profit in it," observed Mr. Cobbledick. He added that most roadside markets in the county now are operated by farmers whose crops are under factory contracts. For this reason, only a few baskets of produce are placed on the roadside stands.

If Prince Edward farmers decide to compete in roadside marketing, Mr. Cobbledick suggests that tomatoes and sweet corn would be the most popular vegetables sold. "People are interested in these crops fresh from the field and in season," he emphasized.

The fruit and vegetable specialist estimated that the roadside marketing season could begin in the county in June and continue through October. He listed asparagus, strawberries, raspberries, cucumbers, beans, cabbage, potatoes, sour cherries, sweet corn, pears, tomatoes, apples and cider as sale produce.

Farmers who specialize in corn could enjoy extra profits through selling buttered corn on the cob. Mr. Cobbledick recalled an Essex County farmer who is now doing "a thriving business" marketing this treat on a main highway.

He added that farmers do not necessarily have to grow the produce sold at their roadside stands. Many of them could concentrate on simply marketing fruit and vegetables and still record a profit.

'Roadside marketing needs organization and presentation," stressed Mr. Cobbledick. In the case of presentation, many display booklets and brochures are obtainable without cost from the Ontario department of agriculture and foods. These leaflets offer suggestions for varied uses of the fruits and vegetables sold by the farmer."

Mr. Cobbledick discussed the profits in roadside marketing by referring to recent figures released to his department. It has been stated that from 25 to 35 per cent of Ontario's fruits and vegetables are marketed on roadside stands.

"Since $36 million worth of fruit is grown in Ontario and $55 million worth of vegetables, the total reaches $91 million," he commented. If thirty per cent of this is sold at roadside stands then this type of marketing yields approximately $25 million.

Roadside marketing and its potential for Prince Edward County farmers will be among the topics discussed Thursday, February 25, during a vegetable growers' meeting at Prince Edward Yacht Club. John Vandenberg, marketing specialist, Vineland, will explain the future of the roadside stand.

International Conference Slated for Four Seasons

The Ontario Traffic Conference, with delegates from all across the province and some American states in attendance, will be one of the first big functions at the new Four Seasons Motel when it opens in April.

The traffic conference, being held in Belleville for the first time is scheduled for April 25-28. More than 300 delegates are expected to be in attendance.

Planning for the conference is already under way with committees being set up to handle program requirements at the local level. Alderman Mrs. Jean Smith is chairman of the committee planning entertainment for wives who will be accompanying their delegate husbands to the convention.

City Traffic and Light Committee chairman Arthur Keegan said that provincial premier designate Hon. William Davis has been invited to attend the convention civic night banquet to be presided over by Mayor J. Russell Scott.

Poor Excuse Better Than None

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Skip Clare Purdy blames the ice for Nova Scotia's four straight losses in the Canadian women's curling championship.

"I know it's a poor excuse," she said Tuesday night, "but it's true.

"The ice is heavy here and our ice at home is very keen."

Sue Ann Bartlett's Newfoundland rink trounced Nova Scotia 12-4 in the fourth round.

Nova Scotia lost 13-3 to Saskatchewan in the third, 14-3 to Alberta in the second and 13-4 to New Brunswick in the first.

"You have to adjust to this kind of ice and the girls haven't yet," Mrs. Purdy said.

Temperature at ice-level rose to 45 degrees at one point in Tuesday's play. Most curlers prefer about 35.

Four rinks went into today's fifth round with 3-1 records—Prince Edward Island skipped by Marie Toole, Kay Baldwin's Alberta rink, defending-champion Saskatchewan skipped by Vera Pezer and Mrs. Mabel Mitchell's Manitoba team.

Newfoundland, Ina Hansen's British Columbia rink and Quebec skipped by Nicole Janelle had 2-2 records. Helen Sillman's Ontario team and New Brunswick skipped by Shirley Pilsen had 1-3 records.

Saskatchewan defeated Quebec 10-7, Manitoba edged British Columbia 10-9, Prince Edward Island defeated New Brunswick 8-5 and Alberta defeated Ontario 10-5 in the fourth round.

In the third, British Columbia edged Alberta 10-9, Quebec defeated New Brunswick 11-3, Manitoba defeated Newfoundland 8-5 and Prince Edward Island defeated Ontario 9-5.

Although the western rinks were regarded as among the most powerful, Miss Toole said Prince Edward Island does not fear them above the others.

"I fear them all but we'll meet them as they come.

"We're hoping to do fairly well," she said, recalling the province won four games last year and six in 1969.

She planned no special strategy but it was "usually a takeout game."

Helps Bruins Dump Buffalo 6-3

Buyck Makes Bid for Byng

Johnny Bucyk, in his 14th season with Boston Bruins, appears determined to improve his second-place finish in last year's balloting for the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League player best combining sportsmanship with ability.

The 35-year-old Edmonton native fired his 38th-goal this season and the 35th of his career0 as the Bruins dumped Buffalo Sabres 6-3 in the only game Tuesday night.

In tonight's action, Montreal Canadiens meet California Golden Seals at Oakland, New York Rangers play host to Philadelphia Flyers, St. Louis Blues tangle with the Penguins at Pittsburgh and Los Angeles Kings visit Minnesota North Stars.

Bucyk, who became the 10th NHL player to reach the 350-goal mark, added two assists and his goal touched off a three-goal outburst that locked up the game for Boston.

With the 38 goals and 46 assists, Bucyk pulled into sole possession of fourth place in the NHL's scoring race. His 84 points, together with only four minutes in penalties this season, make him a prime candidate for the Lady Byng.

The Bruins took a one-goal lead late in the first period when Derek Sanderson connected with his 22nd marker. John McKenzie made it 2-0 only seconds into the second period before Steven Atkinson got the first Buffalo score.

Then Bucyk, Phil Esposito and Ken Hodge scored for Boston within a seven-minute span. Esposito's goal, his 51st of the season, gave the league's scoring leader 114 points.

Gil Perreault of Buffalo, a strong contender for the Calder Memorial Trophy as best rookie of the year, scored his 30th goal late in the period to lift his season's point total to 55.

The teams exchanged third-period goals, Bobby Orr banging in his 29th for the Bruins and Tracy Pratt getting his first for Buffalo.

JOHNNY BUCYK

Orr's goal plus two assists increased his point output to 101, second to Esposito.

Boston increased its East Division lead to nine points over New York, second with 92. Buffalo remained one point ahead of cellar-dwelling Vancouver Canucks, who have 42 points, and one behind Detroit Red Wings.

Earlier in the day, Minnesota completed two trades in hope of strengthening it's fourth-place position in the West Division. The North Stars are one point ahead of Pittsburgh with 52 points, and one behind Philadelphia.

The North Stars sent centre Danny O'Shea to Chicago Black Hawks for left winger Doug Mohns and centre Terry Gaffrey. A few hours later, they traded centre Tommy Williams to California for centre Ted Hampson.

O'Shea, 25, scored 25 goals and 58 assists in two seasons with Minnesota and had 14 goals and 12 assists this year. Mohns, 37, scored four goals for Chicago this season for a career total of 234 while Caffrey had 11 goals and 31 assists with Dallas in the Central Hockey League.

Williams, 30, had been dropped from the North Stars early this month for insubordination. The North Stars also will send a player, to be named at the end of the season, for Hampson who scored 10 goals and assisted on 20 others.

Ottawa Given 'Snow Job'

A Montreal snowstorm and a third-period scoring splurge Tuesday night put St Catharines Black Hawks into third place in the four-team fight for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The third period comeback at St. Catharines gave the Hawks seven goals and a 7-8 win over last-place Niagara Falls Flyers.

A snowstorm forced postponement of a game between Ottawa 67s and Montreal Junior Canadians, giving the Hawks a chance to move past Montreal.

The Hawks lead Montreal by one point and trail second-place Ottawa by three points and first-place Peterborough by four. Ottawa and Montreal each have two games in hand over the other two clubs.

In Tuesday's only other game, Hamilton Red Wings took over sixth place by edging ninth-place Oshawa Generals 3-2.

The Flyers controlled play for the first two periods, leading the Hawks 3-0 going into the third period, but the Hawks came back with six goals in the first five minutes of the final period.

Black Hawk captain Marcel Dionne scored two goals and added two assists to push his season scoring total to 101 points, for his third 100-point season in a row.

Brian McKenzie and Clyde Simon also had two goals each for St. Catharines, with Bob MacMillan adding one.

Gary Holt, Morris Titanic and Don McCulloch scored one goal each for Niagara Falls.

Hamilton broke a sixth-place tie with Kitchener Rangers by beating Oshawa, but the Rangers still have three games in hand. The loss left the Generals four points behind London Knights, who occupy the eighth and final playoff spot.

Rick Kehoe, Russ Friesen and Ron LeBlanc were the Hamilton scorers. Jack Lynch and Tom Simpson scored for Oshawa.

Orr Breaks 100

Bobby Orr scored one goal and assisted on another in Boston Bruins 6-3 National Hockey League victory over Buffalo Sabres Tuesday night and pushed his points total this season to 101, thus becoming only the second NHL player to crack the 100-point mark twice.

Well 'Schooled' Family

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Curling is a family affair for Saskatchewan's entry in the Canadian schoolboy curling championships this year.

The rink from Moose Jaw, which went into the fifth round today with a 4-0 record, includes two brothers and a cousin.

Greg Montgomery, 17, skips the rink, while his 15-year-old brother Jeff throws second. Rocky Verborm, 15, is lead and cousin to the Montgomerys.

And Stan Montgomery, a sergeant of detectives with the Moose Jaw city police department, coaches his sons and nephew.

To complete the picture, the father of third Don Despins, 16, curls on a rink skipped by Stan Montgomery.

"The boys get along really well together," dad Montgomery said, "and team spirit is good."

Although skip Greg Montgomery is taking a wait-and-see attitude towards the competition, it seems obvious his rink will finish high on the list.

He refused to predict his rink's chances, saying the other teams "had to be good to get here."

But Saskatchewan was responsible for both B.C.'s and Northern Ontario's only losses, and also had victories over Ontario and Quebec.

Today, in the fifth round which gets under way at 5:30 p.m. EST, Alberta plays Northern Ontario, Nova Scotia meets B.C., Saskatchewan plays Newfoundland, Quebec meets P.E.I. and Ontario meets Manitoba. New Brunswick has the bye.

After four rounds of play standings were Saskatchewan 4-0, Manitoba 3-0, Alberta and B.C. 3-1, Northern Ontario 2-1 and New Brunswick and Ontario 2-2. Quebec was 1-3, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland each had three losses, and Prince Edward Island was in last place with four losses.

Saskatchewan faced tough competition in the fourth round Tuesday when they defeated Doug Smith's Thunder Bay rink 6-5 in an extra end.

Montgomery's quartet came from behind to score two in the final end and defeat B.C. 9-8 in the second round.

They had an easier time with Ontario and Quebec, scoring wins of 9-6 and 10-3, respectively.

The boys, all students at Vanier high in Moose Jaw, have been playing together for three years.

British Columbia curled well Tuesday, scoring a 5-4 upset in the third round over the favored Dave Haley rink from Alberta and an 8-5 victory over P.E.I., playing without skip Glen Mahar, troubled by a painful arm injury.

In other fourth-round games, Alberta downed Quebec 12-7, Manitoba defeated New Brunswick 9-6 and Ontario edged Nova Scotia 6-5. Newfoundland had the bye.

In the third round, Northern Ontario scored a 13-5 victory over Newfoundland and New Brunswick downed Nova Scotia 13-9. Ontario took a 7-4 win over P.E.I. and Manitoba had the bye.

The 11-team round robin tournament ends Friday.

Mo-Hawks Bury Eight A's In 4-Pointer

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Hopefully, Art Fraser's mother told him there'd be nights like this.

The Woodstock goalkeeper bore the brunt of the joke that was Tuesday night's 21-3 senior hockey loss to Belleville Mo-Hawks.

Dave Jones steered Belleville's first of 58 shots by Fraser after only 17 seconds of play, and the Mo-Hawks continued their goal-every-three-minute average right up until five seconds before the final siren.

WAYNE McCONNELL

In addition to Fraser, seven other Woodstock players drove to Belleville to go through the formality of dropping four gift points into Mo-Hawk laps.

The four points, representing two Belleville - Woodstock games postponed earlier in the season, gave the Mo-Hawks 38, and at least temporary possession of the senior league's fourth playoff spot ahead of Kingston and Oakville, tied with 37.

If a Kingston protest over the use by Owen Sound of goalie Tom Coughlin Sunday is rejected by the OHA today, the Mo-Hawks will retain fourth place and open a best-of-seven semi-final series in Galt Saturday night.

If Kingston's protest is upheld, the Aces would wind up in fourth, and the fifth-place Mo-Hawks would open a quarter-final series in Orillia Friday.

Another protest — by Owen Sound against Woodstock — amounts to nothing after last night's Belleville win evaporated a slim Crescent chance to tie for the sixth and final playoff spot.

The Mo-Hawk game plan was fairly straightforward Tuesday night: score goals.

Wayne McConnell proved to be the best at executing the directive, coming up with six goals to give him 23 for the year.

Dave Jones scored five and assisted on six, while Lorne O'Donnell's mere hat trick looked petty, under the circumstances.

Ray Johnston took advantage of the Woodstock visit to enjoy a rare offensive-minded game. The sticky backchecker piled up eight points, including two goals.

Two goals and five assists by Doug Senior gave him a 19-23-42 point record and the club title, despite the fact the Trenton centre played an injury-abbreviated 31-game season.

That broke a two-year monopoly by George Godson, who had been this season's leader with 40 points, before missing the last two games of the schedule because of a family bereavement.

Ralph Plane, Les Colligan, and Al Ferguson also scored Mo-Hawk goals.

Steve Rexe blanked the hapless A's on five first-period shots, and was replaced by Bob Moon early in the second.

Moon kept the shutout intact until 1.47 of the final period, when Gerry Harrigan scored for Woodstock to the sympathetic roar of approval of 405 spectators.

Mike Pezzin and Gerry Stringle also scored third period goals in what may be the final senior hockey game played by a Woodstock club for some time.

In addition to not bringing many players, the A's also arrived without sweaters, and borrowed the Mo-Hawks' red road tops.

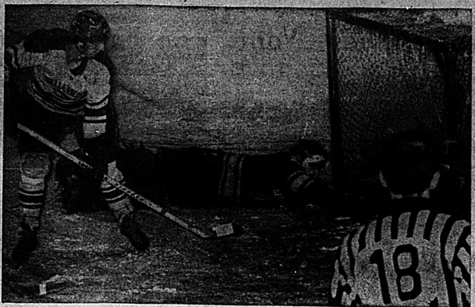
Most of the spectators probably failed to notice that the Mo-Hawk lineup was not exactly bulging at the seams.

Besides Godson, the locals were missing the services of centre Bill Armour and defenceman Lou Kazowski. Al Ferguson rested a sprained ankle after the opening 20 minutes, leaving 11 Mo-Hawk skaters.

Les Colligan had a five-point night nursing a broken finger, and fast moving defenceman Mike Rexe picked up three assists in the scoring avalanche playing with a bruised ankle.

There were no penalties called in the entire game, which resembled a no-contact scrimmage as much as anything.

At the midway point, Woodstock winger Gerry Harrigan skated by the penalty box and puffed "How about straight time?"



Action Central

Woodstock goalie Art Fraser's crease was the busiest hockey spot in the province last night as Belleville Mo-Hawks buried the visiting A's 21-3.

Here Lorne O'Donnell scores one of his three goals on Fraser, who borrowed a Belleville road sweater for the game.

Pete Conacher Familiar Here For Two Reasons

Some members of the National Hockey League Old-Timers troupe are familiar in more ways than one.

Pete Conacher, for example, should be doubly-recognized when the Old-Timers play a Belleville contingent of shinny veterans here Friday night.

Conacher, 39, a member of Canadian sport's most celebrated families, was a respectable journeyman NHL-er for four seasons in the Fifties with Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers.

He scored 19 goals for the 1953-54 Black Hawks, who at that time, were the league's perennial basement tenants.

But Belleville area hockey buffs remember him as a member of the Macs contingent who brought the World Championship home in 1959. Conacher joined the Macs shortly before their trip to Prague.

Falling into the same category is "Ike" Hildebrand, another "Mac" who had NHL experience.

Hildebrand and Conacher have been making regular appearances in the Toronto-based NHL Old-Timers' exhibition games, and could be playing against former Belleville teammates when they are in town for Friday's 9 p.m. Memorial Arena game.

Former Macs Floyd Crawford, Jean-Paul Lamirande, Turk Barclay and Fiori Goegan are among those who will oppose the NHL veterans in a fund-raiser for the city's junior B and minor all-star hockey teams.

Advance tickets are on sale at McKnight's and Thomas' downtown variety outlets, with adult admissions going at $1, including a chance on a wrist-watch draw. Adult tickets will be $1.25 at the door Friday, without a draw chance. Children will be admitted for 50 cents.

Russians Cut Top Figures

LYON, France (CP) — The Russians seemed certain to win their first gold medal of the world figure skating championships and possibly a silver one as well tonight in the pairs competition.

The Russians also held a slight lead in the dance event and Czechoslovakia the top spot in the men's singles. The women's singles is still to come.

All nine judges picked Ludmila Smirnova and Andrei Suraikin of Russia for first place after the compulsory school figures were completed Tuesday night, giving them 104.2 judging points. The final free-skating phase is on tonight.

Irini Rudnina and Sergei Ulanov, defending champions and winners of the recent European championship, were placed second by each judge and given 102.6 points. Joe Starbuck and Ken Shelley of the United States were third with 99 points.

Sandra and Val Bezic of Toronto were ninth among the 12 couples competing and had 93.1 points. The young brother and sister—Sandra is 14 and Val 18—were 14th in their initial try at the title last year.

The two Europeans were the star performers in four rounds of compulsory figures which left Toller Cranston of Lachine, Que., far behind in 16th place among 22 starters.

Cranston, who trains in Toronto, ended his Tuesday performance with 573.7 points, compared with 698.1 for Nepela and 695.5 for Pera.

Cranston, ranked behind women's singles star Karen Magnussen of Vancouver among top Canadian hopes at the current championships, appeared to do less than well in the all-important task of tracing out his initial figures before proceeding with the later stages of his compulsories.

The Lyon debut of the 18-year-old Miss Magnussen has been preceded here and elsewhere in Europe by much press publicity which may create for her a sympathetic spectator reaction to her efforts.

The women begin their school figures Thursday, complete them Friday, and close the show Saturday night with free skating. Diane Hall, 18, of Toronto, and Ruth Hatchinson, 19, of Vancouver, also are entered in the women's singles.

Sutherland Seeks Job Security

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Gary Sutherland, still shuddering over the batting slump that beset him last season, has worked mightily to overcome his miseries.

He is determined today to hang on to his job as second baseman with Montreal Expos of the National League.

Sutherland hit only .206 last season, the worst by far in his four years of major league baseball. He was relegated to part-time duty and played in only 116 games, compared with 141 the previous season when he hit .239.

Immediately after the season, Sutherland went to the Expos' Instructional League camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., and put himself in the hands of Larry Doby, the former American League slugger and now Expos' batting coach and tutor.

Sutherland worked long and hard and was an extra-early show-up at West Palm Beach to continue correction of his faults, still under Doby.

"Doby has helped me considerably," Sutherland said. "I just couldn't have been any worse than last year—what's more, my mental outlook has improved.

Sutherland, 26, played two seasons with Philadelphia before being picked by Montreal in the National League expansion draft Oct. 14, 1968. He hit .247 and .275 with the Phillies.

Sutherland is aware of the competition that faces him this season. Last year he was more or less platooned with Marv Staehle, who hit .218.

But this year Sutherland not only faces competition from Staehle but from experienced Ron Hunt, acquired on the off-season from San Francisco Giants.

NEW YORK (CP) — The late Terry Sawchuk, goalkeeper for five National Hockey League teams during 20 NHL seasons, has been chosen a posthumous winner of the Lester Patrick Memorial Trophy for 1971, it was announced Tuesday.

Ranked at or near the top of the list of all-time great netminders, Sawchuk established numerous records, including most career shutouts (103), most regular-season games played (956) and most seasons played.

He will be honored during the sixth annual Lester Patrick award dinner here March 9. The Patrick Trophy is for outstanding service to hockey in the United States and is in memory of the former general manager and coach of New York Rangers.

Sawchuk played for four U.S. teams and Toronto Maple Leafs. Thirteen of his seasons were spent with Detroit Red Wings and, earlier this month he was enshrined in the Red Wings' Hall of Fame. He also played for Boston Bruins, Los Angeles Kings and finally, New York Rangers.

Sawchuk died last May 31 at age 40.

It's try-out time for Milwaukee Bucks again.

With a convincing 118-107 National Basketball Association victory over San Francisco Warriors Tuesday night, the Bucks clinched a tie for the Midwest Division title.

In other NBA games, San Diego Rockets rushed past New York Knicks' 126-109, Philadelphia '76ers downed Portland Trail Blazers 119-113 and Los Angeles Lakers overcame Baltimore Bullets 114-107.

Now Bucks' Coach Larry Costello is taking a long look at his bench with one month left to go in the regular season. Although the NBA doesn't keep such records, it is believed to be the earliest division-clinching in the league history.

Even with the "bench-warmers" in the game, Milwaukee had an easy time downing the Warriors for the sixth time this season.

Oscar Robertson paced the Bucks with 26 points, one more than Lew Alcindor, and established a club record for assists. The old mark, set in the 1968-69 season by Guy Rodgers, was 561.

Robertson, the NBA's career leader, now has 563.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Everyone seems to be asking "Can Arnie do it?" in the 53rd Professional Golfers Association championship.

Arnold Palmer's victory in the Bob Hope Classic 10 days ago rekindled the hopes of his all-volunteer army that he might finally capture the only major title that has eluded him.

"Wnning the Hope Classic relieved some of the pressure," Palmer said Tuesday. "Coming into the PGA—which I've never taken—would have been tough if I hadn't won anything for 14 months."

"I've been second in the PGA three times," he said. "It's no secret how badly I want it."

The 72-hole shootout begins Thursday on the East course at PGA National Golf Club, a layout of 7,096 yards bathed in praise by the pros themselves.

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — San Francisco Giants face the future—the next few days of spring training, anyway—without star outfielder Willie Mays.

Owner Horace Stoneham told a news conference here Tuesday that holdout Mays is remaining in Phoenix and that negotiations on his 1971 contract have broken down. Stoneham said he expects no change until Mays' financial mentor, former Giants manager Herman Franks, arrives Friday or Saturday from Salt Lake City where Franks is in business.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — John Longden, who retired as a jockey in 1966 after setting a record for riding victories, has resigned as trainer for the Frank McMahon stables.

Longden has been a trainer for McMahon, a Vancouver industrialist and longtime friend, since he stepped down after riding 6,032 winners, a mark exceeded last year by Bill Shoemaker.

It was reported that Longden, 63, wants to help his wife Hazel train her horses, including a possible Kentucky Derby contender, Diplomatic Agent. Longden was unavailable for comment Tuesday, but his wife denied he was leaving McMahon to assist her.

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — A goal by Maurice Desfosses at 1:11 of the third period enabled St. Jerome Alouettes to post a 4-3 win over Cornwall Royals in a Quebec Junior A Hockey League game Tuesday night.

Serge Rock, Pierre Archambault and Gilles Bouchard scored the other St. Jerome markers while John Wensink, Michel Renaud and Gerry Teeple were the Royals' marksmen.

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Chuck Dobson has thrown baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn a curve by making a pitch for the "greenie."

While other pitchers loosened up their throwing arms at spring training camps Tuesday, the Oakland Athletes right-hander, questioned about baseball's upcoming drug seminars, admitted that he has taken pills called greenies and said: "I don't see anything wrong in it."

Dobson will attend one of the seminars, set for next month to begin a drug education and prevention program in baseball, as Oakland's player representative.

"I had to pitch last year with the flu," Dobson said at the club's training base, "so I took a greenie and pitched a shutout.

"If he (commissioner Kuhn) says we can't use them, well, I'd just want him to put on a uniform for 162 games in 180 days and see what he says then."

Kuhn has said there is no place in baseball for amphetamines, or pep pills, and barbiturates. Dobson said the greenies, which contain destroamphetamine sulfate and amobarbital, have been in use since he began playing pro ball six years ago.

He added, however, that no one on the Oakland club is dependent on the pills.

"That's what you've got to watch," he said. "You can't let them be a crutch. You're in trouble if you say 'I need them.' "

Laxer Raps Lewis

TORONTO (CP) — A candidate for the national leadership of the New Democratic Party charged Tuesday that Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, is interfering improperly in the leadership race.

James Laxer, a history instructor at Queen's University, Kingston, said in an interview Mr. Lewis is interfering by means of his attacks on the party's Waffle group.

Mr. Laxer, one of the leading proponents of the Waffle policies of economic nationalism and Quebec self-determination, criticized as improper Mr. Lewis' suggestion that debate between the Waffle group and the rest of the party should be shut off because of the approaching provincial election.

"Everybody agrees that when an election campaign is on we should be united on the party program," said Mr. Laxer. "But right now we're carrying out a debate on the national level and no provincial politician is going to stop it."

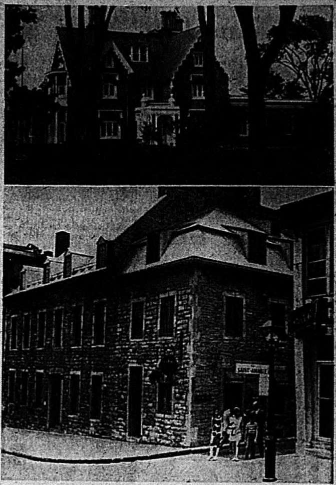
Mr. Laxer also repeated previous charges that Mr. Lewis misrepresented the Waffle position in a speech last Sunday in Waterloo. Mr. Lewis said then the Waffle's policy that the NDP recognize the right to self-determination of Quebec should be rejected as "perverse" and "almost indefensible."

Mr. Laxer said the Quebec NDP last weekend endorsed the Waffle's call for Quebec's right to self-determination.

"It was very unwise for him to make that speech because he generated a conflict between the Ontario NDP and the Quebec NDP."

Mr. Laxer said the Waffle stand does not mean the group was pro-separatist or favored an alliance with the Parti Quebecois, a separatist Quebec provincial party.

"The call for self-determination just simply means it's the free choice of the people of Quebec to decide their future," he said.



A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows more people are becoming interested in saving historic buildings in Canada but often have trouble raising money to help their cause. Among some of the buildings saved for posterity are Sir John A. Macdonald's home "Earnscliffe" (top) in Ottawa and an old house in Old Montreal (bottom) which was owned by statesman and publisher Denis Wiger. (CP Photo)

Ford Shuns British Expansion

LONDON (Rueter) — A decision by the Ford Motor Co. of the United States not to locate a $68 million plant in Britain, apparently motivated by a three-week strike, has dealt a blow to hopes here for an expansion of British industry.

Ford is the fourth large company which within the last few weeks has either shelved or dropped plans for establishing bigger plants in Britain.

For some months, the U.S. headquarters of Ford has been planning the establishment outside the United States of a special plant to manufacture car engines. An investment of about $68 million was envisaged and a labor force of several thousand men would have been recruited.

Britain, where Ford of Britain already has several plants, was regarded as the favored site for the new enterprise.

Farm Federation Wants Education Costs Paid by Income Tax

OTORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Tuesday a proposal it will put before the provincial government in March would reduce by more than 90 per cent the education taxes paid by Ontario farmers.

Federation President Gordon Hill told a news conference Tuesday his organization will propose that education taxes be paid through income taxes instead of property taxes.

Under the proposal a levy of 3.27 per cent would be placed on personal taxable income and 11.61 per cent on corporate taxable income.

The two tax rates would match the $409 million currently paid by education taxes on property and the $326 million being raised on commercial property taxes for education.

He proposed that the education tax on income be exempt from taxable income for federal income-tax purposes.

Mr. Hill said that "farmers would benefit" under his proposal, but declined to speculate on the effect his proposal would have on education costs for urban residential and commercial taxpayers.

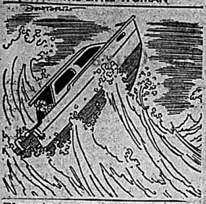
Under the scheme the federal government would collect the tax together with regular income tax and then transfer it to the province which would then distribute it to the school boards.

Last fall the province announced it would rebate 25 per cent of net property taxes to farmers after the federation threatened to encourage members to withhold the education portion of their taxes.

Federation membership includes members of county federations and commodity organizations and some direct members.

Walter Miller, vice-president of the rival National Farmers' Union, said in a telephone interview from Guelph that his organization would not lend support to the federation propose'

THE LITTLE WOMAN



"Now you've done it! You've ruined the dinner!"

NDP Sees Development Corporation Aiding Rich

OTTAWA (CP) — The proposed Canada Development Corp. would take money from all income levels and put it at the disposal of those with enough money to invest, an NDP critic said Tuesday.

Doug Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) told the Commons the concept of the bill to create the corporation is inequitable.

"The corporation would use as its nucleus tax revenue in the amount of $250 million over three years, money which will come from all Canadians, including the poor and the economically marginal. . . ."

The latter, he said, would have no money to invest because all their money goes for essentials and for taxes.

"This money will be put at the disposal of those with enough surplus money to indulge in investment, so that the money collected from all income groups will be put at the service of a minority who are neither poor, unemployed, nor underprivileged."

Mr. Rowland was arguing in favor of an NDP amendment to the bill that would scrap the concept of an independent private corporation started by government funds, and replace it with a Crown corporation responsible to Parliament.

The bill proposes that the government put $250 million into the CDC over three years, then open it to private investment to a maximum capitalization of $1 billion.

The government would end up with perhaps a 10 per cent interest in a private corporation designed to channel public and private funds into industrial growth programs, while private interests would be limited to holding three per cent of voting shares each.

Debate on second reading of the bill was to continue today.

Mr. Rowland condemned the proposal for the corporation on the grounds that its dedication to the profit motive would make it ineffectual in correcting regional economic disparities, repatriating the economy and bringing a halt to exporting by developing secondary industries to process raw materials now exported in their primary form.

Martin O'Connell (L—Toronto Scarborough East), parliamentary secretary to Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand, was as positive about the bill as Mr. Rowland was negative.

Henri Latulippe (Creditiste—Compton) said he didn't think the time had come to establish a development corporation in Canada.

Already there were many fields of industry not making a profit and producing at half capacity because they didn't have buyers.

In 1970, he said, Canadian industry produced $84 billion worth of goods, but sold only $54 billion worth.

Now the government wanted to create a super-corporation that would close some businesses rather than taking measures to increase the purchasing power of Canadians so existing businesses could survive.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) said the proposed corporation could, if handled properly, help Canadians control more of the country's development.

But to attract investment it would have to guarantee that the security and return on investment would be at least as good as that offered by savings accounts and Canada Savings Bonds.

It should not, he said, be used to take over Canadian firms threatened by U.S. takeover unless it could be proved that the takeover would be detrimental to Canada's sovereignty or harmful to the industry in question.

And it should not be used as a "pork barrel" institution that would permit government MPs to apply pressure for funding of industries in their ridings.

Independent Canada Urged

HALIFAX (CP) — A official of the Committee for an Independent Canada was here Tuesday in an effort to establish regional chapters of the committee which is calling for Canadians to have more control over their economy.

Flora MacDonald, head of the department of political science at Queen's University, Kingston said the committee is "concerned about whether Canada can survive independently."

Miss MacDonald said "if we want to become a part of the United States then let's decide to do so and not let it happen by default."

Talk Heard of Possible Federal Vote in Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Among Liberals, there is talk—not a lot yet, but some—about the possibility of a federal general election in the fall.

This talk has spread to the Conservatives. In fact, more Conservatives than Liberals seem to be saying there is a chance of an election in September or October.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield has warned his supporters to be ready for an election at any time.

Sources close to Prime Minister Trudeau are inclined to discount any election this year but a prominent Liberal said Tuesday in an interview: "Don't discount the possibility. It's something to be looked at seriously in a few months."

Liberals who advance the theory of a fall election predict economic indicators will show by summer a business upturn with a reduced unemployment rate and relatively small growth in inflation.

They maintain that Mr. Trudeau would be better advised to call an election this fall than wait for the spring or early summer of 1972 after another winter of possibly high unemployment.

The decision is Mr. Trudeau's alone, though a lot of people and events can have an influence on that decision.

Mr. Trudeau does not have to hold another election until June, 1973, but nobody expects him to wait the full five years, by which time he would have lost the big advantage of timing.

Liberals who favor, at the moment, a fall election say Mr. Trudeau will have to wait until the summer before making a decision.

Two major factors would then be taken into account: The economic indicators and the success, or otherwise, of the next constitutional conference in Victoria in June.

Would there be a backlash against such cynical timing?

Not at all, a composed opposition MP said. The timing of all general elections was completely cynical and everybody accepted this. The party in power naturally tried to pick an election time which best suited its chances of success. Mr. Trudeau had done exactly this in 1968.

Another opposition MP said a fall election will depend entirely on how fast the economy recovers from the winter slump. Autumn might be a time of recovery and too early for inflation, he said.

Some Liberals would appear to favor a 1972 election on the theory that there will be an economic boom stimulated in the United States as President Nixon prepares for a 1972 fall election and that this boom will slop over into Canada.

Alcan Subsidiary Is Accused of Contempt for Guyanese

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (CP-Reuter) — Accusing Canadian-owned Demerara Bauxite Co. of "a basic contempt for the Guyanese people." Prime Minister Forbes Burnham announced Tuesday his government's decision to nationalize the multi-million-dollar subsidiary of the Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd.

The prime minister made his widely-expected announcement in a speech to thousands of people gathered in the national park here for celebrations marking the first anniversary of the Guyanese co-operative republic.

Burnham is a socialist who wants control of the foreign-owned resource wealth of this former British colony returned to the people. He accused Demerara Bauxite (Demba) and Alcan of being callous, with a tradition in Guyana—known as British Guiana in colonial days—of prejudice, discrimination, segregation, intolerance "and a recognition of workers' rights only as a last resort after strikes and stoppages."

"It bespeaks to my mind," he said, "a basic contempt for the Guyanese people."

The nationalization decision was the climax to negotiations going on since last Dec. 7 between representatives of the government and Alcan on Burnham's proposals for majority state ownership of the bauxite company.

Bauxite, a major mineral resource of this republic on the northern coast of South America, is refined by Alcan and other North American industries into aluminum.

In Montreal, Alcan said Tuesday the company does not expect that the proposed nationalization of its bauxite operation in Guyana will affect its aluminum smelting undertakings in Canada.

Although it said it regrets the breakdown of negotiations between the government and company, Alcan will make "every effort to ensure" that the turning over of the Demba operation to Guyana will be carried out "in an orderly way."

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin told the Commons Tuesday the government regrets the breakdown in talks between Guyanese officials and representatives of the Aluminum Co. of Canada resulting in the announcement that an Alcan subsidiary in Guyana will be nationalized.

Mr. Pepin's statement, in reply to questions by Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hillsborough), followed an earlier statement by Guyana Prime Minister Forbes Burnham in Georgetown that his government had decided to nationalize the multi-million-dollar Demerara Bauxite Co., an Alcan subsidiary.

Mr. Pepin said the government could not tell Guyana how to run its affairs but firm representations had been made by Canada in efforts to avoid the nationalization.

Turner Plans To Let Judges Release Guilty

OTTAWA (CP) — Judges would be able to avoid imposing criminal records on minor offenders under a bill expected to come before Parliament by Easter.

The bill would amend the Criminal Code to allow a judge to discharge an offender after guilt was established at the trial.

The trial would be interrupted before conviction, and the offender discharged absolutely or freed on conditions set by the judge.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons justice committee Tuesday an amendment to this effect will be part of a package bill of Criminal Code amendments.

The bill, which will include wiretapping legislation as well, is expected to be introduced in the Commons before Easter, Mr. Turner said.

The procedure would apply primarily to first offenders accused of summary offences or indictable offences punishable by under two years in prison.

Among the indictable offences would be theft under $50, common assault, false pretences, and driving while under suspension.

Summary offences would include vagrancy, causing a disturbance, failure to provide a breath sample, public drunkenness, obscene or harassing telephone calls, and pretending to practise witchcraft.

The interrupted trial procedure was recommended last year in the report of the Canadian committee on corrections under Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet of Montreal.

The Ouimet committee said the system would "avoid the damaging consequences of the existence of a criminal record."

It noted that juvenile courts and some adult courts already use this system, in effect, through lengthy adjournments in mid-trial.

THE POLAR PASSION by Farley Mowat.

A unique collection of journals and accounts of early Arctic exploration; stories of courage and endurance, of man learning to live with his environment. The author feels the Arctic is now largely a forgotten area and hopes to stir up some of the spirit of adventure which inspired those early explorers to open up this vast untapped region.

THE ART OF THE ESKIMO by Shirley Glubok.

The Arctic winters are long and dark, and for several months of the year the sun never shines. During these dark months and over many centuries the Eskimo has developed his own strong and vigorous art. He is a hunter, and almost all his art tells of the hunter and the animals he hunts. With a minimum of materials and a great deal of creativity, the Eskimo tells the story of his culture.

ACROSS THE TOP OF THE WORLD by Wally Herbert.

The author of this book of adventure led an expedition across the top of the world. Why? Because it had never been done before. Such is the spirit that drives men to explore the unknown. The journey began on February 21, 1968, at Point Barrow in Alaska and their destination was Spitzbergen, 2,000 miles away. It is the story of the biggest journey, both in time and distance, in the whole history of Polar exploration, and is told in a highly personal and intimate manner.

HUNTERS OF THE ARCTIC by Roger Frison-Roche.

It is estimated that in 50 years time there will be no full - blooded Eskimos left. The airlines are opening up these Northern lands, and its two peoples, Indians and Eskimos, are being slowly assimilated. The author spent a winter living with these traditional hunters, and this book is the fascinating account of their day - to - day lives.

NORTH TO DANGER by Walt Morey and Virgil Burford.

This is a modern day adventure story. Virgil Burford went to Alaska as a boy of 14. His first job called for going below in a diving suit and cutting a killer whale out of a salmon trap with wire clippers. When anything went wrong in the chill depths off the Alaska coast, Burford was called in. He seems to be one of those individuals driven by curiosity, who stalks adventure at every turn. He prospected, hunted the Kodiak bear, and sailed with the notorious Alaskan fish pirates; all of which he tells about in this fascinating book.

KLONDIKE '70 — THE ALASKAN OIL BOOM by D. J. Chasan.

When in March 1968, the Atlantic Richfield Oil Company struck oil near Prudhoe Bay in Alaska, it was described as "another Kuwait". At a time when there is so much discussion about the rights of minorities, and people are becoming increasingly concerned about the abuse of our natural environment, this rich strike raises many questions. The author discusses these questions with a knowledge acquired while living among these native people.

THE HOWLING ARCTIC by Ray Price.

These are stories told by an expert story - teller about that part of Canada known as the North-West Territories or the Canadian Arctic. Essentially they are stories about people, the people who have lived there for centuries, the Eskimos. It tells of the first white men in this area and their encounters with the native peoples. Each story gives a vivid insight into the day - to - day existence of the native people in this primitive land where only strong survive.

OTTAWA (CP) — The site of the new Toronto airport will be decided jointly by the Ontario and federal goverments, the Commons was told Monday.

Mr. Jamieson said he hoped to reach a decision jointly with Mr. Davis in a meeting to be held when Mr. Davis becomes premier.

Mr. Jamieson was replying to Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington).

Says Mrs. Logstrup, "I sure do come out ahead shopping at Loblaws. I save money with these new prices". Mrs. Logstrup, who shops for a family of seven adds, "every Wednesday night when the food ads are in the paper I go through them and I find that for what I buy Loblaws have been the lowest. PEI Avoids Let Down HALIFAX (CP) — 'We always seem to get let down somewhere," said Dr. Wendell MacDonald, the Prince Edward Island skip who has failed in six previous attempts to win the Canadian seniors curling championships.

He made that statement Tuesday following his rink's third-round victory over Saskatchewan. In the fourth round, his previously-undefeated rink fell to British Columbia.

Both rinks were undefeated going into the match, B.C. skipped by Gord Moore at 3-0 and P.E.I. with two wins.

Tuesday's play left Saskatchewan with a 3-1 mark followed by Prince Edward Island and Ontario, both with two wins in three starts. Northern Ontario had one win and three losses and Nova Scotia and Manitoba were winless in three starts.

New Brunswick and Newfoundland had 0-4 won-lost records.

The B.C.-P.E.I. game was tied 4-4 in the sixth, before B.C. took a single in the seventh and stole two in the eighth for the margin of victory.

It left Moore's rink in a tie for the top spot in the round-robin event. Harry Cole's Quebec rink and Alberta, skipped by Stu Pierce, also have 4-0 records.

Quebec took an early 5-0 lead against Rudy Steski's Northern Ontario foursome en route to a 10-6 fourth-round victory.

Alberta turned back a valiant effort by winless Newfoundland 7-5, needing singles in the ninth and 10th ends for the victory.

In other fourth-round matches Gord Wallace's Ontario rink hammered the New Brunswick entry skipped by Maurice MacDonald 11-1 and Mac McCrimmon's Saskatchewan quartet smashed Hugh Little's Nova Scotia rink 14-4.

Clay Plans Post Fight Exhibition

MIAMI (AP) — Muhammad Ali said Tuesday night he would like to meet Joe Frazier in an exhibition bout to help a San Diego boys club after Frazier and Ali meet for the world heavyweight boxing title in New York City March 8.

John Condon, boxing publicity director for Madison Square Garden where the championship fight is to take place, mentioned to Ali that the club run by former light heavyweight champion Archie Moore had run into financial problems.

"How much does Archie need?", Ali asked.

When Condon said he didn't know, Ali replied, "You tell Archie that win or lose, I'll come out there and box an exhibition with Frazier if Frazier will agree to it," Condon said.

"The people out there will have to pay to see it and the money will go to those kids," Condon reported.

Moore is also trying to raise $400,000 to build a youth centre, he said.

Frazier could not be reached immediately for comment on Ali's offer.

Expo Trainer 'Paints' Bright Baseball Picture

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Joe Liscio, the hustling trainer for Montreal Expos, is a man of many accomplishments.

He's a physiotherapist, a counsellor and adviser, sympethetic boss of the little clinic at the spring training camp and an incurable optimist. He has also become a painter.

When Liscio and equipment manager Harvey Stone arrived here well ahead of the players, they decided that things needed to be spruced up a bit.

Why not paint? So they painted the floors green. Why green?

"Because we like to look at green-green stuff," Liscio said with a grin.

Stone was more explicit: "We want to get up in the money."

Whatever psychological effect this added, the camp, which is in full swing today, has been a bustling place even in its early stages.

The players appear to be infected with solid confidence that the Expos will move up in the National League this season. The club finished last in its six-team division in its two previous seasons of operation.

Liscio's optimism goes so far as to conjure up visions of a pennant. But he readily admits that happens to him every spring.

"For one thing, Gene Mauch is one of the best managers in baseball," he said. "I've known him a long time—even when he was a player.

"In our first year as an expansion club, the Expos weren't too well schooled in fundamentals, as Gene will tell you," Liscio added. "So he had to bear down, and they improved. There's bound to be further improvement this year."

Liscio is a native of New York. He has lived in California since 1946.

In New York he played football in prep school and college. He went into the United States military service and was sent to Wright Field at Dayton, Ohio. He injured a foot in a service football game and that led to his current vocation.

Jack Homel, for many years the trainer for Detroit Tigers of the American League, was physiotherapist at Wright Field and looked after Joe's injury. Homel asked Liscio if he would be interested in therapy.

Liscio said yes and became Homel's assistant at Dayton.

In 1947 Liscio went to Los Angeles to attend a baseball meeting and joined the Angels, then in the Pacific Coast League. Three years later he was with Chicago Cubs as assistant trainer. Later came moves to Spokane, Wash., in the Western International League, and back to Los Angeles where Mauch was playing with the Dodgers.

Mauch moved on to Boston and Minneapolis and in 1960 became manager of Philadelphia Phillies. He summoned Liscio to join him and in 1969 took him to Montreal.

"In my job I keep in close touch with the manager and coaches," Liscio said. "It makes my work easier.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

'Inplosions', Too, Are Dangerous

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've just finished a friendly debate with a neighbor who says that "it's better to explode and let your feelings out, rather than keep them bottled up." My contention is that when you explode your emotions your're liable to break an artery in the brain or in the heart. Don't you think it's safer to keep your feelings under wrap? — Mrs. N.

Comment: I've often been invited to don the robes and sit in judgment during a friendly argument. Sometimes I disqualify myself from rendering a verdict, because a just one isn't possible.

Consider your own recent "debate" with your friend. I don't even know what emotions you speak about. I'll take a guess.

If you mean that sudden rage and anger are dangerous to some people I'll say yes. Any person with bad coronary arteries or a very high blood pressure certainly invites possible catastrophe when he allows an explosion of emotion to shoot adrenalin into his bloodstream. This causes the blood to pound the arteries in his head and heart.

There have been numerous instances in which such emotional eruptions have produced coronary attacks or stroke. (I suppose that in some minor explosions, all that happens is that the patient just blows off steam and seems better for it.)

But which angry human being is able to say to himself, "I know I'm going to get upset, but I'll make it a minor explosion this time."

Now, Mrs. N., coming to your own theory that it's safer to keep your "feelings under wrap." This may work, too. Nevertheless, there are too many exceptions that prove the rule that keeping one's emotions controlled (I call this "inplosions" in contrast to "explosions") may lead to equally serious complications.

For example, here is a vice president, beat out for the top job, who later admits his bleeding ulcer is due to having kept his resentment against his boss inside, for months "tearing a hole in my stomach."

Or, consider a woman who is sure her high blood pressure is due to years of hating a husband who is a nonprovider and "run-around."

I hope you understand why I can't render a decision, Mrs. N. The truth is that any excess is potentially bad, whether it be "inplosions" or explosions. It pays to try to develop a philosophy of life that will smooth out and level the peaks of negative emotions.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am nearly 80 years of age, but I'm in good shape. I am very active, have a good appetite, do not use alcohol nor have I ever smoked. But lately I have been having trouble with the corners of my mouth being sore. Applying vaseline does not seem to help. Do you have any suggestions? — Mr. V.

Comment: Although you have a good appetite, better check with your doctor to determine whether it is adequate in supplying you with necessary foodstuffs. I've known some patients at 80 who lived on coffee and crullers and thought this was ample diet.

It's possible that a vitamin deficiency may be the cause of the sores. All you may need is supplemental vitamin B complex. But I'm only guessing. As I said, better check with your family doctor, even though you feel well otherwise.

For Mr. B.: Empirical treatment is experimental treatment usually not based upon proved scientific data.

Sydney J. Harris Says

We Are Slaves of Symbols

A friend of mine who has gone to work as administrative aide to the new governor of Ohio, John Gilligan, sent me a note the other day for inclusion in my "Vagaries of Language" file. I thought it was too good to keep.

It seems that a black state legislator was called in to ask if he would be available for acting as a liaison man between the governor and the various minority groups in the state.

He expressed enthusiasm about the job, and complimented the new administration by saying: "You know, until now, we blacks and Mexicans and Puerto Ricans and so on, haven't had a Chinaman's chance here!"

It's interesting that he was wholly unaware of what he was saying. He just used the cliche about "a Chinaman's chance" as a familiar figure of speech, and it bore no ethnic overtones to him. But if some white man had happened to mention "a nigger in the woodpile," it would have been a sticky wicket.

We become the slaves of our symbols, and language hardens and perpetuates old stereotypes until we are as little aware of our captivity to them as a fundamentalist preacher is to fire and brimstone. In fact, to "jew down" somebody has even achieved the dubious distinction of a lower-case entry in the dictionary (labeled, however, "offensive.")

And, of course, "to welsh" on an obligation has long been a part of English speech, even though it is immensely insulting to the Welsh people. Likewise, we have long maligned the splendid Hollanders by our use of "Dutch treat" and "Dutch courage," which we express unconsciously.

For a long time, male contraceptives were known in England and America as "French letters," for no legitimate reason at all, but simply reflecting the Anglo-Saxon delusion that the French are a wildly erotic people, when in truth no nation is less romantic and more prudent or practical than the French.

They, in turn, have wrought their linguistic revenge by calling syphilis the "English disease" and buggery "the English habit". In France and Italy, what we call a "confidence game" is known as an "American swindle." And, in a stick-up the crook who waits in the car with the motor running is known as "l' Americain."

Every national, racial or ethnic society attributes "bad things" to some outside group — usually the outside group nearest them — and suggests that most of the evil in the community has been imported by foreigners. The Japanese call the bedbug "Nanking insect," ascribing its fictional origin to the people without a Chinaman's chance there.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For February 25

Your birthday today: This year brings you repeated opportunities for settling into larger channels of self-expression, rendering broader service to your community, on a more impersonal basis. Big ideas take more of your attention, some of them too big to be feasible yet. Find a regular system of checking your progress and direction so you don't get off the right track as changing conditions are quite complex, misleading. Today's natives are fond of studies of abstruse, remote subjects. Most of them have frequent changes of disposition.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19: There is no real choice: you have to get to work. Money is claimed for special expenses beyond your budget.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20: Squabbles now hang on, harden into lasting disagreements. Your money buys more later if you wait.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20: Other people want the center of attention and do almost anything to get it. Skip arguments over controversial subjects.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Make a list of safety precautions; check how many you are practicing. Bunglers complicate career efforts.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Select a single project early, and try sticking to it today. Your energy is high, likewise the probability of interruptions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Making allowances for differences in character and temperament is likely the most difficult task in your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Full consultation with associates becomes essential. Survey your living quarters for hidden conditions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Take special care not to get involved with people you mistrust for even the slightest reason.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Staying near home has special advantages. You may find yourself drawn into situations you hadn't planned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Keep your poise despite petty annoyances, minor disappointments, or excitement in your neighborhood.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Your money has swift wings as soon as you begin listening to the story of getting rich quick.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If you don't see the wisdom of simplifying current plaans, others may. Protests may not do you much good, either.

Banks and Loan Firms Under Pressure to Cut Loan Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Strong federal pressure is on banks, trust and loan companies to pare lending charges sharply in response to a cut today in the Bank of Canada's guiding interest rate, the second in less than two weeks.

A central bank announcement Tuesday night dropped the federal rate to 5¼ per cent from 5¾. It came just 10-days after an earlier reduction from the six per cent in force for the previous three months.

The bew bank rate, which governs emergency loans to chartered banks and investment dealers, is the lowest since the autumn of 1967 when it was five per cent. The cut is designed in part to stimulate business activity and employment.

Revenue Minister Herb Gray said Tuesday night the government believes banks and other lending institutions should drop their lending rates as quickly as possible.

Asked in an interview how quickly he expected rates on mortgages and other loans to fall, Mr. Gray said it was difficult to predict but changes should come within a month.

The central bank's announcement indicating the signal for reduced lending rates was designed in part to stem an inflow of foreign funds attracted by high yields in Canada.

The Bank of Canada has lowered its rate in six steps during the last nine months from the tight-credit, anti-inflationary peak of eight per cent that prevailed between July, 1969, and last May.

The decline of commercial and consumer rates charged by banks and other lenders has been much slower.

While the Bank of Canada's rate declined by 2¼ percentage points in the nine months to last week, most bank-loan rates fell by only 1½ points and mortgage interest rates by one percentage point or less.

The prevailing prime rate charged by chartered banks to their most credit-worthy customers—a guide to other rates—went down only to seven per cent in the nine months from 8½.

Mortgage rates moved slowly down in the last nine months to about 9¾ from just over 10½ for conventional agreements and to 9¼ from 10¼ for those insured by the government under the National Housing Act.

Toronto-Dominion Bank was alone in following the Feb. 15 reduction in the central bank rate with a cut of one-quarter of one percentage point Monday in its prime and mortgage lending rates.

In the last nine months, reductions in commercial rates have lagged behind central bank cuts by two months. When the Bank of Canada rate was moving up in 1969, commercial lenders responded immediately.

Last fall, after almost two months had passed without chartered-bank reaction to a Sept. 1 slice in bank rate, Finance Minister E. J. Benson prodded the chartered banks into a reduction in a rare public statement.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, said Tuesday night the latest reduction was made "to further the development of credit conditions in Canada appropriate both to domestic economic circumstances and to the strength of our international payments position."

He was referring to a federal wish to see easier commercial credit conditions that would encourage investment, generating increased business activity and more jobs.

Financial markets, which had been easing moderately, tightened up recently amid uncertainty by lenders. The Bank of Canada had been keeping tight control on the flow of cash into the banking system with the apparent aim of preventing too rapid a recovery of business activity and a revival of price inflation.

The bank rate reduction of Feb. 15—by one-quarter of one percentage point—was smaller than the reductions last year. Today's deeper cut is a clear indication of easier credit.

The central bank, while meeting the government's anxiety to put more zip into industrial activity and employment, was also forced by pressure in currency-exchange markets.

With a sharp inflow of U.S. funds recently, the central bank had been required to spend federal cash to hold down the value of the Canadian dollar.

When the dollar's value goes up, so do the effective prices of Canadian exports. There is a drain on government cash and a buildup of U.S. dollar reserves against the wishes of the U.S. government.

Bank Says Decline In Rates Unlikely

MONTREAL (CP) — The recent decline in interest rates in Canada "cannot be construed as the herald of any significant downward trend," says the Bank of Montreal.

Interest rates, during the beginning of 1970, were at the highest point they had reached since the start of the century, the bank said Tuesday night in its latest review.

But as the economic slowdown took hold and monetary policies eased, first short-term and then long-term rates began to fall.

However, rates still are relatively high and, said the bank, a heavy demand for funds from government, business and individuals will minimize any further downward movement.

It said the federal government's demands on Canada's capital market did not grow at a rapid rate in the 1960s. Its increased expenditures were financed mainly by larger tax revenues.

"However, with the campaign against unemployment, increased federal involvement in housing, regional development, pollution control and air transport facilities, strong growth is likely in the 1970s."

Massey-Ferguson Planning Lay-offs

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd. has announced suspension of assembly operations at six North American plants in the wake of faltering farm implement sales.

The worldwide company that has been a leader in the farm machinery field for more than a century lost $19.7 million last year, when it began cutting employment levels.

The layoffs will start March 1 and over a three-week period will affect 2,750 of a work force of 4,450 at the six locations. A total of 1,200 full-time and 300 seasonal workers at three Brantford plants will be laid off; 900 from a Toronto plant will be put out of work; and 350 at two Detroit plants will be idle.

The announcement comes as the company and its unions have been bargaining on a new contract. The unions set March 2 as a strike deadline.

Snowmochuter

It isn't an entirely new sport since chutists have been towed behind boats and speeding automobiles but Rick James in the parachute, Bill Aldrich in the snowmobile and Jack Aldrich in background, think it is fun. It takes three people — one to rev up the snowmobile to a good speed, a chutist to run a few fast steps and then leap into the air and a third person to help open the chute when the first two start running. Nixon Appeals To Red Lands

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon urged Russia and China today to work with the United States to ease international tensions, scale down the nuclear arms race and build an enduring peace that would safeguard their legitimate interests.

Nixon made his appeal in his annual State of the World message to Congress, in which he also stressed his determination to stand fast against Hanoi's conditions for a Vietnam settlement, and reported gains in his program of building up Saigon's forces as American troops withdraw.

The president said the United States wants to establish a dialogue with Peking and to work with the Russians in creating peace in the Middle East and resolving dangerous situations through the world.

The president made the unusual move of appealing directly to the Russians to produce decisions matching his own willingness to work with them in the cause of peace.

Canada Urges Ban On Weapons Tests

GENEVA (Reuter) — Canada said today underground nuclear weapon testing is the most urgent matter before the Geneva disarmament conference and proposed, as a first step the adoption of a limited agreement which would ban underground tests big enough to be detected by existing or potential seismological methods.

Canadian delegate George Ignatieff told the 25-nation conference the 1963 partial test ban which prohibited test explosions in the atmosphere had not significantly curtailed the nuclear arms race or testing. In fact, the number of tests had increased every year since 1963.

He acknowledged that an agreement on underground testing was closely linked with the Soviet-American strategic arms limitation talks, but said that pending an agreement by the two super-powers the Geneva conference should clear away as many as possible of the entanglements in the path to a solution of the verification problem.

Britain and the United States have reiterated since the conference resumed this week that a number of on-site inspections were still needed in any underground test ban, while the Soviet Union insisted Tuesday that an agreement should be based on national means of detection and repeated Moscow's rejection of on-site inspections.

Clean Lakes Seen IJC Job

CHICAGO (AP) — United States and Canadian officials said Wednesday the International Joint Commission should be given the job of establishing uniform standards to control pollution of the Great Lakes.

A special committee of the two countries plus representatives of eight states and three provinces acted on the IJC's report on pollution of Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence River. The report asked a greater IJC role in regulation of the water resources.

Laporte's Prints On Notes

MONTREAL (CP) — A fingerprint expert testified Wednesday the fingerprints of both Paul Rose and the Quebec cabinet minister Rose is alleged to have murdered were found on a ransom note last October.

Sgt. Lloyd Dunham, an RCMP officer from Ottawa, was testifying at Rose's trial in the slaying of then-labor minister Pierre Laporte, kidnapped Oct. 10 and strangled to death Oct. 17.

Sgt. Dunham testified he was able to identify the prints of Rose and Mr. Laporte on a note purportedly written by the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec.

The fingerprint expert said the prints were on a note found in Montreal Sunday, Oct. 11, the day after the labor minister was kidnapped.

Thieu Predicts March North

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu was quoted today as saying a march on North Vietnam is only a matter of time.

The government's news service, Vietnam Press, said Thieu made the statement Wednesday at a peoples' convention at Pleiku, in the central highlands.

The news service gave no elaboration of the statement, reporting only: "Answering the convention's request for a march north, President Thieu said it was only a matter of time."

The English-language Saigon Post carried a slightly different version, quoting Thieu as saying: "A march on North Vietnam now only depends on the time factor."

A text of Thieu's remarks was not available.

Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky has several times called for a drive against the North, including air attacks.

Inequalities Irk CMA

TORONTO (CP) — Inequalities in medical fees have prompted the Canadian Medical Association to start a cross-Canada investigation of doctor's earnings.

The March issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal says: "The CMA will give top priority to a study of physician earning disparities and the exorbitant incomes being generated by unusual patterns of practice by a few physicians."

The Journal reports marked differences in income for doctors who would seem to have similar practices and although many differences can be accounted for, there are many for which "the profession has only partial, incomplete and inadequate answers."

The decision by the association's board of directors to have its council on medical economics give "immediate attention" to marked differences of income follows by several weeks the publication in British Columbia of medical insurance fees paid to doctors there.

The B.C. government ran advertisements listing all doctors in the province by name, with the amounts each received from the provincial medical insurance program.

Dr. J. Douglas Wallace, general secretary of the association, said in an interview Wednesday the association works closely with provincial medical plans in British Colum-

Canada to Stay In Study Group

By REUTERS

Canada and Australia reacted differently to Britain's decision to sell seven Wasp helicopters to South Africa, but both white Commonwealth nations said they would stay in a Commonwealth committee set up to consider regional maritime security needs.

African Commonwealth countries continued to demonstrate their opposition to arms deals with South Africa.

In Ottawa External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told Parliament Wednesday that Canada regretted Britain's decision to resume arms sales.

But Australian Prime Minister John Gorton today told his Parliament that the sales were a matter for the British government itself to decide in the light of its own interests in the Indian Ocean.

Both countries, however, announced that they were prepared to continue taking part in the eight-nation Commonwealth committee on maritime defence in the Indian and South Atlantic oceans, set up at last month's Commonwealth leaders conference in Singapore.

Sharp said he thought there was a useful role for the committee.

'Exercise In Futility'

NEW DELHI (AP) — Foreign Minister Swaran Singh of India said today it would be an "exercise in futility" for the Commonwealth study group to meet if the British government's decision to supply arms to South Africa is "final and irrevocable."

Diplomatic sources said the foreign minister's statement was a final warning that India would leave the eight-nation study group if Britain went ahead with the sale of anti-submarine Wasp helicopters to South Africa.

South African Police Raid Church Officials

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South African security police raided the homes and offices today of Anglican church officials, charitable organizations and others in Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durban and seized a number of documents.

The police had search warrants authorizing them to look for materials connected with various banned organizations, including the Communist party and the African National Congress, said Rev. Neil Harrison, Anglican diocesan secretary.

Mr. Harrison said officers came to his home and those of his assistant, Rev. Colin Collins, and two women who work for the church.

Other places searched included the office of the dean of Johannesburg, an office in St. Mary's Cathedral, the Christian Institute, and the education information centre in the Institute of Race Relaions Building. The police also questioned the assistant editor of the Johannesburg Star and the night editor of the Rand Daily Mail.

"They searched every scrap of paper and photograph in my flat," said Mr. Harrison, "and then as they left at 8:15 a.m. they asked me to accompany them to my car which they also searched thoroughly.

"It seems to have been the same pattern with everyone—a thorough search, leaving the place a mess."

Mark Collier, Roman Catholic researcher at the Christian Institute in Johannesburg, said police seized his South African passport. The institute office at Cape Town also was searched.

Security Police Chief P. J. Venter said the search was in connection with the investigation of the Anglican dean of Johannesburg, Very Rev. Gonville ffrench-Beytagh. The dean is free on $7,000 bond after being charged last month under South Africa's Suppression of Communism Act. He is scheduled for a court hearing Friday.

There's A Hole - - Thank Heaven

At Vancouver International Airport recently, a Pacific Western Airline Boeing 707 just wouldn't fit into a hangar made for lesser aircraft. Semi-circular holes were carved into each of the twin doors and the problem was solved. After all, why go to all the trouble of building a new hangar for the sake of a few feet of tail assembly. Telesat Discussed by IEEE

Lee Britney, space consultant to the director general of the National Telecommunications Branch, Department of Communications in Ottawa, last night addressed the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Bay of Quinte Branch at a dinner meeting held at the Belleville Shrine Club. Discussing the problems of the new Telesat communications satellite are, left to right, Mr. Britney, Harry Dulmage, section president, Doug Henton, D. A. Carruthers and Blythe Broughton.

Communications Satellite May Cut Telephone Costs

Long - distance telephone calls may very well be reduced in cost to the consumer said Lee Britney, a telecommunications expert with the Department of Communications in Ottawa here last night.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Bay of Quinte section, the space consultant suggested that the Telesat satellite, scheduled for launch in late 1972 and expected to be in operation by the next year, would provide a valuable link with the rest of Canada in the world of communication.

He advised listeners that "Canada really isn't too badly off now . . . try and make a long-distance phone call in Europe."

Long range plans indicate that Canadians benefitting most from the new system would be those in the northern reaches of the country. "Individuals in isolated areas will be the first to notice a change; their reception will be as good for calls as in local, more dense systems."

He also suggested that this benefit of a clearer and closer link with more inhabited areas might attract settlers to northern regions.

John Zachariah, program chairman for the Bay of Quinte section, said, referring to the comments of the telecommunications expert, that this link might bring about "better integration, a sense of unity in the nation."

Asked to comment on the total costs of this new system, Mr. Britney declined to state specifics but predicted that the system would "not be any more expensive than any other communications system put up" and if the service proved popular, it "will get loaded and should pay for itself . . . possibly make even a small profit."

In answer to another question posed by a visiting member, Mr. Britney stated that the expected life of the satellite would be seven years. "The contractor gets incentive payments for every day of operation until it ceases functioning." However, he also commented that the space unit might last longer than the seven years. He said the satellite would have to last that long to pay for itself.

He stressed the superiority of the new satellite.

Its 960 commercial - grade voice channels will far surpass previous communication relays. Two manned earth stations, one at Allen Park in Toronto, the other at Cowichan Lake, Vancouver Island, will be constructed.

The corporation is to be owned in one-third portions by the government, by the common carriers and by an issue of public stock, not to be released until the system is in operation, he said.

The Institute of Electronics Engineers, Bay of Quinte section, which includes Kingston and Peterborough Districts, with a membership of approximately 250 electrical engineers, was founded in 1884. More than 160,000 members throughout the world make up this organization which has played a major role in the advancement of electrical engineering in the past 87 years.

Local president Harry Dulmage explained that the organization was originally founded for discussing technical information, but its present day role is that of an observer of public reaction to new electronic breakthroughs.

"We discuss how these new systems will meet with society and what public trends we have to deal with."

Belleville has a membership of approximately 60 electrical and electronics engineers in the IEEE. Last night's dinner meeting was held at the Belleville Shrine Club on Highland Avenue.

Bata Workers Urged To Accept Contract

FRANKFORD (Staff) — Members of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union from locals in Campbellford, Frankford and Picton gathered here last night to discuss the latest contract offer from Bata Shoe Company.

The 800 shoe workers have been without a contract since last October but the bargaining committee for the three locals recommended acceptance of the latest package here last night.

In a statement to union members, the committee states that "while we have failed to gain all the concessions we sought, your committee feels that the Bata Shoe Company has offered all they are prepared to give at this time".

The committeemen told the locals that the shoe industry "is fighting for survival because of imports . . . many shoe plants have already completely disappeared" and urged them to take these facts into consideration when voting on the contract today.

By the proposed contract, hourly rated employees will receive a 5 per cent increase retroactive to October 4, 1970, a further 2 per cent April 1, 1971 and an additional 5 per cent October 4, 1971.

Minimum hourly wages for various pay scales will be increased by from 23 to 30 cents an hour. All present shift bonuses will be boosted by 2 cents an hour.

Employees with a minimum of 15 years service, now receiving three weeks paid vacation, will gain an additional one day of vacation.

Should an employee be injured so he cannot perform his job, the company will endeavor to find another job for him in the same plant and his seniority will be transferred in mutually agreeable form.

Jury Criticizes Delays at Gates

The CNR should be urged to avoid long or unnecessary blocking of the Centre street crossing in Napanee when there are no trains passing. This recommendation came about at the inquest into the death of OPP Constable Jan Lutgendorff on Jan. 12.

Eyewitnesses reported that the gates at this crossing have been malfunctioning for some time and as a result many people have driven around them. At the time of his death Constable Lutgendorff was attempting to cross the track when the gates were down.

Arnold Welch, Belleville, operator of the train, testified he had not seen the car until he was at the crossing when he immediately put on the emergency brakes. George Van de Water manager for CN's Rideau area reported that a new switching arrangement had been in effect at this crossing since November.

Up to the present time, there have been no charges laid against anyone crossing the tracks when the gates were down.

Funeral

MRS. LARMER MASON

Funeral service for Mrs. Larmer (Helen) Mason was held in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home Tuesday, Feb. 23.

The service was conducted by Rev. Leslie Dean and interment was in the Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were W. B. Vandervoort, Roy Dayman, Ken Baker, Howard Robinson, Carl Reid and Milton Bowers.

Passing the Swagger Stick

Last night in the Belleville Armories, the service of passing the swagger was held. Paul Haggis, a six-year veteran of the air cadets, attended his last march. In the exercise, Flight Sergeant Allan Rasmussen was promoted to Warrant Officer second class. He is the cadet who will relieve Warrant Officer First Class Haggis of his duties. From left to right: Allan Haggis, Captain A. Foley and Allan Rasmussen.

Command Is Changed

Allan Haggis, Warrant Officer First Class, attended his final march last night as senior cadet of the Belleville Air Cadet Corps.

Allan has been a cadet for six years and he says that the cadets have been very good for him.

Because of his association with the cadets, he has travelled to Europe, as well as a good part of Canada, he has attained a licence to fly a glider, and he has learned that discipline means the obeying or orders, not just handing them out.

He is attending a local high school and plans to attend university in the fall. Along with his other plans, he is trying for a commission in the Air Force Reserve

Allen said that he was attracted to cadets when he first saw the uniform. Since then a rigorous agenda of summer activities have shown Allan and the other cadets that it is what is inside the uniform and not just the badges that counts.

The evening was full of promotions. Allan Rasmussen took the place of the now retired Allan Haggis. Warrant Officer second class Rasmussen is now the senior cadet of the corps.

Other promotions were the advancing of Sgts. K. Pearce R. Scott and M. Twigg to Flight Sergeants.

Corporal D. Irish to Sergeant and Leading Air Cadets McCoy and Zoochkan became Corporals.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Suzanne and children Wendy, Christine, Randy and Ronald.

LOFT — —In loving memory of a dear husband and father Franklin Loft who passed away Feb. 25, 1970.

His helping hand was always first,
To render any aid he could,
His voice was always raised in praise,
His words were wise and good.
Dear father, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way,
We know you'd want us to.

—Always remembered by wife Iona and family.

CLAPPER — In loving memory of my dear father Norman Frederick Clapper, who passed away Feb. 25, 1946.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Norma.

LOFT — In loving memory of Franklin Loft who passed away Feb. 25, 1970.

We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But still within our aching hearts,
His memory we keep.

—Remembered by Bill and Theda and family.

KELLAR — In loving memory of P.F.C. David Kellar, killed in Vietnam two years ago today, Feb. 25th.

A brave and fearless young man,
Joined the U.S. Marines,
And went to Vietnam,
His age was just nineteen,
In August he was sent to war,
Never to return again,
To view our loved Canadian shore
And to be with friends again,
It seems to those that he left behind,
That he was taken before his time,
We often sit and wonder,
Why he was taken so young,
But know God found another land,
And carried him gently home.

—Sadly missed by mother, Mrs. Fern Huffman (Fort St. James, B.C.), aunt Ruby Beid of Brougham, Ont. and grandmother Mrs. Ernest Fitzgibbon of Belleville.

Stratton Rises Again

Kerry Stratton, resident of Belleville and well known for his talents in various fields of music, rises once more to the top of the ladder to receive congratulations from adjudicator Kenneth Van Barthold. Mr. Stratton received a mixture of praise and criticism for his performance of Polish Dances. Scores of 92 and 85 were the results of his fifteen-minute performance. Mr. Stratton is now studying conducting under Alexander Brott at McGill University.

Fewer Performers, But Quality High

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville Rotary Club's third annual music festival got under way here yesterday with a greatly reduced number of participants from last year.

The competitions will run only two days this year instead of four. The local event appears to be following the trend noted in other centres when a festival is first organized. Observers say participation is heavy at first, then hits a slump the third year. From that point a steady upswing of involvement becomes evident.

Some observers claim to have noted an improvement in the quality of performances — one of the goals of the Rotary Club in originating the festival.

Instrumental music adjudicator Kenneth Van Barthold has been especially impressed with the school bands he has heard in Canada.

"I am thrilled to hear this. I get a colossal kick out of mixed bands," he said last night at BCI. He explained that the only ensemble playing available to young people in his day was in military-type brass bands.

Only four school bands entered the competition this year — two junior and two senior.

Mr. Van Barthold noted that the bands he had heard to date in his tour of adjudication in Canada had displayed a high standard of playing. He remarked on their rhymic control pitch standards and coloring.

He gave a high mark of 90 to Centennial Secondary School's senior band, noting "how well blended the sections are" and commending the students for their "good, strong trumpet section".

BCI's band came second with a mark of 88. Mr. Van Barthold said the standards of the two bands were very close, and BCI has a "richer kind of sound". Conductor Clifford Templer threw out school band scores this year and lead his young musicians through a professional score of a medley of hits from Hello Dolly!

The two adjudicators are offering a bonus this year for participants in the festival. Each will conduct a workshop Friday morning, when for a fee of $1, the young people will be coached by the professional musicians who judge the competitions.

Winners of the morning competitions were:

Piano solo, under 18 years, Debbie Johnston, 85; Anne Marie Aquino, 84; and Debbie Bailey, 83.

Piano duet, under 13 years, Ursula Berger and Frank Fontyn, 89; Lina Joy Beswick and Lori Beth Rogers, 88, and Darcye Cuff and Heather MacBrien, 84.

Choristers Hard to Find These Days

The Rotary music festival that is in progress at the ment at the St. Andrew's Church has been hampered because of the current trend of individuality.

David Farmer, Curriculum Consultant for the Hastings Board of Education, said that it is harder to gain the students' attention now than it was perhaps five years ago.

He went on to say that the choirs are as good but it takes a little while longer to get them that way.

This was attributed to the students' need to be individuals.

In a large choir, all individuality must be taken away for the good of the choir as a whole.

The festival's adjudicator, a Welshman, Trevor Anthony, was complimentary in his appraisal of the choirs and vocals that he has found in Belleville and Canada at large.

At the moment, he is on a tour that will take him to virtually every major city in Canada.

After the first day of competition, the following categories have been covered at the church: Girl's Triple Trio (under 17 years) — Harry J. Clarke School No. 2 (84) took the first place and Harry J. Clarke School No. 1 (82) followed.

All-parties Conference On Dufferin Tonight

TRENTON (Staff) — A full scale conference of Ontario Water Resources Commission representatives, Trenton council, the town's Public Utilities Commission and two firms of engineering consultants will be held here tonight to add another chapter to the Dufferin Development saga.

The meeting was prompted by the suggestion of Councillor Ted Parker, who at Monday's council meeting suggested the water specialist for Gore and Storie, consulting engineers for the town, be summoned to fully explain the Dufferin case.

It is expected Gore and Storrie will send two engineers to the gathering slated for 8 p.m. in the Municipal fices. The president of the Toronto firm has also indicated he is sufficiently concerned that he may attend too.

Public Utilities commissioners were to travel to Toronto yesterday to discuss the Dufferin problem with Gore and Storrie. However, this was called off as arrangements firmed for the large in-town conference. The PUC was in contact with Gore and Storrie yesterday.

Composition of other delegations is unknown, but the OWRC and Proctor and Redfern, engineering consultants for Dufferin Developments, are expected to be represented.

All six municipal councillors, the two elected PUC commissioners and Mayor Duncan McDonald, who also serves as an ex-officio commission member, are scheduled to be in attendance, along with senior civil servants.

At th last PUC session Feb. 18, it was revealed that Gore and Storrie feels the 300-home subdivision should be provided with water from a 4,850 foot pipeline built from Dufferin Ave. instead of a shorter and cheaper linkup to Dundas West.

Crux of the matter, according to Councillor Parker, is that prior to the last PUC meeting "there was never any talk of Dufferin (pipelines)."

PUC secretary - treasurer, Doug Manlowe, told the commission that Gore and Storrie featured the Dufferin pipeline on a water service study in 1969.

Utilities chairman, former mayor D. James MacDonald contends the PUC is responsible to Dufferin because, he says, "they (Proctor and Redfern acting for Dufferin) got advice from us before they drew up their plans."

Gore and Storrie recently recommended that $220,000 in new works be included in the PUC capital budget for the pending fiscal year — the Dufferin pipeline is one of these items.

First phase of the Dufferin subdivision (56 homes) to be built southwest of Trenton High School will be serviced from Tripp Blvd. and McGill St. but a new line from Dundas or Dufferin is needed for later development phases.

Draft plans for Dufferin Developments — with streets named for Frank Miron, Mrs. Eileen Forchuk and Miss Hazel Farley — indicate a proposed water line to be built by the PUC south from an extension of the Dundas main.

Cost of this would be less than $40,000 compared to 98,000 for the connection with Dufferin Ave. but the question remains is it feasible and, if not, why has it now been openly recognized before.

Election Rumors

Rumors on the political scene, once they start to fly, often prove credible. We think of the period leading to the retirement of Ontario Premier John Robarts. There were denials, but the rumors gathered strength and nobody was surprised when the word became official.

So now that there is talk of a federal election in the fall . . . well the time does seem ripe enough. It has been a winter of discontent, with unemployment higher than it has been in years, and with strong criticism of government policy, specifically of the measures taken to tackle inflation which in turn aggravated the unemployment situation.

Another such winter could be very damaging to the Government, whereas in the meantime the situation could be very much better. By then Prime Minister Trudeau will have made his official visit to the Soviet Unon, postponed because of the FLQ crisis, and there will be nothing like another Commonwealth conference to test him. Another vacation trip abroad could also be under his belt by then, say during the summer recess. If there is to be an election, such a recess could be short.

Thus the stage may be set for a federal election, say about October. Unemployment would be a big issue. The Opposition could also be expected to make much of such intangibles as the Government's attitude — what Opposition spokesmen have described as its "callous indifference" and "lack of compassion" in the face of unemployment. The Opposition would have us believe this is an uncaring Government.

The Government, for its part, could point to achievements like divorce reform and the decision to place more emphasis on home defence, which paid off in having more troops available for guard duty when the FLQ struck, and more recently, in consultation with the provinces, the beginnings of strategy which may bring about the repatriation of the Constitution.

With the possibility of such an election, it comes at a time when there is also talk of a vote in Ontario, in the wake of Mr. Davis succeeding Mr. Robarts as Premier. We should think that the latter prospect is more remote now, and in any event Mr. Davis, cautious and able administrator that he is, will likely want time to establish a firm hand on the provincial political scene. This then would leave the way clear for a federal election.

Moscow Speaking

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier has finally caught up with the fact that in the far north Canadians get better reception from Radio Moscow than they do from the CBC.

Up there they listen to English language transmissions from Moscow, and if there is nothing else who can blame them?

What does disturb us is the fact that this situation has been known for some time, the Moscow Radio bit and all. The CBC has just not got around to providing the equipment that would provide northern listeners with the same service as we get in the rest of Canada.

The irony of it is that CBC newscasts and documentaries themselves can sound as if they had been written in Moscow. If Mr. Pelletier is upset that northern residents are obtaining their news from foreign parts, he might also address himself to leftist influence in the national broadcasting media.

Born in Canada

That Beatrice Lillie, the famous Toronto-born comedienne, was a student in Belleville — at St. Agnes Manor when it was a girls' school earlier in the century — must have been news to many of us when it was revealed in the wake of last week's fire.

We are reminded too that Canada is the birthplace of many stars of past and present. Here is a sampling: Ruby Keeler (Halifax), Deanna Durbin (Winnipeg), Alexander Knox (Strathroy, Ont.), Raymond Burr (New Westminster), Glenn Ford (Quebec), Lorne Greene (Ottawa).

Toronto is the birthplace of such personalities as Raymond Massey, Mary Pickford and Christopher Plummer. Band leader Percy Faith is a Toronto native, while Guy Lombardo hails from London, Ontario.

Vancouver is home to Yvonne de Carlo, June Havoc and John Ireland, while Montreal is the birthplace of Moira Shearer. Veteran Hollywood actor Walter Pidgeon is a native of Saint John.

Quite a galaxy of stars in fact.

Bill S-2 Would Probe Individual's Finances

The Growing Spectre of 'Big Brother' in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Big Brother, your friendly neighborhood federal bureaucrat, is watching—more hungry-eyed than ever.

He wants a closer look and a tighter control of you and already have been so close and tight as to be an infringement of privacy.

"The state," as Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said in giving official blessing to homosexuality between two consenting adults in private, may "have no place in the nation's bedroom."

But the state, year after year, has been making a bigger and more intrusive place for itself in the nation's private affairs.

Or that is the way any number of the Conservative Opposition in the Commons, including Ontario's George Hees, "Monty" Monteith and Wallace Nesbitt and the Maritimes' Lloyde Crouse — even some concerned Liberals — have been seeing it.

There was wide protest, not long ago, to the questions, many of them categorized as quite personal, that are to be asked in the coming census.

Now the Boffins of the Bureaucracy are going a long step further — straight over the line of the law as it now reads — with a bill requiring that all information on income tax returns be made available to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

What a man earns — and what he pays in income tax — has always been a private matter between him and the federal Department of National Revenue.

And that has been the way it was for everyone from Joe Job on the assembly line to Big Boy in the boardroom.

The information on his personal income tax return — under the law as laid down in the Income Tax Act — traditionally has been treated as strictly confidential once it reached the files of National Revenue, beyond any and all prying eyes including those of Parliament which wrote the secrecy regulations.

But now, through an almost entirely unpublicized legislation — Bill S-2, "an act respecting (income) statistics of Canada" — introduced quietly in the Senate, examined there by its Banking and Commerce Committee, and given first and second readings in the Commons, is scheduled for scrutiny before the House Finance Committee.

There the Conservatives — and just possibly a few Liberals who are having sober second thought about Big Brother — will be questioning it as still another government invasion of an individual's right to privacy.

In pushing for passage of the Bill, the Statistics Bureau, which has to have the support of the Government in going for this unusual legislation, bases its case on "the need to know".

It urgently needs all the statistics available — including those of personal income tax — to better do its job, claims DBS solemnly swearing on its departmental honor that it will never tell anybody, ever, what is on those returns.

But this is only one of several previously private places into which Big Brother wants to peek.

While Dominion Statistician Walter Duffett strives to pry into the individual's financial affairs, Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey wants "a look at the books" when business and industry is doing its collective bargaining with labor.

Bryce Mackasey's phrase "maybe we had better open up the books," used in the sense of a warning of the shape of things still to come, conjures up visions of corporative shylocks piling up untold wealth.

And that is probably what it is meant exactly to do, Bryce Mackasey being Labor Minister and in the political business of making himself the friend of the working man as opposed to the boss.

In political terms, it may serve to make him look like labor's golden boy, talking tough to "big business" and the "giant corporations" terms in traditional favored use by the unions.

The books, if opened, may show profits larger than Bryce Mackasey of labor may consider justified.

And while some of them will show losses — the rate of business failures running high — none of them will show the hidden losses inflicted by federal government tinkering with the economy.

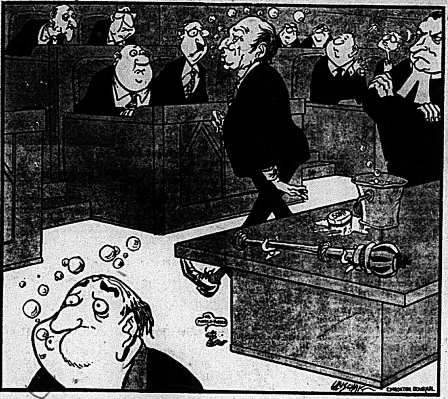
The books cannot show how heavy the loss might be as a results of the Government's former tight-money, high - interests, anti-inflation crusade that has driven up the unemployment totals and frightened so many consumers into a cautious mood of hyper - careful spending.

Nor will the books reveal how much some industries may be losing because of increasing imports from countries where annual wage rate increases are not considered unacceptable if they run much less than an average 10 percent.

And there will be no hint in the books of the high price paid by export industries as a result of the "floating" of the dollar.

Finally, among a great many other things the books will not disclose is the cost to everyone of the uncertainty about what new, different and certainly increased tax liabilities Finance Minister Edgar Benson has in his White Paper.

The tax bill will not be a small one, and while everyone holds their breath, waiting and holding down spending and investing, Big Brother continues watching, ever more closely.



Praise for BCI Show And Youth of the Day

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As a father (who is well past 40) of two teen-age girls who both attended BCIVS, I would like to express my feelings on seing Kampus Kapers '71.

This was the first time I had attended one of these shows, and I shall not miss another, as long as I have the opportunity to attend one.

I have heard so much about our young people (usually all bad). But, after seeing these young people, the way they conducted themselves on stage and in the audience, I left the school feeling very proud that my girls were a part of their group at one time. (The older has gone on to university, as will the younger one.)

Again, I express the feelings of my wife and myself, in congratulating these young people on their performance and behavior. I would surely have something to say to anyone who tells me how wildly our teen-agers are carrying on. In general, they are 99 per cent okay, in my book — and we had our one per cent in my day also!

HENRY (BUD) SPURGEON

The Uneducated Poor And The Bored Young Men Who Fan the Flames in Ulster

Hamilton Spectator

Many of the well-educated and better off Roman Catholics in Ulster — and indeed a lot of those not so well off — see no advantage at all in a "united Ireland". At present they enjoy the advantages of the United Kingdom welfare state, the National Health Service, National Assistance (welfare) and particularly unemployment insurance. Benefits on the same scale are not available in the Republic of Ireland next door.

Furthermore, union wiuld mean leaving a nation of 50 million and joining one of 4 million.

It is the poorer people, the less educated in the so-called slums, who are so easily aroused to violence, particularly the bored young folk among them. They are the tinder whose easily aroused passions are quickly whipped into violence and fury. There is no political or religious idealism here, just ocasions to engage in acts of violence, to smash, burn, de[illegible] injury and, unhappily [illegible] should so turn out, to kill.

The IRA long "banned", is the prime instigator. A handful of leaders on both sides, of the calibre of the Rev. Ian Paisley and Bernadette Devlin, have admirers and followers, who see them either as knights in armor or modern Joans of Arc. And that is the tragedy: ignorance — people on both sides willing to be told how to think, instead of thinking for themselves.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

The Yard Office squad took the first game of the CNR Interdepartmental Hockey League finals by defeating the Firemen in the opening tilt of the three-of-five series.

For the first time in the history of this district, an emblem for 55 year's service has been presented to a railroader. And at the same time, two brothers were honored for having compiled 45 years each in railroad service. John W. Redner, retired yardmaster, was presented with a 55-year emblem. Anson J. Jordan and William J. Jordan had another first in local railroad history. They pinned emblems representing 45 years of service on each other. Both are retired conductors.

Earlier in the week, published in the 20 - year - ago column, was the account of a hockey game played in Port Hope, when Belleville beat the old Ontarios 8-2. There were a couple of incidents during that game that were never published. One was when a Port Hope woman, armed with a heavy stick, chased Frank "Soup" Goyer all the way from the old Port Hope rink to the Queens Hotel. Belleville fans wagered several hundred dollars on the game and the bets were locked in the hotel safe; but after the game the pub manager went home and the local boys had quite a time collecting their winnings.

Brotherhood—A Difficult Goal

St. Catharines Standard

Social satirists, skeptics and down-right cynics sneer at such efforts as national Brotherhood Week. They apparently believe that once-a-year glad - handing, back-slapping and sloganeering fail to meet out human relations need. We quite agree.

Brotherhood week is no solution. It is not much more than a reminder, if it even serves that purpose. Daily headlines of race riots and religious conflagrations in major cities throughout the world and, yes, right in Canada, are reminder enough.

But the sponsor of Brotherhood Week — the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews — while agreeing that one week out of 52 is no solution, still is not giving up. That's why it works all year long on human relations programs, student exchanges, labor - management seminars and so on.

It does feel, however, that Brotherhood Week serves as a time for self-evaluation, community audit, and resolution to practise brotherhood throughout the year. Such reflection is vital, for if we are ever to look back on the past with pride, then we must first face up to a present of shamefully meagre achievement.

Pope Pius V excommunicated Elizabeth I of England 401 years ago today—in 1570—and declared her an usurper. Elizabeth's concern about maintaining her supremacy in ecclesiastical matters had resulted in breaking of diplomatic relations with Rome in 1561. The Papal bull excommunicating her came too late to encurage northern rebels.

Vacation Travel Would Stay!

Reduce Travel—And Help Curb Pollution, Congestion

Des Moines Register

"Pseudo travel" is a term Americans will be hearing more about. It describes the means by which persons accomplish tasks without physically moving from one place to another.

Radio and telephone communications and the mails have enormously reduced individual travel. If each message had to be delivered in face - to - face communication, the streets and highways would be so congested they would be impassable.

Prospects are developing for greatly expanded use of electronic communication. Attention is focusing especially on —the potential of coaxial cable — the cable increasingly being run into homes as part of cable television systems. The cable that carries TV pictures is potentially capable of carrying electronic messages to and from the home to provide a wide variety of services.

The Electronic Industries Association, in a recent filing with Commission, listed among the typical services that could be brought to the home or office via cable such things as mail, library books, business or personal data, merchandise displays and information, press services and computer data exchange. The day may not be far off when a homemaker is shown a display of supermarket merchandise on her home video screen, signals her choices electronically and is billed on the same device.

Conference telephone calls already reduce the necessity for travel. The coming of Picturephone could eliminate much more. Satellites for domestic and international communications could proliferate the nature of communication services.

Physically moving a person from one point to another represents a grossly inefficient way to accomplish a piece of work. The result is clogged roadways and airports, wasted time and deadly pollution.

There can be no substitute, of course, for travel for pleasure. But much other travel can be replaced by "pseudo trips". Part of the solution to urban congestion may well lie in developing such substitutes.

Plowing billions into the SST so that a few thousand persons a year can be transported abroad at supersonic speeds makes especially poor sense when the same money invested in communications technology holds promise of making it possible for great numbers of persons to "travel" with extreme noise or air pollution, while not stirring from the comfort of their homes and offices.

bia, Alberta and Saskatchwean.

They all have their plans computerized so a profile of normal practice emerges and the association can investigate patterns of practice above and below the norm.

He said the association would like to have access to income information originating with the federal government so similar profiles could be worked out for the whole country.

Among income variations cited by the CMA were differences between equally efficient, hard-working doctors in different specialties and between practitioners in large cities as opposed to medium-sized towns and from one province to another.

"The board also voiced its concern with the apparent inability of the profession, in some provinces, to adequately control or discipline the few members who are taking financial advantage of medical care insurance programs," the journal said.

The board considered that "over-servicing or outright fraud is extremely rare; however, sophisticated billing and abnormal patterns of practice" leading to payment in excess of normal fees "demand study and attention."

One doctor defined sophisticated billing as "a kind of medical working to rule." For example, instead of billing for an office visit, a doctor might detail everything that was done so that the total would be greater although the fee schedule intended that billing for an office visit would cover these examination procedures.

The annual report of the Alberta Health Care Insurance Commission, tabled in the provincial legislature in Edmonton last week, showed 10 doctors earned as much as $200,000 in the year ended June 30, 1970.

The report showed all were specialists. Another 49 doctors earned over $100,000 while the average payment to 1,418 medical practitioners was $46,430.

Western Premiers Scrap

REGINA (CP) — A verbal clash between Premiers Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Ed Schreyer of Manitoba may have been caused by an unfortunate choice of words in the heat of debate.

Mr. Thatcher doesn't admit to a wrong choice of words when he claimed in the legislature last week that Mr. Schreyer was "begging" a New York pulp mill developer to take over a mill in Manitoba.

But he did omit the word in later statements when tabling documents establishing contact had been made between Mr. Schreyer and Parsons and Whittemore, the developer who built the Prince Albert pulp mill and is behind a second mill proposed for the province.

The furore, which spawned an accusation in the house that Mr. Thatcher was "lying" to the legislature, caught fire last week during throne speech debate.

NDP Leader Allan Blakeney, continuing the opposition's relentless criticism of the Prince Albert mill deal, called the Parsons' president a "promoter."

Liberal Premier Thatcher was infuriated by the description which he said "was used in its most disparaging sense." He said if Parsons and Whittemore President Karl Landegger was such a notorious character, why was Mr. Schreyer "begging" him to take over the "mill they made such a mess of."

The reference was to the integrated forestry development at The Pas, Man., which was placed in receivership Jan. 8 by Manitoba's NDP government. The mill was negotiated by the former Conservative administration in Manitoba.

The suggestion Mr. Schreyer begged the firm to take over the mill brought fierce denials from the Manitoba premier who said Mr. Thatcher "flies in the face of facts." He said the claim was "incredible" conduct.

The tabled documents, which Mr. Thatcher said outside the house he received from Parsons and had validated by an affidavit from the firm's Regina lawyer, left no doubt contact had been made.

Premier Schreyer said in Winnipeg he did write a letter but "I didn't call them, they called me."

Blunt-spoken Barowski Stays in Cabinet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Blunt-spoken Joe Borowski, minister of highways and public works, remains a member of the provincial government and Premier Ed Schreyer said he has accepted a clarifying statement of the minister's controversial remarks about Indians and war veterans.

The minister, a 37-year-old former miner and bush worker, left a cabinet meeting Wednesday before a lunch adjournment and told reporters he had offered his resignation. The cabinet could act on the offer as it wished but he would not apologize for remarks he felt were derogatory to no one.

Mr. Borowski, in his statement, said some people had seized on his remarks, made to a Wellington constituency NDP association meeting a week ago, to portray him as a "racist" and an "enemy of war veterans." He said these representations were distorted and false.

The remarks stirred up a storm and NDP associates Jean Allard, whose Rupertsland constituency has many residents of Indian and Metis descent, and Labor Minister Russ Paulley joined the chorus of critics. Mr. Allard said he was under pressure to withdraw his support from the government if Mr. Borowski didn't apologize or leave.

In the 57-seat legislature expected to open next week, standings are NDP 28, Conservative 21, Liberal three, independent two and Social Credit one. There is one vacancy and another vacancy pending from a Conservative member who has left the province.

The quick-tongued Mr. Borowski continued to maintain no apology was necessary. The clarifying statement, which spoke of his frustration in "attempting to adjust to the strange conventions of political behavior expected from a man in public life", was accepted by the premier.

Mr. Schreyer, emerging from a morning-long cabinet session, told reporters he was satisfied reports of the minister's remarks had been taken out of context. "I feel any further recrimination against Mr. Borowski becomes unnecessary. I was not asking for his resignation nor was I inclined to accept it."

In the speech that touched off the controversy Mr. Borowski was reported as saying Indians can work up to 18 hours a day during the fishing season but are hard to get up in the morning, a condition that hinders their integration into industrial society.

The report also quoted him as saying that Indians employed on government bush-clearing projects in the North are given every fourth week off at which time they visit their families, buy groceries and go on a drunk.

Mr. Borowski also discussed the case of a security guard earlier suspended for five days over a master key missing from the legislature, and said the man might have been dismissed by any other employer. The key later was returned anonymously in the mail.

He was quoted in the Winnipeg Free Press as saying he had received criticism for not dismissing the guard because "the man is 70-per-cent disabled. What kind of security can we get from a person who's a cripple because of the war?"

In his statement, Mr. Borowski said:

"I don't think that anyone in Manitoba considers me to be either a racist or an enemy of war veterans. Nevertheless, certain people have chosen to seize on certain remarks attributed to me as being evidence of both these qualities."

Indians, he said, get drunk—"the same as white people do." And his statement, said Mr. Borowski, far from being an enemy of veterans, had tried to draw attention to society's lack of recognition of their sacrifice.

"I said it should not be necessary for them to be put on a job which they could not be expected to handle and if they were properly pensioned they would not be forced to work."

Mr. Borowski, asked by the Winnipeg Free Press reporter who attended the meeting in Wellington constituency if he felt the story had been blown out of proportion, told the reporter, "I'm not blaming you.

" . . . I think it's your Free Press bosses who are guilty. It was a beautiful political assassination by a politically-racist Free Press. These people should not be allowed to do business in Manitoba. They've preached everything but the violent overthrow of this government since we came into office."

Ann Landers

Teenager Complains Of Large Feet

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't think I am crazy. I need your help. I'm a girl 15, medium height, and I wear a size nine shoes. Is there a medicine that will shrink feet — or an operation that might help? I've heard of tall people being made shorter through surgery. I am willing to go through anything to have normal size feet.

ANN LANDERS

Whenever I go to buy shoes the clerk shakes his head and brings out the plainest looking clodhoppers you can imagine. I'm so ashamed of the way my feet look. I could die. To make matters worse, I am still growing. If my feet get much bigger, I'll have to wear gunboats. Please suggest something. I am — DESPERATE IN MAINE.

DEAR MAINE: A doctor can't shorten your feet. But size nine is nothing to get unglued-about so stop worrying. I suggest that you take a stroll through an orthopedic hospital or a ward for handicapped children. You'll come out thanking God for two feet that can take you wherever you want to go.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from an 13-year-old boy who signed himself, "Gay But Not Happy." You gave him the right advice and I hope he listens to you. I speak from experience.

I knew I was a homosexual but was convinced that if I married I would be able to lead a straight life. In all innocence I married a lesbian who was playing the same game. She didn't know about me and I didn't know about her. If it weren't so tragic it might have been funny. The marriage lasted all of six months. She went back to her girl friends and I went back to my gay pals.

Three years later I married again. This time I chose a heterosexual woman. She said she loved me and didn't care about anything else. We have companionship but no sex life to speak of. I realize now I should not have tried to fool the world, or myself. I should have had therapy and learned how to live with the problem. I feel like a heel for having married this woman. She is a fine person and says she is willing to "settle," but I have done her a grave injustice.

Please print my letter for those for whom it may not be too late. — MASQUERADE.

DEAR MASQUERADE: Thanks for writing. And now a word about your wife. Don't feel too guilty. A woman who marries a homosexual and is willing to "settle" is getting what she wants — which is mostly to be left alone.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My parents are first generation Orientals. It is to be expected that they have developed patterns of eating different from those of the Western World One that bothers me a great deal, especially when guests are present, is the slurping of soup.

Both parents read your column and agree with your advice. Since I have been unsuccessful in getting this idea across to them perhaps if you would mention it in your column you might succeed where I have failed. — SENSITIVE SON

DEAR SON: Retraining parents is very difficult. I don't recommend it. Another foreign custom is belching loudly after a meal as a cimpliment to the cook. Be thankful for small favors.

The Experts Say

Most Women Need Assistance in Buying Furs

MONTREAL (CP) — The pre-spring fur sales are in full swing, your bank accounts healthy and suddenly you are in desperate need of a new coat. At this point, your best friend is a reputable furrier.

Furriers spend a lifetime learning about their specialty, the Fur Fashion Council of Canada reminds potential buyers. The average customer just can't make flawless snap judgments about furs without their help.

However, the wise customer gathers some basic information on her own before ever going into a store because furriers, while providing guidelines as to quality, can't make the final, all-important decision.

Mink, a durable luxury fur, is often advertised at incredibly low sale prices of 40 to 50 per cent off the regular price, and it is come-ons such as this of which customers should be wary.

Frank Beauregard, past president of the Fur Trade Association of Canada (Quebec) Inc. says women who buy mink coats seldom get more than they pay for.

In Canada, he explains, most breeders belong to the Canada Mink Breeders Association which establishes qualitative standards, controls and marketing procedures for skins.

Skins are graded according to depth and density of fur, sheen, suppleness and length of guard hair, purity of color and consistency of tone.

With such a strict system, it would be almost impossible for the retailer to sell a mink coat for much less than its original price without him losing money.

Generally speaking, says Mr. Beauregard, a mink coat offered for $800 would be a budget-grade mink reduced, if at all, by no more than 10 per cent.

A reputable dealer, the Fur Fashion Council adds, would not attempt to persuade customers that the value of merchandise was twice as great as its selling price.

But there is nothing wrong with a $800 mink coat, says Mr. Beauregard, as long as its owner doesn't try to fool herself into thinking it is really a $1,000 bargain.

If you're still interested, there are two basic types of mink—wild and ranched. The wild mink, more expensive because its supply can't be controlled and because of the difficulty of matching skins, is found in British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and Eastern Canada.

Ranched mink, on the other hand, is characterised by supply control and color development. By various cross-breeding techniques, the original natural colors have been altered to a whole new range of tones and shades not possible in wild mink. For this reason, ranch mink is never dyed.

Canada Mink is available in five categories, ranging from budget ($600-700) to deluxe ($2,200 and up) and, despite its fragile appearance, is one of the most durable furs available.

Broadtail is another luxury fur and comes in two kinds: Russian and Swakara, also known as South-West Africa Karakul lamb.

Russian broadtail is fine, satiny and does not resist wear and tear.

Swakara, on the other hand, has a striking water-silk pattern, is lightweight and supple and is longer-wearing than Russian. It retails from $900 up.

If four-figure prices are out of range, there is always the extremely popular and dependable muskrat. Light but warm, muskrat may be obtained in its natural color as well as other shades and stencilled tiger or leopard patterns.

The Fur Fashion Council considers it a good buy for anyone, and due to Canada's vast supply of muskrat, coats are reasonably priced from $300 to $500.

The long-haired fox, used both for coats and trimming, is ranched and wild. The most popular wild fox coats are red, at about $450, and Arctic white which begins at $700.

Mutation foxes are more expensive, and it is unlikely that good-quality coats in blue or silver could be found at prices under $800.

One of the best-known Canadian furs is beaver—bulky, dark and heavy in its natural state.

Thanks to modern dressing, dyeing and shearing techniques, though, beaver has made a comeback as a fashion fur. When sheared to the thick underfur, it is velvety smooth and dark blue or brown. It is often dyed pure white or an oyster shade.

Beaver requires an investment of from $750 up, but its owners can relax in the assurance that a beaver coat will last for years, even with constant wearing.

Seals are extremely warm, not too heavy and a favorite of couturiers. Alaska fur seal, thickest in the world, is black and sells for about $1,500-$2,000.

Hair seals are not fluffy and thick like Alaska fur seals, are silvery grey in color and sell in the $500 to $800 range.

Once you've found a coat whose fur is pleasing, the council advises, take a look at the inside. Lining is important—it takes a lot of stress and strain and helps retain the shape of the coat. Many synthetics have superior wearing qualities and provide an unlimited range of patterns and colors.

Look after your coat once you have it. To keep fur in peak condition, coats should be stored during the summer and cleaned and glazed once a year regardless of how infrequent wearings may be.

Just 40 years ago fur was beaten with bamboo sticks when cleaning time rolled around. Today deep-seated dirt and grime is scientifically removed and lustre restored by rotating the coat in drums containing sawdust and mild solutions which soften the skin and clean the lining.

A plastic finish is then sprayed on the fur to protect it against dryness and water.

Sets Up Shop

TORONTO (CP) — Stripper Lori Lane recently opened up her own theatre in Toronto called Le Strip. It's in a small 80-seat second floor theatre with a 40-foot ramp. As well as managing Le Strip, Miss Lane will spend four hours a day bumping and grinding with the rest of the girls.

DONE WITH APPLES — The town drunks pose rakishly with a disapproving nun to form an interesting trio for collectors of Al and Betty Hoffman's unusual apple-head dolls. (CP Photo)

Shrinking Apples for Dolls' Heads Paying Proposition for B.C. Couple

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Al and Betty Hoffman spend several weeks each year shrinking heads. It's a paying proposition.

The shrunken heads are specially carved and cooked apples for the Hoffmans' unusual apple-head dolls rapidly winning recognition as collectors' items in Canada and the United States.

"Using apples to fashion doll heads is a very old art," says Mrs. Hoffman. "Seneca Indians were making the dolls before the white man came to North America, and the early pioneers learned from them."

A flair for matching clothing to fit the personality of the wizened apple faces, and painstaking care in designing the outfits, are reasons the Hoffman products are sought by collectors.

"Detail is what collectors look for."

Mrs. Hoffman first learned about apple dolls from a newspaper article while living in Flin Flon, Man. The idea intrigued her and she decided to study the doll-making process through a hobbycraft correspondence course after moving to this Okanagan Valley community in the heart of the British Columbia apple-growing district.

The head-making process starts with Mrs. Hoffman carefully peeling the apples—she prefers McIntosh, Delicious or Winesap varieties. Then Al carves the faces with a knife.

"He's better at carving than I am."

The apples, measuring about four inches in diameter, next go into a drying oven, where they are cooked for about two weeks at a constant low heat. The heads are checked several times each day.

"I pinch the cheeks, open mouths, pull chins down," says Mrs. Hoffman. "Sometimes it doesn't help.

"Apple heads have minds of their own. They age their own way—gracefully."

What comes out are heads about one inch in diameter with the facial characteristics of elderly persons. No two heads are alike.

"They are all different, just like people."

With the apple heads dried and ready, Mrs. Hoffman fashions bodies with foam fabric. Then comes the dressing, a painstaking historically correct operation.

Tiny leaher shoes are fashioned on a miniature last, hats done on a proper form. The figure of a nun is given a diminutive silver cross, the authentic and a wrinkled grandmother is adorned with spectacles and carries a tiny frying pan made of iron.

The clothes are beautifully finished and Mrs. Hoffman's 70-year-old mother knits tiny sweaters for fishermen or woodsmen and shawls for old aunties.

Each doll is given a name and the names often stick.

"Old Mike arrived safely," a collector from Modesto, Calif., wrote recently. "He has had many compliments."

The Hoffmans decided to turn their hobby into a money-making venture about a year ago, advertising their product in publications aimed at collectors.

Before the year was out they had received orders for more than 35 dolls at prices ranging from $15 for one dressed in any one of 31 different outfits, to $20 or more for a special order.

In recent weeks, the Hoffmans received more than 100 inquiries.

The decision to "go commercial" came none too soon.

Al, a painter, has been out of work recently.

"With five children any little extra helps," says Mrs. Hoffman.

Home and School Association News

EARL PRENTICE SCHOOL

MARMORA — Home and School Associations can and do co-operate in community school projects was the subject discussed by a panel at a meeting of the Home and School Council held in t e Earl Prentice School, Marmora, on Feb. 16.

Introduced by the chairman, Mrs. March, the panel consisted of: Mrs. Jean Hutchinson, Mrs. Barbara Skrill, D. G. Lockyer, Jack Weatherall, and Dave Smith.

Mrs. Hutchison who is a member of Hastings County Board of Education and Home and School Council, stated that Home and School was the only accredited group represented on the board and was therefore an avenue of communication between the Board and the people. It is, also, the only group with direct contact with the department of tact with the Department of Education and has exerted pressure many times to get action on something they felt should be done. She felt the group was not being used to its full potential.

The only stipulation that the board of education places on community activities, is that it must have responsible people in charge; it must be educational and non-profit making.

D. G. Lockyer felt it was social need and a concern for the neighborhood that prompted him to see if Queen Victoria School, Belleville, could not play a bigger role in the life of the community. This school has both a community program and a H and S Association.

Mrs. Barbara Skrill, Hastings County Home and School representative, voiced the opinion H and S associations should have a purpose in order to be effective. She is involved in the program at Queen Victoria and feels it fills a great need in the community.

Successful Living

Stepmother's Own Children Reprimand Her

By DORIS CLARK

Jeannie's father married Johnnie's mother, who in turn had divorced Johnnie's father.

Johnnie's mother took on Jeannie with every intention of being loving and helpful. She saw Jeannie give a boy she had recently met a sweater she had knitted, and for which her father had supplied the money for wool. She scolded Jeannie about it, saying this was no way to squander her father's money. Jeannie resented her remarks and didn't speak to her for days.

At this point, Johnnie's mother received a reprimand from her own children. They told her she must simply never try to boss Jeannie. They reminded her of how they had felt when their father's new wife had started bossing them around.

Johnnie's mother was duly subdued. Took the hint and won Jeannie's confidence, before offering any further advice or presuming to issue instructions.

Dear Doris: My grandson is one that ruins his toys. Also is having difficulties in school. He cannot get the letters and numbers straightened out.

He is six years old and this is his first year in school. — Granny.

Dear Granny: Obviously you suspect a learning handicap, and I think you are right. If he is struggling with letters and numbers, this would make him pretty frustrated in general; and if the world is confusing to him, is it any wonder he bashes his toys around?

Sometimes a youngster sees everything upside - down or sideways. Sometimes he has what they call "mirror vision" and sees everything backwards. These are tough things to overcome, but with our new knowledge and much studying there are ways to straighten them out.

I am sending you my three-page leaflet suggesting ways of tackling this and naming books published by Canadian firms which can be tremendously helpful for a lay person working with the child

(This helpful leaflet "Children With Learning Disabilities" is available to other readers for 20 cents and a large, six-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope).

Dear Doris: Would you know of an efficient and easily understandable method of constructing a family tree? We are a large family and it is becoming more difficult to know who is who and where, etc.

There should be allowance for death and remarriage and divorce and remarriage, plus half sisters and brothers! — Branching Out.

Dear Branching Out: Making up a family tree is a grand hobby — just so long as the family skeletons don't get you down!

You use family Bibles, old letters, documents, snapshot albums, even. And if you still have some octogenarians around, get pencil and paper and take down all they can tell you about the distant family past.

Start off with a rough draft of the family tree on a large sheet of paper. Later your scribbled - in notes can be transferred to a large sheet of cardboard with space left for extra or future births, marriages and deaths.

There are helpers to be had. There is The Society of Genealogists in Britain, as well as your own public library.

(What's troubling you? Putting it on paper to Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.)

U.C.W. Meetings

ST. ANDREW'S UCW

MARMORA — Members of St. Andrew's UCW in Marmora met a week later than had been scheduled due to inclement weather conditions.

But at a meeting held at the home of Rev. J. Peters and Mrs. Peters, a number of business items were discussed. President Mrs. D. Vilneff presided and welcomed visitors and special guests, after which reports and correspondence were read. It was decided that potluck luncheons would be held March 4 and 18 in the church hall commencing at 11.30 a.m.

A rare collection of hats was presented by Mrs. Peters and members took part in a hat relay of the various creations.

The devotional was led by Mrs. J. Cook who followed the opening with a thought provoking poem.

Mrs. Cook introduced the guest panelist for the program, who dealt with poverty. The members included: Mrs. L. Bicknell, Public Health Unit, and A. Payton social worker for Family and Children's Services of Hastings County. An interesting discussion led by the panelists followed and many of the reasons for, and the results of poverty in the community were revealed. A number of ways in which groups or individuals could help were noted.

Following thanks expressed by Miss G. Warren to the speakers, tea, coffee and dessert were served.

Some Colorful Fruit Desserts

By MARY MOORE

Color and nutrition with an eye on reducing are the theme of today's talk.

I was testing a main course dish for guests to come and criticize and dine on and did not have much time to think about dessert.

I opened a cupboard door and a package of jelly powder fell on my head. I took it as a hint and made

ORANGES IN JELLY

(Serves 3 or 4)

- 1 pkge. pineapple jelly powder (3-oz.)
- 1¾ cups boiling water
- 1½ cups cut up fresh orange

Into bowl tip jelly powder. Stir in boiling water until dissolved. Cool in refrigerator until just beginning to set. Stir in oranges. Chill until set.

Another pretty dessert that you can make quickly is

ROSY APPLE COMPOTE

- ½ cup sugar
- ¾ cup water
- 2 tbsps. red cinnamon candies
- About 10 drops red food coloring
- 4 apples (I used Spys; Jonathans would be good too)
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice

Into heavy broad pot measure sugar, water, cinnamon candies and red food coloring. juice. Set off heat.

Meanwhile wash, pare, quarter, core and cut apples into eighths or twelfths. Add half of the apples in single layer to boiling syrup and cook covered until amost tender but not one bit mushy — about 10 min. — turning once. Skim out carefully onto serving dish. Cook remaining half of apples. When all are done pour syrup over and chill.

NOTE: As you can plainly see these compoted apples besides making a colorful, light dessert are beautiful as a garnish for ham, pork chops or any pork dish.

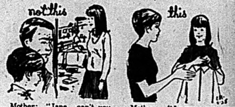
Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Mother: "Jane, can't you ever pick up your room? It looks like a cyclone hit it."

Father: "You should be able to do something around here."

Mother: "Jane, your clothes always look so nice. You do such a good job of ironing your blouses."

Although at times it may seem that your teena-ger can't do anything right, don't fall into the trap of criticizing constantly. Try to praise the good things she does as often as you can.

Labor Unrest, Unemployment Occupy Provincial Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The thorny problems of labor unrest and unemployment loomed large in six Canadian legislatures Wednesday:

—While labor demonstrators marched in protest in front of the building, the Social Credit government at Victoria introduced and then passed promised legislation to end a work stoppage in the trucking industry.

—At Edmonton a motion of non-confidence in the Alberta government for not coming up with special programs to reduce high winter unemployment was defeated 49 to 10.

—Saskatchewan's treasurer, D. G. Steuart, accused the New Democratic Party of creating strikes at the Prince Albert pulp mill for political purposes as part of an over-all attempt to sabotage the plant.

Opposition Leader Jean Jacques Bertrand denounced Quebec's Liberal government and presented a motion of non-confidence for what he called its lack of an economic policy and inability to fight unemployment.

—A Nova Scotia highways-building program was presented at Halifax with cost of the project to be paid from a $4.6 million "unemployment-fighting loan" from the federal government.

—Liberal Premier Alex Campbell discounted opposition claims that Prince Edward Island's economy was not improving, saying that in the last year the number of new jobs created has increased by 17.4 per cent.

The B.C. house voted 37 to 13 in favor of a motion introduced earlier in the day by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, who also doubles as labor minister, to end the dispute involving about 3,500 Teamsters and more than 70 trucking and warehousing firms.

Three in Hundred Wanting Abortions Able to Get Them

OTTAWA (CP) — About three of every 100 Canadian women wanting an abortion are able to get one legally under existing legislation, Senator William Benedickson said Wednesday in the Senate.

"We seem to have a law that can scarcely be said to be working at five- or 10-per-cent efficiency," he said.

In debate on the report of the royal commission on the status of women, the Liberal Ontario senator said the existing law hardly satisfied anyone. It remained a law for rich persons, forcing the poor to continue unwanted pregnancies.

He was referring to changes two years ago in Criminal Code abortion provisions. The changes provided that a hospital committee of doctors could grant a woman permission for a legal abortion if her health was in danger.

Senator Benedickson said that under the complexities of the law it is almost a miracle that a woman could manoeuvre herself into a legal abortion within the first three months of her pregnancy.

Senator Benedickson said the present law had created false hopes and left doctors in the dark about the intentions of Parliament.

"Even those hospitals which are sincerely trying to deal with the problem are not doing so in a way which meets the needs of their patients. Most hospitals are refusing to accept the load and those which are co-operating are overburdened with applications," he said.

The Senator said that despite recommendations from a number of prominent organizations to have abortion taken out of the Criminal Code, the government did not seem very venturesome on the abortion question.

Massey-Ferguson Workers to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Workers at Massey-Ferguson Ltd. will go on strike midnight Saturday night unless a new contract is settled before then, union officials announced Wednesday.

The move advanse by two days a strike deadline of March 2, set earlier by the United Auto Workers union.

It came in reply to the company's announcement Tuesday that it would begin next week to lay off 2,100 of its 3,200 workers, in Toronto and Brantford.

The old contract expired Dec. 15 but has been continued on condition each side would give the other five days' notice of termination. The notice was contained in the company's announcement Tuesday.

The union distributed a leaflet Wednesday calling the company "arrogant, overbearing and dictatorial" in bargaining.

It explained that unemployment pay of $63.80 a week in a layoff is greater than the $40 a week maximum, for married men with children which the union pays strikers.

But it added that, without a contract, the company would be free to lay off employees without reference to seniority and there would be no recourse to grievance procedures.

Contract negotiations were to resume today in Toronto, following union conferences in Detroit Wednesday between senior Canadian officers and officers of the international union.

The union is seeking a settlement geared to recent auto industry agreements but Massey-Ferguson, pointing to losses of $19 million last year, is offering only a three-per-cent increase plus an accumulated eight cents an hour cost-of-living increase.

The leaflet added that International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor and John Deere, implement manufacturers in the United States, have all recently signed agreements based on the auto settlements.

Million Fingerprints To Be Placed on Tape

OTTAWA (CP) — Fingerprints of more than a million persons will be recorded on electronic tape this year as the RCMP, which began its collection 60 years ago, shifts from a manual to an automated storage and retrieval system.

In early 1972, the electronic system will be moved into a new $5.7 million National Police Services centre near RCMP headquarters here.

The NPS building also will include the laboratories on which police forces across the country have come to rely upon for help in solving crime.

When a police force sends in a set of fingerprints to be checked, clerks using closed-circuit television will compare them against prints in storage.

Although no two fingerprints are the same, they fall within classificiations according to the number of loops and whorls.

At present, a clerk must take out a whole file when going through a classification. The automated system will allow any number of clerks to dial the classification at the same time.

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP expects delivery this summer of its IBM computer, which will cost about $2 million a year in rental, and the Mounties will begin using it early in 1972.

By 1975 a private network will link 250 police departments across Canada with the computer, which will store information on criminals and stolen goods.

Altogether $36 million is being spent over six fiscal years on a system privately described as the biggest advance for police since radio.

The system will be the heart of the Canadian Police Information Centre and it will work this way:

Your car is stolen and you report the theft to local police. They feed the information to the computer.

The car turns up abandoned in another city. Police there query the computer, and should be able to identify the car rapidly through its licence or serial number.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Car Insurance Firms Assailed By Top Agent

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Don McGhee of London, president of the Ontario Insurance Agents Association, Wednesday accused automobile insurance companies of "irresponsibility and insensitivity to public opinion."

This, coupled with "complete disregard for the future well being of the Canadian insurance industry calls for more effective control and supervision from the office of the superintendent of insurance than we have seen in the past few years," he said.

Mr. McGhee spoke to 114 persons during a joint meeting of the London Chapter, Insurance Institute of Ontario, and the London Insurance Agents Association.

"As long as our underwriting attitudes are prescribed from Baltimore, Philadelphia or Hartford, the insurance industry in Canada is unlikely to gain the confidence of the Canadian motorist," he said.

He said an example of "continued indifference to public reaction or opinion" by companies was "the deliberate chaos and confusion created with the introduction of the 1971 automobile rating program."

Companies made changes in rating formulas and underwriting procedures without consulting first with agency associations at the federal or provincial level, Mr. McGhee said.

"But what is even more distasteful is that these companies introducing plans designed to create selective marketing waited until after public announcement had been made of the new rates before showing their hand."

Lewis Says Ontario To Export More Power

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis, Ontario leader of the New Democratic Party, said Wednesday the province has agreed to an increased export of hydro power that will permit the building of a major chemical plant on the United States side of the Minnesota-Ontario border.

Mr. Lewis said in a statement the government and Ontario Hydro have supported an application from Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd., a subsidiary of the U.S.-based Boise-Cascade International, to the National Energy Board to step up the export of hydro to the parent company by 22,500 kilowatts a year by 1976.

The company is situated just across the Rainy River from Fort Francis, Ont.

Mr. Lewis said the National Energy Board has requested formal submissions on the proposal by March.

He said that if a chemical plant is planned, serious pollution problems would occur.

"Pollution control in Minnesota is not so tough as in Ontario," he said.

The sale could also affect the Fort Francis area in terms of jobs and hydro rates, said Mr. Lewis.

Wishart Denies He Plans to Quit

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart told students at Grimsby secondary school Wednesday that rumors predicting he will resign are wrong.

In a panel discussion, Mr. Wishart said he will introduce a bill establishing an ombudsman for Ontario in the next session —if premier-designate William Davis allows him to remain as attorney-general.

In reply to questions concerning wire-tapping, Mr. Wishart said it was a federal responsibility.

"Criminals are sophisticated and police must have the right to pursue them in this way," he said.

On whether he thought the requirement for breath tests was an infringment of human rights, Mr. Wishart agreed but said it was justified "in order to protect the public against deaths on the highway. . ."

Mr. Wishart also told the students he and the government were not against rock festivals and they have been curtailed only because of drugs and general public health problems.

Grimsby is about 10 miles southeast of Hamilton.

Harney Says Many Wafflers Separatists

TORONTO (CP) — John Harney, a candidate for the federal leadership of the New Democratic Party, said Wednesday a significant number of the NDPs Waffle wing and of the Quebec membership favor the separation of Quebec from Canada.

Mr. Harney said in an interview he could not estimate numerically the amount of hidden separatist support within the Waffle wing and the Quebec NDP except to say it represented "a significant number" and possibly constituted a majority in both cases.

Earlier in the day, James Laxer, one of Mr. Harney's leadership opponents and a founding member of the Waffle, told a press conference the Waffle resolution in favor of Quebec's right to self-determination should in no way be interpreted as pro-separatist.

Mr. Harney said he believes Mr. Laxer means what he says, but Mr. Laxer must be aware that a number of people supporting him take quite a different meaning from the resolution which will be presented to the party's national convention in April.

Mr. Harney, former provincial secretary for the NDP, criticized another leadership candidate, David Lewis, the party's deputy national leader, for his opposition to the party's giving any form of recognition to Quebec's right to self-determination.

Meanwhile in London, Ont., Mr. Lewis said in a campaign speech that Canada doesn't need foreign capital and hasn't for decades, and the idea that we need "equity investment in Canada now is a totally false myth."

He said the most dangerous and subtle type of foreign control in Canada's economy is the multi-national corporation that handles the direction of investment without concern for local conditions.

Even Galt Can Be Had!

DAVE JONES

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Belleville Mo-Hawks had to win one senior hockey playoff series last spring before they had the opportunity to play Galt Hornets.

This time round the OHA Senior A playoff carousel, the Mo-Hawks get to play the Hornets without any playoff qualifications.

It remains to be seen whether the Belleville seniors can consider themselves any better off.

The Mo-Hawks earned the right to play the pennant-winning Hornets when the OHA executive last night rejected a protest by Kingston Aces over the alleged illegal use of a player.

OHA president Clarence "Tubby" Schmalz said the Kingston protest was not heard because it was not delivered within the required 48-hour period following the disputed game.

A second ineligible player protest – against Woodstock by Owen Sound was withdrawn by the Crescents after Belleville's 21-3 Tuesday night win over the A's cancelled any Owen Sound playoff hopes.

Belleville will open a best-of-seven semi-final in Galt Saturday night, with the first return game not yet fixed.

This "A" series can be played at leisure, since the winner draws a bye until an opponent is decided from the Orillia-Kingston and Barrie-Oakville quarter-finals which open Friday.

Kingston and Oakville finished the 40-game schedule tied with 37 points, one behind Belleville, but the Aces were awarded fifth spot because of a better season's record against the Oaks.

But the Mo-Hawks efforts in climbing to fourth spot — highest finish yet in the club's five-year history — has earned them the dubious distinction of playing off with the best team in senior hockey.

"Galt and Orillia are both strong, all right," concedes Mo-Hawk coach Dave Jones. "But any team in this league can be had."

Jones was quick to point out that although the Hornets eliminated the Mo-Hawks in five games in last year's second round, one Galt win was in overtime, another was decided in the last minute, and a third — in Belleville — was a 3-1 verdict with the Hornets scoring the third goal into an empty Belleville net.

"And we're a better club this year," Jones reminded. "We've scored more goals, and had fewer scored against us. If the guys work hard, we can win."

Fairways Meet Practised Lions

The Belleville Fairways are hoping that it doesn't necessarily take practice to make perfect in their upcoming series with the Peterborough Lions.

The Belleville Juniors scrimmage tonight will be only their seventh since the regular season got under way in November.

RICK MEAGHER

Peterborough, on the other hand, had a full week of "practice sessions" at the Canada Winter Games where they copped the gold medal against Junior B competition from across the country.

A major task facing the Fairways will be holding down a potent Lion attack which scored 46 times in six meetings between the two clubs this season.

Belleville plan to bolster their lineup for the weekend with forwards Rick Meagher and Bill Bunnett from the Western Tire Juveniles. Both players have one game of junior eligibility remaining on their juvenile cards.

In the event that the Belleville all-stars were eliminated from OMHA play by Trenton, whom they trail two games to one in the best-of-five series, then the two would have to be signed to play in the Fairways' remaining games.

Bunnett saw action in the last regular season encounter between the two clubs, a 6-4 win by Peterborough, while Meagher counted three goals and two assists in two Fairway appearances against Trenton.

The seven - game series is slated to open at 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon in Peterborough, with the second game in Belleville 8 p.m. Sunday night.

Canada Now 'Number Two' in World Soccer

Now that they're "number two", the Bay of Quinte soccer league is trying even harder to provide opportunities for local athletes to participate in the sport.

"What many people don't realize", said league president Peter Crowle, who was re-elected at the league's general meeting, "is that we now have the second greatest number of participants in soccer in the world. Only Italy has more people playing the game than in Canada. For a long time Scotland was in second place, but we passed them last year."

The boom seems to have hit the local league which hopes to expand to nine teams for the 1971 season from seven last year.

Belleville will be represented by Parsons Soccer Club, the Belleville Falcons and two Belleville United teams. Whitley Insurance and Quinte Transport will be the Trenton - based entries with the other teams coming from Batawa, CFB Trenton and Warkworth Penitentiary.

"There's a tremendous interest in soccer at the penitentiary", notes Crowle. "They have about 65 men currently involved in the game and their team will be picked from the best of them. We played a number of exhibition matches there last season."

The teams will play a home and home series with each league entry, with the exception of Warkworth which will, understandably play all of their games "at home". The club may be permitted to travel to some of the other home grounds for the post season games, however.

The new excutive for 1971 consists of Crowle as president; vice president, Bill Letford; secretary - treasurer, Ken Frost and executive member Bob Rutherford.

Special attention will be given to strict disciplinary measures in 1971 season and there is an acute shortage of experienced officials.

Game Club Hunts for Recreation Land

Directors of the Belleville District Fish and Game Club voted Wednesday to study possibilities of acquiring property to be used for recreational activities.

Newly - elected president, George Hammett heads a committee of Tom Helm and Don Mckinnon which will investigate ways and means.

The property location was not revealed.

The club also approved a membership drive to be supervised by a committee consisting of Dean Howell, Art Parliament, Stewart Hill, A. V. Smith and Gary Anderson.

Highlight of the directors meeting was the presentation of gifts to immediate past president Tom Helm.

Directors decided to hold the next general meeting on the third Thursday of next month. This is a test change. Permanency will be decided in member turnout.

Directors decided that 1971 membership expiry date will be extended from August 31 to December 31.

Smiling Snowmobiler

Belleville snowmobile racer Mary O'Neill has good reason for smiling after wining the women's title of the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation this winter. The sophomore rider has collected 34 trophies and over $2,500 for her efforts this season and has finished out of the money in only eight of 42 races contested this season. She has won 14 races on the circuit this seascn against competitors from across the province.

Mary Could Teach Racers Women Drivers TOO Good!

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Even snowmobile racers these days are complaining about "those women drivers."

Their problems are different than the majority of male motorists in the fact that some women, such as Mary O'Neill, are TOO good.

While competing in only her second season of snowmobile racing, Mrs. O'Neill has piled up close to 2,500 points in races sanctioned by the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation, more than any other man or woman competing in the sport.

She has clinched the women's championship and could very well end up as the over - all champion. "Last season the top woman driver was seventh in the over - all standings and as a result got to wear No. 7 when competing this season", she noted, "if they follow the same procedure this season, then I'd be number one, but there's been no official word as yet."

Consistency has been the key word for the Northern Electric employee in compiling her impressive point total.

In 42 races sanctioned by the OSRF this season, spills and mechanical failure have stymied her in eight of her starts, but in the remaining 34 Mary has always managed to place her Arctic Cat machines "in the money". Cash prizes are awarded to the top five finishers in a race.

The new womens champion has taken a total of 14 checkered flags in the nine meeets held across the province this season, including five at the Toronto Winterfest races, her best showing to date.

Even more important than the 34 trophies Mary has managed to harvest from competitions this season is the $2,500 collected in prize money.

However a quick look at expenses will dispell any notion that the snow circuit is a quick way to easy money.

"I'm in a position where I have to win if I want to stay in competition," she explains. "Most of the competitors are snowmobile dealers or sponsored by dealers, so it's hard for an independent racer to stay in business."

The cost of machines, which are supplied by Peterborough Arctic Cat dealer Gerry Monroe at cost price, runs in the neighborhood of $3,000.

"In addition," says husband Gerald, "You have to figure the cost of a truck, camper, trailer and gas mileage that you need to be able to travel to the different races."

Entry fees for the average weekend meet run in the neighborhood of $80-100.

Monroe looks after the servicing of the various machines and since Mrs. O'Neill has emerged as a leading rider on the circuit, "It seems like all the manufacturers want to give you something, like free spark plugs or oil."

Mary has found the process of becoming one of the top riders in the province a trial-and-error experience. "You change your style a great deal when you get more experience". For instance instead of just flying into the corners now, I let off the gas and take them closer to the rail rather than going far up the banks."

She admits that after each of her five spills she has taken this season "You're nervous in the next race, but you can't be scared or you wouldn't keep going out there."

The Belleville rider, who got her first taste of international racing at Peterborough's Kawartha Cup in January, will be competing in the United States Snowmobile Racing Association championships at Boonesville, New York in mid-March.

Hamilton Helps Old-Timers Laugh

Being strictly a fun-oriented team, the NHL Old-Timers don't need locker laughs, so Jackie Hamilton takes his act right out onto the ice.

The portly Hamilton, who played his last of 140 NHL for Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1953-54 season, is one of the more comcial — and seasoned — Old-Timers' performers.

JACKIE HAMILTON

Referee-baiting is right up Hamilton's alley during the troupe's humor-sprinkled exhibition schedule, and spectators at Friday night's 9 o'clock Belleville visit shouldn't be surprised to see Hamilton stickhandling like he had the puck on a string.

To be precise, it's an elastic band.

Although they usually have their laughs, the Toronto-based Old-Timers always have method in their madness.

They helped raise over $45,000 for the Charlie Conacher Cancer Research Fund in a Gardens' game with their Montreal counterparts last Friday, and their annual schedule of 30-odd games has raised over a quarter million dollars for assorted worthy causes.

In Belleville Friday, the cause is support of the city's expense-plagued junior B and OMHA entries, who will split the net gate proceeds.

Nerve-Wracking Compulsory Figures Karen's First Test

LYON, France (CP) — Karen Magnussen, Canada's hope in the world figure skating championships, begins today her bid for the individual women's title which experts say she may finally win this time after her increasingly impressive challenge for the honor since 1967.

The blue-eyed 18-year-old blonde from Vancouver, together with two other Canadian girls, first must do well in the nerve-grinding compulsory school figures set for this morning and Friday, before she and her rivals advance to the free skating finale of the women's championship Saturday night.

A strong contingent of Canadian fans is in Lyon to cheer Miss Magnussen, as well as to give similar backing to the other two girls from Canada in the 25-entry field, Diana Hall of Toronto and Ruth Hutchinson of Vancouver.

Possibly a good omen for them all may have been the solid performance recorded in the Russian-won pairs event Wednesday night by 14-year-old Sandra Bezic and her brother Val, 18, of Toronto.

In their second year of pairs competition, the Bezics finished ninth in the event after a 14th-place achievement in 1970.

"Just our best, that's all we want to do," Miss Bezic had said prior to the free-skating finale of the pairs before 12,000 fans and international television cameras.

She conceded that performing under such spotlight conditions causes nervous flutters since, "you never get used to it."

But the blue-clad Canadian duo drew applause as they confidently went through their intricate paces Wednesday night to a melange of music which began with a booming Brahms theme.

Miss Bezic's expressed determination to persevere in the tough world competition was reflected in the smoothness of their final 1971 effort, especially after a dazzling display by a Russian couple bidding for the same title.

The winning Russians and defending champions were Irina Rodnina and Sergei Ulanov who ended up with 419.4 points compared with 418.9 for another Russian duo in second place, Liudmila Smirnova and Andrei Suraikin.

The United States put on a strong showing, with a third-place position the result for one of its couples, Joe Starbuck and Ken Shelley.

The Bezics finished with 284.1 points.

Earlier Louise Lind and Barry Soper of Vancouver—like the Bezics the sole Canadians in their respective title category—held on to the 11th position they had gained in the still-to-be-decided dancing event.

The dance competition was extremely close after four compulsory dances. Ludmila Pachomova and Alexucder Gorshkov of Russia were in first place with 253 judging points and 18.5 place points. Judy Schwomeyer and Jim Sladky of the U.S. were second with 253.5 judging points and 19 place points. Angelika and Erich Buck of West Germany were third with 252.0 and 23.

Bat Woes Gone

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — John Boccabella says he's "feeling fine" and ready for Montreal Expos' 1971 baseball season confident his batting woes are a thing of the past.

The puny bat that Boccabella toted in previous seasons, suddenly turned into a bludgeon in 1970, and the 29-year-old catcher-first baseman romped to his best year in the majors.

He was the handyman in answer to manager Gene Mauch's hopes. He took over the catching from John Bateman when the latter suffered a bruised kidney early in the season and needed several weeks with the then class AAA International League Buffalo Bisons to get back into condition.

Late in the season Boccabella filled in at first base for Ron Fairly, out for a month with a toe fracture.

In all, Boccabella got into 61 games and hit .269, after a miserable .105 in 40 games in 1969.

"Perhaps the main part was mental," Boccabella aded. "Anyway, things started falling into place and snowballed along. I hit probably .300 for the last five months of the season."

Doby Pleased with Expo Pupils

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Larry Doby, the burly batting instructor for Montreal Expos, is particularly happy today over the improvement he has brought about in two players familiar to Montreal's Jarry Park fans.

They are catcher John Boccabella and second baseman Gary Sutherland.

Of course Doby has given personal attention to other regulars—catcher John Bateman, for example—either at the instructional league camp at Bradenton, Fla., or at the regular spring training camp here.

Unfortunately most of Doby's work remains hidden to Montreal fans. But much of it will show eventually.

Boccabella gladdened Doby's heart last season by boosting his batting average an impressive 164 points over his weak .105 average the previous season.

Sutherland, whose average dropped to .208 in 1970 from .239 in 1969, went to the instructional league camp for intensive work and has continued it at West Palm Beach.

The first thing the former American League slugger does with all players—veterans and youngsters—is to give them an exact awareness of the strike zone.

Orioles Sign Mound Holdouts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally who collected 24 victories each for the 1970 world champion Baltimore Orioles, ended early spring baseball player holdouts Wednesday and agreed to salary terms.

An estimated $85,000 lured McNally to the American League team's Miami Stadium camp.

Cuellar, who is thought to have earned about $36,000 last season, received an estimated $20,000 pay boost.

CAPE TOWN (AP) — The South African government Wednesday refused an application by black American tennis star Arthur Ashe to visit the country, the third time Ashe has had a visa application refused.

Interior minister Theo Gerdener issued a statement Wednesday night saying Ashe's application was again considered, "and in view of the fact that is still persona non grata, his application was not granted."

No explanation was given as to why Ashe is persona non grata but observers here believe it is because of political activities and particularly his anti-South African statements.

OTTAWA (CP) — McGill Redmen moved into the final knockout tournament of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association basketball league Wednesday night with a 91-82 victory over Carleton Ravens.

The loss was a tough one for Carleton coach Dick Brown, who handled his last game before retiring.

McGill joins Queen's Golden Gaels as the league's eastern division representatives against Windsor Lancers and Western Mustangs.

First games of the tournament will be played Friday with the Redmen in Windsor and Queen's playing Western.

Karen Lies Fourth

LYON, France (CP) — Trixi Schuba of Austria, Karen Magnussen's most highly-touted rival in the current world figure skating championship for individual women, took an early lead today in the much-anticipated competition here.

Miss Schuba held first place in the 22-entry field with 336.8 points after two rounds of compulsory school figures, leaving Miss Magnussen of Canada in fourth place with 295.2.

Second to Miss Schuba was Julie Lynn Holmes of the United States at 314.4 while Rita Trapanese of Italy held down third spot with 302.8.

Two more of the six school figures are scheduled for later today and the championships will be decided after a free-skating finale Saturday night.

"I can't let her get ahead any further," said the 18-year-old Miss Magnussen about her Austrian rival during the first of the school figures.

Bucks Best Already

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a long way from the playoffs and Milwaukee hasn't won the title yet—but the Bucks can still claim they're the best in the National Basketball Association.

The Bucks, going from streak to streak all season, captured their 58th victory in 69 games this season with a 139-104 blasting of San Diego Rockets Wednesday night, thus assuring themselves of the best record in the league. Thirteen scheduled games remain.

The Bucks pulled away by 16 points after three periods, then bombed in 40 points in the final stanza.

Elvin Hayes of the Rockets, with 23 points, and Lew Alcindor of Milwaukee, with 20, played to a virtual standoff. Bob Dandridge's 33 points made the difference.

Boston held Los Angeles scoring star Jerry West to just one field goal and a total of 13 points as the Celtics buried the Lakers 116-96.

Newcomers Not Wasting Time Helping Out 'Foster' Clubs

By NICK FERRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens took a solid step Wednesday towards ensuring that the first player picked in this summer's National Hockey League amateur draft ends up in their possession.

The Canadiens, who own California's first pick through a previous trade dumped the Golden Seals 5-2, re-inforcing the Seal's chances of ending the season with the worst record and the right to choose first in the draft.

In other NHL action, St. Louis Blues and Pittsburgh Penguins skated to a 5-5 tie. New York Rangers defeated Philadelphia Flyers 4-2 and Minnesota North Stars downed Los Angeles Kings 5-1.

The reason Montreal might appear anxious that California get first choice could be Guy Lafleur.

The 20-year-old native of Thurso, Que., has an incredible 110 goals and 69 assists in 53 games this year with Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

While the Canadiens have several promising rookies, they lack one with the potential for superstar status of Gil Perreault who has 30 goals and 75 assists in his first year with Buffalo Sabres and is a leading contender for rookie-of-the-year honors.

Veteran Jean Beliveau fired two power-play goals as the Canadiens romped to a 3-0 first period lead at Oakland.

The Canadiens peppered 44 shots at California goalie Chris Worthy, 21 in the final period when they added two more goals, while Rogatien Vachon faced 22 drives in Montreal's net.

CARL BREWER

Garry Unger, recently acquired from Detroit red Wings, fired a pair of goals at Pittsburgh, including the tying marker, as the Blues twice blew one-goal leads. Carl Brewer, also acquired in the Detroit trade and playing in his first game this season, scored one goal.

New York's win was their first home victory against the Flyers since Oct. 16, 1968. In previous games in the stretch, the two clubs tied eight of 10 games with the Flyers winning the other two.

The Rangers scored once in each of the first two periods and added two more in the final 20 minutes to break the hex.

Doug Mohns and Ted Hampson, both acquired this week in trades with Chicago Black Hawks and California, respectively, provided the one-two punch in Minnesota's win.

Mohns scored Minnesota's first goal while Hampson set up the North Stars' next two.

In tonight's action, Montreal meets the Kings at Los Angeles, Toronto Maple Leafs play host to Minnesota, Vancouver Canucks visit Boston Bruins, St. Louis travels to Detroit and Buffalo goes to Philadelphia.

Kingston Rink Out

WATERLOO (CP) — Only three rinks remain in competition following Wednesday's rounds in the Southern Ontario Ladies' Curling Association championships.

The Fern Irwin foursome of Toronto's St. George's club remained undefeated at the end of six rounds. Helen Juett's Unionville rink and Lilly Webb's Barrie rink are still in contention with one loss each.

St. George's beat Jean Drennan of Toronto Humber Highland 9—2 then defeated Nancy Wooley of Waterloo 6—5 Wednesday.

Unionville's 5—3 victory over Ruth Insole's London rink and Barrie's 8—7 win over Betty Reid's Kingston rink kept them in competition.

Today St. George's plays Unionville and if St. George's loses to Unionville, then they will play the winner of a Unionville-Barrie game.

Off-Track Bets Come to Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — There will be off-track betting in the province this summer if it is controlled by the Calgary and Edmonton exhibition associations, Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart told the Alberta legislature.

"It must be reflected in the odds and under the control of those licensed to carry on pari-mutuel betting in Alberta . . . to head off having to go into the full field of criminal law enforcement in the field of off-track betting," the attorney-general said.

Israeli Growth Likely

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of The United Church Observer, said Wednesday the Middle East was the most significant and dangerous trouble spot in the world today.

Dr. Forrest, author of The Unholy Land a recently-published book of the Middle East, said he could not foresee Israel withdrawing from territory captured in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Rather, Israel would use the land for expansion, "especially for Jewish immigration from Russia."

It was assumed he said, during a visit to the Mount Allison University campus here, that Israel possessed nuclear weapons and would use them if she felt it necessary.

Dr. Forrest said Israel could do much to alleviate the plight of Palestinian refugees by allowing the 170,000 who fled in 1967 to return to their homes.

Senator Says Press Council Would Preserve Freedom

OTTAWA (CP) — The establishment of a press council in Canada would help to preserve freedom of the press, not threaten it, Senator W. J. Petten (L—Newfoundland) told the Senate Wednesday.

"A press council could, in fact, be a powerful lobby on behalf of press freedom," he said.

"If governments tried to push it around, it could speak out with a loud and respected voice, just as it could speak out when the press becomes too pushy, even with its own journalists."

Senator Petten was speaking in debate on the report tabled in December of the special Senate committee on the mass media, of which he was a member. He stressed that a press council should be established and its terms formulated by the press itself, not the government.

Perhaps most important, a press council could ultimately raise press standards in Canada, Senator Petten said. It could help promote a sense of professionalism and develop badly needed standards.

The Newfoundland senator argued that a press council could provide a channel of communication between press and public.

Senator Petten said a press council would not be a substitute between newspaper and complainant. "It would be an informal court of appeal when matters could not be resolved in this way."

Interest Cuts Save Typical Buyer $3,500

OTTAWA (CP) — Fractional reductions in mortgage interest rates announced during the last seven weeks will save home-buyers this spring about $3,500 on a typical purchase over the life of the mortgage loan.

The saving on monthly payments would be $12 in the typical example—an $18,000 first-mortgage loan repayable over 25 years.

Reduced mortgage rates were among a flurry of cuts in lending rates announced in response to the reduction Wednesday in the Bank of Canada's guiding rate to 5¼ per cent from 5¾.

The Royal Bank of Canada set the pace on mortgage rates, with cuts of one-half of one percentage point to be effective Monday. Reductions of the same size had been made in January.

Other mortgage lenders were expected to follow suit. A spokesman for Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., the federal lending agency, said reductions in its rates are expected to be announced soon.

The upshot in March will be interest rates on mortgages about one percentage point lower than they were at the beginning of this year—back down to the range of late 1968.

While rates will vary on different types of mortgages and in various circumstances, the new rate prevailing for government-insured mortgage loans under the National Housing Act on purchases of new homes will be 8¾ per cent.

The comparable rate on so-called conventional mortgages, which apply generally on purchases of older houses, will be 9¼ per cent.

Those rates are down from a peak last spring, when average charges exceeded 10¼ per cent on new-home NHA mortgages and 10½ on conventional first mortgages.

McMaster Senate Delays Decision

HAMILTON (CP) — McMaster University senate Wednesday failed to vote on any of 39 recommendations contained in a senate committee report that calls for sweeping changes in undergraduate education at the university.

Recommendations include abolition of formal examinations for all first-year students, elimination of the lecture system as the basic medium of teaching and individual studies programs for students of higher intelligence and motivation.

The senate referred the report, which criticizes current learning and teaching priorities, to all faculties of the university so they may "study and assess" its contents before the senate votes on each of its recommendations.

Although Wednesday's debate dealt with only one of the recommendations—that at least 40 per cent of each freshman's time be spent studying on his own under faculty supervision instead of attending lectures—most of the senators expressed some shade of approval.

Prof. J. S. Kirkaly, who agreed with the recommendations, described the proposal as "an attack on the lecture system" and said the lecture system would be "difficult to dislodge because there was a tremendous vested interest in it" by most staff, administrators, and students.

He said resistance to a new program designed to foster closer contact and mutual evaluation between staff and students would come from those who hide behind the "anonymity" of the lecture system.

A 22-member senate committee, composed of eight students, nine faculty members, three administrators, one member of the university senate, and a full-time chairman, spent nearly two years preparing the report.

It states that modern universities are reaching the point where their primary purpose is to exist "only for faculty and graduate students," while they fail to give motivation to undergraduate students.

Killed in Home

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — Mary Lynn Bujas, 22, of Grimsby was killed Wednesday when a truck loaded with lumber went out of control and smashed through her living room wall.

Her husband, Robert, and their two-year-old daughter, who were also in the room, escaped serious injury as did the driver of the truck.

Grimsby is about 10 miles southeast of Hamilton.

New Guardrail Stands Up Well

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The National Research Council has been experimenting with a variation on the highway guardrail which has withstood 100 simulated crashes involving standard cars travelling at 50 miles per hour.

R. R. Thurston, chief of the NRC's aeronautical division at Ottawa, said in an interview from Ottawa that the barrier is similar to conventional pole-and-wire barriers except the cable is drawn tight between tension poles and centre spars are knotched at their base to break away on impact.

Researchers found a car hitting the fence at 50 miles an hour, from as great an angle as 25 degrees, is cushioned as the centre posts fall away, he said. The front of the car then runs along the cable until the entire car is parallel to the roadway and the driver can brake to a full stop.

The NRC has been using three-quarter inch cable strung to a pressure of 4,000 to 5,000 pounds, and "the trick," Mr. Thurston says, "is to maintain the pressure."

More tests will be done this summer, he said.

One Teachers' Group Blocks Truce in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Plans by a rebellious Montreal union to continue rotating walkouts today were expected to frustrate hopes for renewed negotiations in a five-week-old wage dispute between the provincial government and Quebec teachers.

The 9,500-member Alliance des Professeurs de Montreal Wednesday rejected proposals by government officials and representatives of the province's teachers federation for a truce and direct talks in the conflict which began Jan. 25.

Jean-Paul L'Allier, civil service minister, told a news conference in Quebec City later that the government would stand by its previous stipulation that all work disorders must end before negotiations can take place. Today's talks were scheduled to start at 11 a.m.

They were arranged following an offer of truce by the Quebec Teachers Corporation, grouping most of the unions representing the province's 70,000 teachers.

The QTC proposal was backed by several member unions including the Montreal Teachers Association, which said it would suspend walkouts by its English-language members at schools under the Protestant school board of Greater Montreal.

At a mass rally in Montreal, however, the Alliance voted to delay the truce until it is allowed to present the union case before the Quebec national assembly's civil service committee.

A REAR TIRE FOR TRACTION

A FRONT TIRE FOR STEERING

UNIROYAL MASTERS

Your front wheels steer the car.
Your rear wheels push the car.

Designing different tires for both places makes a lot of sense, doesn't it?

First, the front tire. It has nine tread rows, so you always have an enormous amount of biting edges in contact with the road, for excellent steering control. Also, because the outside grooves on either side of the tread are straight, cornering is just about as smooth as it can be.

Now, the rear tire. It's wider than the front, so right off the bat you have the benefit of more rubber on the road. Also, the combination of the regular tread pattern and the deep-lug pattern gives you superb traction on any kind of surface.

The biting edges on the tread of both tires (except for the deep-lug section of the rear tire) are at ninety-degree angles from side to side. You get excellent road bite when you hit the brakes, even on wet roads.

Both tires have extra strength nylon casings, reinforced with 2 ply hi modulus rayon belts underneath the tread — for hazard protection (as well as extra mileage). And if a nail does manage to get through all that, there's a special liner inside that cuts off virtually all air leakage.

Uniroyal Masters may very well be one of the most revolutionary tire developments in tire history.

Thirty Six Charged at Thunder Bay

THUNDER BAY (CP) — A six-month undercover operation by an RCMP officer disguised as a transient youth resulted Tuesday in 60 charges being laid against 36 persons for trafficking in illicit drugs.

RCMP and city police arrested 28 males, including two 15-year-old juveniles, during the early morning raid. The remaining eight persons were still at large.

The undercover officer associated with young people in Thunder Bay, Nipigon, Atikokan and Fort Frances areas during the investigation which led to the charges.

Of the 60 charges, 11 are in connection with trafficking in marijuana, 30 for trafficking in hashish, 18 in other restricted drugs and one for controlled drugs.

Twelve of the accused, all Thunder Bay area residents, appeared Wednesday in city police court and were granted property bail of $1,000 or cash bail of $500.

Baby Bonus Plan Is Altered

OTTAWA (CP) — The government appeared Wednesday to be backing away from its narrow proposals concerning who would and who would not be eligible for family allowances.

Health Minister John Munro indicated in the Commons that the government would not be implementing its proposal that families earning $10,000 or more a year no longer would be eligible for what now is a universal grant.

In an interview outside the House he expanded his remarks, saying an amended formula would have to be devised for cutting off family allowances, although he still considers $10,000 a reasonable cutoff point.

The proposal was contained in a government white paper on social security.

"We are trying to come up with some type of tapering formula that would eliminate the situation of a family with one child and $9,800 income receiving some benefits, and a family with 10 children and $10,100 income receiving none," he said in the interview.

"The only thing I can tell you is that we will have to bring in some formula, I think, that is based on the number of children."

He said this would not create a major revision in white paper proposals, but rather allow for greater sensitivity in some areas.

There are several proposals for revision being studied by his department and he hoped to hear other proposals from interested public agencies.

In the House, he had noted that the white paper had contained only proposals, not firm government policy.

He also told Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West) the proposals could create some injustices and that the government was considering alternatives.

In answer to Lorne Nystrom (NDP—Yorkton-Melville) he said there had to be some cutoff point for family allowances, but did not elaborate on the alternatives being considered.

Family allowances were established in 1944 and are paid without reference to family income. Families receive $6 a month for each child to age 10 and $8 a month for each child age 10 to 16, at which age they end.

PCs See Development Body as Threat to Free Enterprise

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MPs told the Commons Wednesday that the government's proposed national investment company will rip the heart out of the free-enterprise system and New Democrats scoffed at the charge.

The Conservatives said legislation setting up the Canada Development Corp., being debated in second reading, would create an unhealthy government presence in private business and finance. Their stand is staunchly supported by the Creditistes.

New Democrats contend that the government would not have nearly enough control over the CDC. They say the corporation should be answerable to Parliament and should be a vehicle for preventing too many foreign takeovers of Canadian businesses. The CDC should not be bound by adherence to the profit motive, the NDP says.

Today, the Commons debates a subject to be chosen by the opposition.

M. T. McCutcheon (PC—Lambton-Kent) said he was sick of the "platitudinous, patriotic talk of buying Canada back."

A greater danger than foreign ownership was the growing amount of information about Canadian businesses being held by data-processing firms outside Canada. The need to prevent foreign takeovers was exaggerated.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the bill does not go nearly far enough. The government would be aiding, not hurting, small businesses.

The bill limited the CDC to investment in firms with at least $1 million in capitalization. That meant the government would merely continue helping big companies, including foreign subsidiaries, that did not need government help.

Mr. Peters said the CDC should get involved in many new investment areas. The corporation should help develop northern resources.

The CDC, as envisaged by the government, would be an agency for investment by both the government and individual Canadians.

Eventually, CDC shares would be sold to individual Canadians, probably at $5 a share. Only Canadians, resident in Canada, could own voting shares. Non-residents might be able to buy some non-voting shares.

The corporation would, in effect, be a holding company with authorized assets of $2 billion, of which about one-eighth would be government-owned.

Jack Murta (PC—Lisgar) said he is extremely disturbed by the government's bill. The slippery hand of political self-interest would hold control of the CDC. The corporation would be used by the government as a tool to achieve political objectives.

He said the CDC represented an unnecessary intrusion into the "attractive free-enterprise system."

Alastair Gillespie (L—Toronto Etobicoke) said the criticism of the opposition parties was inaccurate, extreme and unfair. The CDC was neither socialistic nor capitalistic. It would operate on the basis of making a profit but it would also take the national interest into account.

The Commons also gave second reading and sent to committee Wednesday a bill aimed at curbing air pollution by providing fines for offending industries and setting national standards.

A bill providing up to $229 million for expenditures of Canadian National Railways and enabling the government to guarantee loans and debentures for Air Canada up to $174 million was given third and final reading. The measure needs Senate approval and royal assent to become law.

During the debate on the CDC, Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) said he doesn't see the sense of putting any money into the corporation before Canada has new markets in view.

The government could serve a more useful role by studying what Canada has to sell to the world instead of trying to get involved in the operations of business.

In the Senate Wednesday, Senator W. J. Petten (L—Newfoundland) said a press council in Canada would help preserve freedom of the press, not restrict it.

He was speaking during debate on the report of a Senate committee which studied the mass meia in Canada. Senator Petten was a committee member.

'Heart's A Wonder' Unexpected Hit

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Lund, who has been turning literary classics into successful stage musicals for six years at the Charlottetown Festival has done it again—in Toronto.

The Heart's a Wonder, a musical adaptation of the classic Irish play Playboy of the Western World by John Millington Synge, was received so well when it opened a week's run in a small university theatre Feb. 12, that it was given another opening Wednesday night.

This time the North American premiere production, directed and choreographed by Mr. Lund, is being presented at the Playhouse Theatre for four weeks.

Future plans for the show include a possible two-week presentation at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, an engagement in Charlottetown and a tour of the Maritime Provinces.

It is the first musical that Mr. Lund, artistic director of the Charlottetown Festival since its inception in 1965, has mounted in Toronto.

"They don't mount musicals in this city," he said in a recent interview. "It's usually revues that are done here.

"In this city you never know whether a show is going to continue beyond the first few days. I'm happy and pleasantly surprised that the run has been extended."

Mr. Lund also has directed and choreographed for the Prince Edward Island summer festival musical adaptations of Anne of Green Gables, Johnny Belinda and Jane Eyre, the latter to be presented at Toronto's O'Keefe Centre in May.

His Anne of Green Gables has been a feature of every Charlottetown Festival, was presented at both Expo 67 and Expo '70, and had a successful run on London's West End.

The Heart's A Wonder received unanimous rave reviews from Toronto critics at its initial opening.

The idea for presenting the musical here to mark the centenary of playwright Synge's birth was that of producer Robert O'Driscoll, a native of Newfoundland and an associate professor of English at a Toronto college, who personally raised $48,000 to get it on stage.

Mr. O'Driscoll found in Mr. Lund a ready enthusiast for staging the show, the creation of Irish writers Nuala O'Farrell and Maureen Charlton, which had previously only been done in Ireland and England.

With Mr. Lund came a number of the people who have helped him stage the Charlottetown productions.

These included: Fen Watkin, associate musical director of the Charlottetown Festival; Frances Dafoe, who has designed seven festival productions; Werner Russold, the festival's wardrobe master, and David Loyod, production stage manager for the festival.

In addition, 10 of the 15-member cast are in this year's Charlottetown Festival company.

Mr. Lund said Wednesday night that The Heart's A Wonder would not be a regular festival season production but would possible be done at the Charlottetown Confederation Centre for a limited run in the fall, preceding a Maritimes tour. He said he would like to retain all of his present cast.

Rebuilt Cold Creek Dam Would Create New Lake

FRANKFORD (Special) — Reconstruction of the old millpond dam on Cold Creek as a water control and recreational project for the village of Frankford has been recommended to the Lower Trent Valley Conservation Authority by the conservation branch of the Department of Energy and Resources.

The recommendation was contained in the survey report on the lower Trent waterway done by the conservation branch and recently received by the authority.

Future plans for the old Frankford millpond came up for discussion in village council last week when Councillor Harry Wickson asked who was responsible for the now dilapidated mill dam.

Reeve William Rose said the possibility of removing the old dam and rebuilding it nearer the bridge was being considered.

Rebuilding of the dam would help to control spring runoff and would also provide a pond for boating and other recreational purposes.

John Wuite, field officer for the Lower Trent Authority said this week that reconstruction of the Cold Creek mill dam at Frankford was one of the recommendations contained the watershed survey report.

"It would be a water control and recreational project," Mr. Wuite said.

Channelization of the creek bed was also recommended in the report.

The proposals have had only preliminary discussion at the Authority level.

At last week's council meeting Reeve Rose said that ice in the mouth of Cold Creek at the Trent River had been dynamited thus relieving any immediate danger of flooding.

Council was advised that this year's road bylaw for $24,000 will be presented to council next month. The amount is the same as last year.

Council was informed by the Ontario Humane Society that it intends to prepare a brief for presentation to the Ontario government asking that a standard be set for private zoos and calling for a system of licensing.

A list of all privately owned zoos in the municipality was requested.

Councillor Wickson said he could not accept the proposed $4,000 budget of the village library committee. He said that after discussion, the amount had been reduced to $3,085 and this will be the budget proposed to council.

Military Propaganda Analyzed

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS Reports spent 10 months rounding up material on the far-flung public relations activities of the U.S. defence department. The result, broadcast Tuesday night, was The Selling of the Pentagon, a hard-hitting description of the means used to sell the military establishment to the American public.

It pictured the largest agency in government as spending millions—its estimates ranged from $30 million to $190 million—on propaganda films, free radio and television tapes, blizzards of press releases, demonstrations, displays, lectures and guided tours of military installations for civilian VIPs.

The tone of Roger Mudd's narration was accusatory. A film showed Green Berets demonstrating for a group of school children their fighting tactics, following by scenes of the children trying to imitate the stabbing and stamping.

A former information officer in Vietnam described how he "cast" certain pilots and made only these men available when a CBS camera team sought to make a feature. A former army camerman said a report on South Vietnamese troops in action was staged for him.

Mudd's narration emphasized the significance of clips from department—made films on the menace of communism and excerpts from speeches by Pentagon spokesmen.

He charged that "the public and the press" has been "beguiled by the activity" which he called "the creation of a runaway bureaucracy."

It was sharply edited from a viewpoint and probably will make some waves in Washington.

The Fourth Bill Cosby Special, seen on NBC, was a giddy departure from Cosby's whimsy in his other three comedy hours.

It was a sort of anthology of comedy ideas that appealed to the comedian. Some worked well. A funny segment had Burgess Meredith in a wicked spoof of David Frost's extravagant interviewing style—full of such words as fantastic, fabulous and fascinating—during a talk with a subject who was changing from human into a wolfman. In another, Cosby, as president of the United States, solved the economic crisis by banishing the letter "s" from the alphabet and the language.

Even with so-so material, Cosby is sly and amusing, and the show was fun to watch.

George C. Scott 'Not Interested'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can an actor talk himself out of an Academy Award? Perhaps so—if the actor happens to be a fiery rebel like George C. Scott.

Scott kicked Oscar in his golden pants this week by requesting for the second time in his career that his name be withdrawn from the list of nominees for best actor for his performance in Patton.

"I simply do not wish to be involved," the actor said in Spain, where he is making a film.

Said a longtime colleague of Scott: "Isn't that just like George? He could have won the Oscar in a walk. . . . But George couldn't leave well enough alone. He was born a rebel and he'll die a rebel."

Rebellion has marked the 43 years of George Campbell Scott and appears to be the wellspring of his immense acting talent.

He was born in Wise, Va., went to high school in Detroit, where his father was a corporation executive. George was a tough lad to handle, even for the U.S. marines. He joined at 17, began drinking heavily and acquired his broken nose during one bender.

After four years as a marine, he enrolled in the University of Missouri School of Journalism. It didn't take.

He drifted toward the drama department and just before he was scheduled to graduate, he walked off the campus to marry a Stephens College student, Carolyn Hughes. He never went back.

The next few years were marked by vain attempts to support a wife and baby by acting in theatre stock. The marriage failed, and so did Scott's attempt to avoid alcoholism. He bummed around the country.

Finally he began to click in the New York theatre. "My drinking got worse. The more successful I got, the worse the drinking became. I'd suffer blackouts and loss of memory. Life became a sort of hazy charade."

His 13-year bender ended in 1958, when he was starring in his first Broadway play. He woke up in jail.

He credits his rescue to Alcoholics Anonymous and his third wife, actress Colleen Dewhurst of Montreal.

But if Scott's alcoholic excesses diminished, his combativeness seemed little affected. That quality contributed to his effectiveness in such films as Anatomy of a Murder, his first Academy nomination; The Hustler, the first nomination he tried to decline; Dr. Strangelove; The Flim-Flam Man and The List of Adrian Messenger.

Government Should Supervise Provision of Housing---Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing should be regarded as a social program, with government supervising the delivery of housing services to consumers, says a national study of landlord-tenant legislation released today.

Prepared for the Canadian Council on Social Development by Michael Audain and Chris Bradshaw of its housing staff, the study says the guarantee of a right to housing demands a wide range of new measures affecting the building industry, land development and the financial system.

The Canadian Council on Social Development, formerly the Canadian Welfare Council, is a national voluntary organization which analyses social need and causes of social breakdown.

The study, which the authors admit favors tenants, criticizes the present court system as having serious drawbacks to satisfactory settlement of landlord-tenant disputes, and advocates establishment of special local courts.

Such courts would be modelled after existing family courts and would emphasize seeking solutions rather than determining guilt.

The report also recommends establishing centralized community information services regarding landlord-tenant laws. It also says mandatory standardized leases are crucial.

"We have been impressed that even in provinces with reformed legislation, one of the real barriers to effective exercise of tenant rights is a lack of adequate information about the provisions of the law and its remedies," the report says.

It also urges programs "to stem soaring rents in rapidly expanding urban areas."

Although some tenant groups advocate collective bargaining to achieve lower rents, the report suggests mechanisms are needed through which tenants' unions could be certified and effective bargaining take place.

Citizen action would need publicly-funded outside support to be effective, it says.

The report ranks Manitoba first among provinces for its interpretation of tenant rights and New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island last for their antiquated laws.

Nova Scotia is ranked second to Manitoba, although certain provisions contained in the laws of other provinces are lacking.

British Columbia is third, followed by Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, Newfoundland and Saskatchewan.

The report says that Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, which have significantly reformed their legislation in the last year, "will certainly make for a major change in the status of tenant rights in Canada."

There were still serious gaps in providing for tenant rights even in these provinces, however.

Courts generally are not geared to handling landlord-tenant disputes, the report says.

They do not hear cases in the evenings and on weekends—when most tenants could present them—and are not specialized enough "to 'smell out' such devious tactics as landlord retaliation."

It also complained that certain tenants are excluded from the protection of landlord-tenant laws.

These included employees of landlords, persons living in Canadian Forces housing, students in residence and boarders.

The only legislative change the study says might prove detrimental to tenants is the abolition of security deposits.

Such a change might lead to increasing discrimination against young tenants and families.

Manitoba's Tenant Legislation Best

OTTAWA (CP) — Manitoba has the most enlightened landlord-tenant legislation in Canada, says a national study released today by the Canadian Council on Social Development.

The study was done for the council, a national voluntary organization formerly known as the Canadian Welfare Council, by Michael Audain and Chris Bradshaw, members of its housing staff.

The report says Manitoba was ranked first because its laws are integrated into one easy-to-read piece of legislation, it has a broader and firmer statement of tenant rights than any other province, it has introduced the concept of the rental ombudsman and it has widely publicized the new laws.

The major failing was the lack of a fair-rent provision. But even here, the legislation allowed the cabinet to institute a form of rent review.

Nova Scotia was ranked second because of the thoroughness of its legislation, although certain provisions of Manitoba, Ontario and British Columbia law were lacking.

These failings are made up by rent-regulation features and by resident tenancies boards, the report says.

Third-placed British Columbia provides that most landlord-tenant disputes are handled in less complicated small-debts courts. In addition rent increases are illegal in B.C. during the first year of a tenancy agreement and within three months of notice of increase. The 1954 Rent Control Act also could be implemented on a local option basis.

Ontario was ranked fourth because it acted as "the pacesetter for several legislative reforms that took place across Canada in 1970."

There was still no provision for rent regulation and the province had done nothing to speed cases through the courts. It had also not given wide publicity to its legislation.

Quebec, in fifth place, had been difficult to compare with the other provinces. It was clear, however, that its Civil Code had always regarded residential leases as business contracts, giving tenants the protection recently granted in Ontario, Manitoba and B.C.

Quebec's rent-control system was the most comprehensive in Canada, but the province still lacked firm protection against racial discrimination in residential areas.

Although Alberta had reformed some legislation affecting tenant rights in 1964 and 1970, security of tenure and the landlord's obligations to repair his buildings still were not included.

Newfoundland, seventh, lacked adequate tenant protection except for a province-wide rent restriction while Saskatchewan, eighth, needed a modern interpretation of tenant rights.

Jointly judged last, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have made no recent changes in what the report called antiquated landlord-and-tenant legislation.

Effect Of Pot Severe

MONTREAL (CP) — The effects of smoking marijuana are more serious psychologically than most people believe, a psychiatrist who has just completed a study of the subject said Wednesday.

Dr. Fred W. Lundell, who has closely studied 100 marijuana users over two years, believes that a relaxation of current drug laws is not justified.

In a 70-page report released Wednesday, Dr. Lundell said "legalization is the easy way out" of a situation plaguing lawmakers and youth alike.

Dr. Lundell, an assistant professor of psychiatry at McGill University here, completed the report late last year for the Prince Edward Island government. The report is largely a critique of the Le Dain commission's interim report on the non-medical use of drugs.

"The fact is, marijuana does produce serious adverse reactions, and to dismiss them by scientific or semantic labelling, or rationalize that these were psychiatric cases who would go psychotic anyway is a rather cavalier attitude," the report says.

The Le Dain report, released last May, recommended that control of marijuana be removed from the Narcotics Control Act and placed under the Food and Drug Act. This would make offences punishable by fines rather than by jail sentences.

Dr. Lundell said one key danger of the drug is the reactions are usually erratic, "not necessarily dose-related, easily controllable or predictable."

Dr. Lundell said some of the reactions he has witnessed included problems in perceptual and motor organization; inconsistency or a reversal of social values; disinterest in food or a preoccupation with fad foods; lack of judgment and a fuzzy memory and a drop in motivation, lack of interest and emotional irritability.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

If Reason Arises, See Doctor Early

I believe that doctors have an obligation to tell every one of their patients, "Now hear this. Your next appointment is in two weeks (or one month, or whatever). But remember to get in touch with me earlier if you do not feel well. Especially if you have pain, fever, bleeding or any other signs or symptoms. An appointment is not a legal contract that can't be broken. I'll see you earlier if I have to."

Too many patients wait it out until their "next appointment" even though they become quite ill in the interim. Here is an example:

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My husband went to our family doctor to have his kidneys checked. He found that his prostate was swollen as big as his fist and his blood pressure was 210. He sent him to a kidney specialist.

The new doctor didn't give him any special medicine or treatment. Just told him to come back in a month. But two nights later my husband began shaking and his temperature went up to 103. He called the doctor who phoned in some medicine. He said the shaking was probably due to some infection.

My husband hasn't seen the doctor for two weeks. Now he is passing blood and feels awful. Could you tell us what to do? It's still two weeks before he is supposed to go back to the specialist. He still has fever. — Mrs. C.

Comment: See what I mean? The answer is obvious. What to do? Call the doctor, of course. Where health and life are concerned, what's so holy and legal as an appointment with the doctor?

As I said, I believe we we should inform all our patients that if they get sick in the interim (even though it happens a day after they leave their doctor's office), they should not hesitate to call for an earlier appointment than the one scheduled.

I keep telling people to get over the silly fear that "you are bothering the doctor by wanting to see him earlier." That's one way of getting into trouble.

For Mrs. G.(Paget's disease of bone is a disturbance in its metabolism associated with loss of calcium and eventually bone replacement in an irregular manner, causing considerable thickening and bone deformity. We don't know the exact cause, nor is there any specific treatment. (Incidentally, the kind of reply I dislike making.)

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: At the head of your columns a few weeks ago you had a saying that was helpful to the sick. Unfortunately, I've lost them. I'd like to send that philosophy along to a sick friend. Will you please reprint it? — Mrs. K.

Comment: One day I may get around to putting it at the head of every column. Here is what I wrote:

Faith is a powerful antidote against illness. Keep repeating — and repeating — "I will get well." If you Believe, you help your doctor and yourself.

• • •

For Mrs. F.: You are pushing your child too hard. He is only 18 months old. Some children are not toilet-trained until they are much older. Some pediatricians have informed me that in normal children only about two-thirds were completely trained by the age of two and a-half years. Frankly, Mrs. F., what's your hurry? Besides, do you think punishment is the answer?

Sydney J. Harris Says

Self-improvement Is Hoax

Thoughts at Large:

Reaching things before the right time can be as disastrous as reaching them too late; indeed, more failures are induced by prematurity than by laggardness.

• • •

All formal programs of "self-improvement" are fraudulent, for the only way you can become "better" than you are is by becoming precisely who you are, no matter where this places you in the world.

• • •

The heat of partisanship today is apparently no greater than it was a century ago, when Melville observed: "In times like the present (1866), one who desires to be impartially just in the expression of his views, moves as among swordpoints presented on every side."

• • •

What the Puritan really fails to understand is that decolletage is more "obscene" (and certainly more vulgar) than total nudity.

• • •

When people have a vested emotional interest in preserving their bad taste, they will turn every matter of value into a matter of taste, and deny that any objective value exists.

• • •

The amateur is only half-right in assuming that the function of art is "self-expression" — he neglects the more important and antecedent, half of laboring to develop a self that is worth expressing.

• • •

The value of "experience," in and of itself, is over-rated, for two men can go through exactly the same experience and emerge with totally opposite judgments and utterly different marks on their characters. (As Aldous Huxley remarked: "Experience is not what happens to you; it is what you do with what happens to you.")

• • •

It is usually the same person who is most cynical in his conviction that one politician is no better than another, who is the most naively fervent in his conviction that one domestic beer is appreciably better than another.

Our penological system is simply an organized stupidity of pretending to reform or improve a man by putting him for a long period in the sole company of a thousand other men in desperate need of the same thing, and under the supervision of men as ignorant as themselves.

• • •

Mothers tend to worry about their thin children, but it is the fat ones who usually have the deeper emotional problems.

• • •

Many a man has flogged himself into "heroism" by the terrible fear that he otherwise might be thought a coward.

• • •

The same tiresome names keep popping up in news about the international jet-set; which confirms Chesterton's comment many years ago: "The globe-trotter lives in a smaller world than the peasant."

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Bible study was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Gladys DeFord of Glen Miller for Bayside women and despite the freak snow storm there was a good attendance. Miss Hester Duggan, a faith mission worker spoke on evangelism. She and several others are working to spread the Gospel overseas and in Canada.

Unit one of the Westminster UCW served at a banquet in the Westminster lower auditorium for about 60 members of the Hog Producers' convention on Thursday.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For February 26

Your birthday today: Even though you deal with nothing new and spend more of your time picking up the pieces, conserving what remains of past reality, your approach to life and work this year develops original qualities, so that by the end of the year you've taken a different direction from your present orientation, with generally satisfying results. Emotional experience becomes quite intense, but very little of it appears on the surface. Today's natives are capable of sustained effort, able to find unusual fortune are typical of these people's history.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Inside information confirms what you had already figured out. Patience with colleagues profits in the long run.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Push your work vigorously, then have an evening of social activity shared with cheerful friends.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): If you take your credentials with you, a definite good buy or revision of an account is possible.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Seek out the well-established, older people you know; good advice and other benefits can be gained.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Additional people get in the act; some to your advantage, but mostly not. Enjoy mild good news this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Advance your career, seek new positions or increases. Interviews are important; keep your attention on what you're about.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Wind up work for the week as simply as conditions permit, as your interests turn more toward social pleasures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Now it's your turn to cheer up those around you. New enterprises may not be quite as represented.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Doing your share of the work accurately builds your future career, with nothing said or indicated at the moment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Delayed family and neighborhood affairs begin to take shape, perhaps more swiftly than you anticipated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): There's a chance to improve your earnings if you organize a deal with more of your friends participating.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Long term plans are strongly favored — what you do or skip doing now has a lasting impact.

Small Cities Need Bigger Voice -- Davis

TORONTO. (CP) — Persons living in small Ontario cities must have more to do with economic growth in the province, Premier-designate William Davis said Wednesday.

In an address to the Ontario Good Roads Association—his first public appearance since returning from his Florida holiday Wednesday—Mr. Davis said although Toronto is expected to double its growth within the next 20 years, there should be equal concern for persons living in small towns and rural areas.

"There is a great need on the part of the people to be treated as human beings," he said, adding that they need to feel that "they are participating in what is happening to them."

Mr. Davis also suggested that Ontario increase its highway spending in order to create jobs.

He said: "Surely we must realize that greater expenditure or investment in the transportation field over a period of time will assist in relieving the unemployment problem we face. . . . There is no question that one of the basic questions we face is that of unemployment."

Mr. Davis officially succeeds Premier John Robarts Monday.

Group of PCs Warning Davis

TORONTO (CP) — A paper on public support for separate schools, warning Premier-designate William Davis that the issue must not become the cause of a bitter religious quarrel that would divide the province in an election, is being prepared by a group of Progressive Conservative party members.

A spokesman for the group said Wednesday the paper asks Mr. Davis to continue seeking some solution other than a blunt "no" to Roman Catholic requests for an extension of tax support to the end of high school.

Details of the Conservative paper were not available, but it was understood they propose an extension of support to the end of Grade 12.

Many Cars Still Lack Licences

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the provincial transport department said Wednesday that about 481,000 cars in Ontario still are without 1971 licence plates despite the fact 1970 plates expire midnight Sunday night.

David Boyd, manager of motor vehicle licensing for the department's vehicle branch, said sales of plates are slightly ahead of last year at this time.

But, he said there are more cars registered in the province this year, and the number of cars still bearing old plates is up about 6,000 from last year.

Municipalities To Lose Control Of Gravel Pits

TORONTO (CP) — A new session of the Ontario legislature is expected to pass legislation which will take away some powers from municipalities that have no official plans stating where sand, gravel and stone pits and quarries can be located.

New mining legislation expected to be introduced early in the year will prevent municipalities from interfering unnecessarily with the production of basic building materials, and stop the industry from despoiling the landscape and creating nuisances for area residents.

If municipalities have no official plans providing for pits and quarries in designated areas, the province will assume responsibility for approving sites. In either case, the province will control the operation, development and rehabilitation of mining properties.

Regulations under the new legislation will alleviate the nuisance, health and safety problems created by pits and quarries; require the progressive and ultimate rehabilitation of the properties; and ensure that the operators put up enough money to complete rehabilitation.

The legislation, under preparation for more than two years, has two purposes—to ensure that the Ontario economy is not deprived of an adequate supply of vital building materials known as aggregates, and that the sight, sound and smell pollution common to pits and quarries is alleviated.

It was prepared last year by Allan Lawrence, mines and northern affairs minister, and will be presented to a new legislature session by him if his cabinet post is not changed by the new premier, William Davis.

Mr. Lawrence would not comment on the legislation, although he said he hopes it will be given to the legislature early in the year.

Erie Fishermen Request Loans

ERIEAU, Ont. (CP) — Fishermen in this Lake Erie village will ask the provincial government to make available to them provincial loans of up to $8,500 a spokesman said Wednesday.

Lavern Kelly said in an interview the proposed loans would be secured by demand promissory notes and would have an interest rate of five per cent a year.

Mr. Kelly said fishermen are hoping for an early reply to their request for a meeting with minister of lands and forest, and Stanley Randall, minister of economics and development.

PUC Seeks Leave To Up Hydro Rates

Overall Increase To Be 14.7 Per Cent

By IAN ROBERSTON
Staff Reporter

Belleville Public Utilities Commission this morning announced that it will apply to Ontario Hydro for permission to increase its rates to provide 14.7 per cent in additional revenue.

If approved, new rates will go into effect May 1.

Under the proposal, domestic users on the average would pay 16.1 per cent more for their electric power; small commercial users 21.2 per cent and general industry 14.2 per cent.

Ontario Hydro consumer service superintendent Hugh Beach stated the local office had termed the increase "essential" to the PUC's operation. Gerry O'Connor, chairman of the PUC, pointed out that an increase had not been put into effect last year, even though Ontario Hydro had raised the interim wholesale power rate by 5.9 per cent in January of 1970

"We absorbed this cost and did not charge the consumer," the chairman said.

Coupled with the 1970 increase was the January 1971 jump of 6.7 per cent for a total, over-all rate increase of, 12.6 per cent in the wholesale power rate.

"Add to this increased labor and service costs, the high cost of borrowing money . . . this all makes a rate increase necessary to meet current operating costs," said Mr. O'Connor.

"We were forced into this by the Ontario Hydro . . . with a great deal of reluctance and I predict one hell of a commotion among the ratepayers," he continued.

Mr. Beach confirmed that a "great majority of communities are being faced with an increase at least every two years, because of the inflationary trends."

"Also," added Norman K. Manning, public relations officer for Ontario Hydro, "the service being demanded by the customers is part of the reason; people aren't prepared to go without power for a second."

At a special meeting of the commission, yesterday afternoon, the board sought every means of reducing operating costs. Proposed construction expenditures of $620,840 were chopped by $103,000 for 1971.

In an attempt to clarify the increase to the consumer, a chart was drawn up showing sample bills over a two-month period. Commission members stressed that the sample would not be applicable to everybody in the kilowatt-hour range used for comparison.

Hill 31 In Laos Falls

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese paratroop base inside Laos fell to the North Vietnamese today, and the 450 defenders were virtually wiped out, military sources said.

The North Vietnamese then laid siege to a second paratroop base six miles to the southeast, and field reports said they were inflicting heavy casualties on the South Vietnamese defenders.

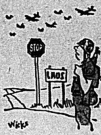
The fall of the Saigon base on Hill 31 was the second major defeat for the South Vietnamese in the 19-day-old Laotian campaign to disrupt supply traffic down the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Last Sunday a ranger battalion was driven from a base five miles away with 323 of its 450 men killed, wounded or missing.

Shortly before Hill 31 was overrun, two downed American pilots were plucked from the fringes of the base after 21 hours hiding in a trench from the 1,500 to 2,000 North Vietnamese besieging the base. The anti-aircraft fire was so heavy it took 75 fighter-bomber strikes to suppress it enough for a rescue helicopter to get in.

Hill 31, an outpost on the Ho Chi Minh trail, is eight miles inside Laos and north of Highway 9. Military sources said the battalion of 450 paratroops there was virtually wiped out.

Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported from Khe Sanh that an American helicopter pilot flew back from a mission over the base with 20 AK-47 bullet holes in his craft.

The U.S. command threw wave after wave of fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships in the battle to save Hill 31. Barton reported two more U.S. helicopters were shot down in Laos, and the fate of the crews was not known.



CBC Employees Vote to Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — CBC employees in Montreal, members of the Association of Radio and Television Employees of Canada, have voted 75 per cent in favor of a strike, ARTEC said Thursday night.

The union originally sought a first-year increase of 12 per cent or $800, whichever was greater, plus a 10-per-cent boost for the remainder of a 21-month contract.

A conciliation board report on ARTEC's dispute with the CBC recommended a three-year contract with increases of eight, seven and 6½ per cent in each year.

The latest CBC salary offer was still well below what the conciliation board recommended. The CBC proposed a 5-5-4 formula over three years.

The union estimates average annual salary for the employees it represents is $6,235. The range is from $3,181 for office juniors to $12,875 for announcers.

Bomb Threat by Draftee Diverts Airliner to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 19-year-old United States Army recruit bound for basic training hijacked a Western Airlines jet to Vancouver Thursday night after threatening the blow it up "unless we go to Cuba."

The tense sky drama began over Medford, Ore., about an hour after the 92 passengers—including 67 inductees and recruits—and a crew of five had left San Francisco aboard the Boeing 737, bound for Seattle.

It ended when the California youth with long black hair and a moustache surrendered calmly to RCMP officers in the emptied plane moments after it touched down at Vancouver International Airport. Police said charges were pending.

Few of the passengers knew about the suspense in the cockpit after the youth approached a stewardess in the galley and ordered her to take him to the captain.

He told Capt. Bruce DeSpain of Seattle he wanted to go to Cuba. But when he was told the aircraft didn't have enough fuel for the trip, he settled for Vancouver.

The pilot said when the plane landed, the youth asked him not to go near the terminal building. He asked to talk to the tower.

Capt. DeSpain said the youth told the tower he had no bomb and wanted to give himself up.

Ray Tindall, 19, of Salinas, Calif., who boarded Flight 328 in San Francisco with the other bay area recruits, said the hijacker indicated he had a bomb, "something in a bag."

"He was sitting at the back," Tindall said.

"He went to the washroom and then went back to talk to the stewardess. He may have had a gun in the bag."

"Nobody knew where we were until they hustled us out and took him off," said 17-year-old Mike Lawson of Salinas.

"Nobody told us. We thought we were in Seattle."

RCMP and airport security, acting on instructions from the FBI, clamped a lid of silence on the whole affair once the passengers and crew were safely off the plane. It was scheduled to land at Seattle at 9:17 p.m. PST and arrived in Vancouver at 10:16 p.m.

The recruit, obviously enjoying the excitement, answered hurriedly scrawled questions on scraps of paper through a thick glass partition at a departure lounge.

Levesque Seeks Big House-cleaning

QUEBEC (CP) — The separatist Parti Quebecois meets here today for a house-cleaning of its program and perhaps some of its 80,000 members.

About 1,300 delegates to the PQ's three-day third annual convention will debate the party's role in Quebec politics in the coming years.

They may also be asked to carry out what party leader Rene Levesque calls "a big house-cleaning" of undesirable elements in the party.

A number of prominent party members have said recently that the PQ has been infiltrated in high places by at least one "federalist agent."

The party's national council is to disclose at the convention the findings of an investigation into the allegations.

In addition, Mr. Levesque says he wants a showdown with "pseudo-leftists" subversives and "double agents in the pay of the state" who he says have infiltrated the party.

"Within the party there are groups that bother me," Mr. Levesque, who founded the party in 1968 and has been its leader since, said in a recent interview in the separatist periodical Point de Mire.

"After three years of existence, it's time to carry out a big house-cleaning."

Thieu Claims Misquotation

SAIGON (AP) — A spokesman for President Nguyen Van Thieu said today that Thieu had been misquoted as saying an invasion of North Vietnam is only a matter of time.

"The quotes were inaccurate and out of context," said Hoang Duc Nha, press secretary to the president.

"What President Thieu said was that South Vietnamese forces have taken the initiative and are now capable of fighting the Communists any time, any place, on any battlefield."

System Crumbling?

Trudeau and Stanfield Duel

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Opposition Leader Stanfield fumed publicly Thursday at each other's interpretation of how parliamentary democracy should work.

Mr. Trudeau accused the opposition of obstructing legislation, suggesting that the "guillotine" method of using closure to cut off debate might be preferable to a slow parliamentary pace.

Mr. Stanfield said the prime minister has no respect for the opposition's duty to dig in its heels on bad bills, and dared him to use closure to terminate debate on the government's reorganization bill.

Both men appeared unusually frustrated and angry at the other's approach.

The prime minister, speaking in French to a group of Montreal university students in a corridor outside the House, contended that "the parliamentary system is crumbling under its obsolescence and is unable to meet its program."

Time-consuming opposition debate, in which the opposition replaced ideas with words, was responsible.

The Opposition leader said later that a great deal of legislation passes quickly with the opposition's co-operation.

But when a bill was bad, it was the opposition's job to stand up and fight.

Mr. Trudeau and his friends thought the opposition should make its points at election time and then be quiet, for between elections it was "the duty of the opposition to put through what the government wants us to."

The centre of the philosophical dispute was the government's reorganization bill, now receiving clause-by-clause scrutiny in committee-of-the-whole House.

Mr. Trudeau said the opposition is holding it up, preventing the government from getting on with other business.

Mr. Stanfield called the wide-ranging omnibus bill "a Liberal pork barrel with an environment department tucked in the middle somewhere."

During debate on the bill, government members have emphasized that it will create a department of the environment to fight pollution on a national level.

But opposition members have claimed the environment section is a coverup for other measures within it and which they maintain are designed to give prizes to obedient government members.

The bill would allow the government to create five ministries of state without the specific approval of Parliament, and would extend the number of parliamentary secretaries to 28 from 14.

Consultant Swings PUC

Dufferin Developments Subdivision Gets Green Light

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The Dufferin Developments controversy appears to be over. At the special all-parties conference here last night, Public Utilities Commissioners endorsed a servicing program that gives a green light to a construction start on the subdivision's first phase.

Although there were occasional suggestions that further discussions be held, a majority of the 21 in attendance were prepared to sit round the table all night to achieve settlement.

After 2½ hours of discussion by council, the PUC, civil servants, representatives of Ontario Water Resources Commission, and engineering consultants Gore and Storrie and Proctor and Redfern, the meeting broke up with Utilities Commissioners adjourning to an ante-room to draft a resolution.

Assisted in the drafting by the town's ultimate consulting engineer, John Powell, president of Gore and Storrie, commissioners emerged from their 45-minute mini-conference with a decision.

The PUC agreed to build the 12-in. pipeline that will take water over a 4,850 ft. course to serve Dufferin Developments. Extending from Prince Charles School on Dufferin St. south to Quaker Oats, west through Hanna Park and Sunrise Developments, the pipeline will skirt Tripp Blvd. as it runs north to meet McGill St.

Total cost of the capital work is $103,000 including $20,000 for a new booster station midway along the new line.

The entire cost of the trunk line to Dufferin Developments and the booster station, $73,500, will be paid by the PUC, while Dufferin pays $29,500 for the cost of an 8-in. line lacing through the subdivision. However, this line will be 12-in. in diameter and the PUC pays for oversizing (difference in cost for larger line).

Whether Dufferin Developments should pay 50 per cent of the cost for extending services to the 200-home subdivision in southwest Trenton became a non-question in last night's dialogue.

Building the pipeline is not a matter of extending existing water service, the situation in which the cost sharing question arises. Instead, it is an indisputable responsibility of the PUC to build a major trunk lines to service whole areas and to pay for such oversizing costs as arise in the Dufferin situation.

Gore and Storrie president John Powell indicated arrangements that would allow Dufferin Developments to begin the first phase of the new subdivision would not meet his approval unless the PUC made a commitment to build the new trunk line.

Hugh O'Neill of Dufferin Developments asked Mr. Powell if the first phase could be served from McGill St. Mr. Powell replied "it is 50 extra houses and an added strain on an already overtaxed system".

Moreover, the Gore and Storrie chief executive told the assembly the Dufferin trunk would be cheaper than any suitable arrangement from Dundas West for later phases of the subdivision.

He said service from Dundas would necessitate considerable expense. The booster station on Mt. Pelion releases water to an 8-inch main with a flow of 500 gallons a minute, he said, Gore and Storrie recommend this be changed to a 24-inch main.

In response to a question from town solicitor William Weston, Mr. Powell said "everybody on the west side would be helped by this (Dufferin line) to some degree."

It is one improvement for a system that Gore and Storrie suggest needs $872,000 in new capital works. The Dufferin trunk will enable considerable additional construction on the west side in addition to Dufferin. Sunrise Developments to the east of Dufferin Developments may use it.

Public Utilities Chairman D. James MacDonald said "we have to overcome 20 years with a lack of engineering" and the PUC will "have to go to debentures" to upgrade water service.

"It has been brought quite forcibly to light that our system is inadequate. It was only in May, 1969 that we shifted to using consultants and the work required is so important" he added.

Mr. MacDonald added that the Utilities Commission will not be able to finance all the Gore and Storrie recommendations in five years as the consulting firm suggests. He asked for council's assistance to implement a wide-ranging improvement program for Trenton's water system as fast as possible.

Ontario Water Resources engineer, Robert Dunn, clarified the position of the OWRC seal already affixed to Dufferin plans.

He said OWRC had approved Dufferin "with the assumption that the town water system is adequate." However, he explained it has never given approval to any arrangements for taking water into Dufferin — "what our Design Approvals Branch approved is circulation within the subdivision."

He indicated that the commission respects the judgements of consultants, Gore and Storrie, whose report on Trenton water supply was received by the PUC 15 months ago. The report recommends the pipeline trunk to serve western developments. Last night, all parties were convinced it is not only desirable but necessary.

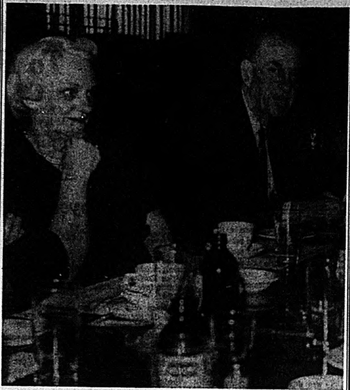
Bata Offer Accepted

BATAWA (Staff) — Members of three area locals of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union voted yesterday to accept a new contract with Bata Shoe Company.

Sixty-two per cent of the 800 union men from Frankford, Picton and Campbellford locals turned out to vote on the new agreement and 68 per cent of those voting endorsed the new contract.

The last contract with Bata terminated in October 1970. Management and labor came to terms Friday and a memorandum of settlement was signed.

Because of the condition of the domestic shoe manufacturing industry, the union bargaining committee recommended acceptance of the contract that included increased wages, shift premiums, seniority provisions and salary allotments.



Taking It Easy

Neil McNish, fifty-year employee of the CNR, was given a luncheon at the Sun Valley in commemoration of his service. Mr. McNish will be retiring this spring and he said that "I'm going to take it easy now." The CN gave him a lifetime pass on the railroad. Sitting with Mr. McNish is his wife who explained that her husband started as a messenger boy at the age of thirteen.

Dogs Harass Troubled Deer

An appeal on behalf of the area deer population for rural residents to keep their dogs tied for the next six weeks was heard yesterday at Cannifton.

Making the request was W. F. Cheshire, wildlife expert with Tweed lands and forests office, who told members of the Moira River Conservation Authority that the next six weeks were critical for the deer population.

Deep snow in the woods made it difficult for deer to get about in search of food and dogs can easily run them into exhaustion.

"They can kill deer just by chasing them — they don't have to attack them," said Mr. Cheshire.

All dogs, either large or small can chase deer. The deer-kill by dogs is estimated to be as great or greater than the number killed by cars on the highways.

Mr. Cheshire said that under provincial law, department personnel were authorized to shoot any dogs caught chasing deer.

"We don't like to shoot any person's dog but we have that authority," he said.

The deeper than normal snow this winter has made feeding much more difficult for deer, according to Mr. Cheshire.

He said department personnel were just completing a deer range improvement program in which bulldozers and snowmobiles were used to make bush trails in the deep snow to make it easier for deer to get about and browse for feeding.

New Head For Bata

BATAWA (Staff) — From March 1, William O'Rourke will be the new general manager of Batawa Footwear Division, Bata Shoe Co., succeeding Lee Kursewicz.

Mr. Kursewicz, at Batawa since 1965, will be going to the United States to manage the major Bata plant at Salem, Indiana. In addition to his Bata responsibilities, he serves as a director of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada.

The new Batawa manager has been in the shoe industry for 25 years but has joined Bata only recently. Mr. O'Rourke has served as vice-president of the Freeman Shoe Co. and held senior posts with other firms in the industry.

Close Watch Is Kept On Level of Moira

Heavy snow conditions throughout the Moira watershed, together with the high water content of the snow, are creating a flood potential for downtown Belleville during the spring breakup period.

But unless there is a prolonged mild spell or two or three days of rain there is no imminent danger.

That is the feeling today of Angus Duffy, Emergency Measurers Organizer for the Quinte area who says that a close watch is being kept on the Moira by his office and also by police and department of public works employees.

Mr. Duffy says that, while the flood potential is there, the fact that there is less ice thickness in the river than usual could minimize the flood danger.

"The river is in good shape," he said.

Except in the river mouth south of the CPR bridge, the river ice is not thick and measures only eight inches by the footbridge and six inches above the Upper Bridge.

There is a good flow of water in the open section of the river above the College Street bridge, but downstream from this point the ice remains firm with the exception of two or three spots above the Upeer Bridge.

The water level at the footbridge this morning was up three inches from yesterday, but this was attributed to the rain of a few days ago which is now filtering into the river from snow covered areas north of the city.

"We are keeping a close watch and can give good warning of any flood danger" said Mr. Duffy.

But to take care of any emergency, a three-stage warning system has been set up by EMO to warn of any flood danger.

The first is a stand-by order to be issued when river conditions and long range weather forecasts suggest that a flood is possible. The purpose of this warning would be to prepare people for a possible flood and to give time for merchants to move stock or allow residents to evacuate the threatened area.

Mr. Duffy emphasized that present conditions did not warrant the stand-by order.

The second stage warning or "preliminary" warning would be issued when river conditions are sufficiently critical to result in a flood within the next 12-hour period. At this stage Radio station CJBQ would remain on all-night broadcast and a round-the-clock watch would be kept on the river.

The third or "iminent" warning would be given if an upstream dam burst resulting in a sudden release of water or the buildup of a dangerous ice dam.

This alarm would be given only when a serious flood is considered imminent.

Spring floods on the Moira in the downtown Belleville area have been occupying since before recorded history.

Over the years there have been more than a half-dozen serious floods which have left West Bridge Street and lower Front Street under several feet of water and forced the evacuation of residents living in the area.

The last serious flood in downtown Belleville was in the spring of 1936 following three days of rain which floated ice downstream to jam at the river mouth.

Color Consultants Picked for Rink

The Belleville Recreation Arena committee has its own color co-ordinators.

Their function is to propose colors which will go on the exterior walls at the new Dick Ellis Rink in West Belleville.

Early in the year a decision was made to postpone painting at the new rink until after the winter season. Now, however, the contractor is asking that the color selection be made so that he can order the paint.

A special committee of members Robin Jeffrey, Jean Smith and Joan Guthrie was named to confer with the city engineer and decide on the colors which the rink will be painted.

Exterior work on the rink is now virtually completed and the contractor — Carr-Braint Construction — is placing fill preparatory to pouring the concrete floor of the ice surface.

But before the concrete floor goes down, the fill has to be tamped, insulation laid and the brine pipes installed. Pouring of the concrete floor for the ice surface is still two weeks or more away.

Hydro to Cost More

A sample charge for two months of residential electrical consumption of 2,000 KWH would be increased from $19.30 to $24.50. A sample small commercial consumption of 2,000 KWH would rise from $28.30 to $34.50. Using a one-month basis for consumption of 15,000 KWH, the increase would be from $171.53 to $190.50.

Again the PUC members stressed this as a sample; not as a basis for all customers.

As an indication of costs, E. L. Burnham, PUC manager, told the commission it had received in January the largest bill in the history of the PUC for monthly hydro charges, $199,148.

The PUC was also reminded by Mr. Burnham that effective Monday, March 1, an overall increase of 13.2 per cent would be added to water rates. He later explained this increase as covering the interim measures required for the filtration plant and to cover the expenses of the 2½ million gallon reservoir to the north of the city, plus connecting mains.

Adjudicators Impressed

Rotary Music Festival Competition Ends on A Happy Note

The music festival, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Belleville finished yesterday. Now it's back to the drawing board said one concerned teacher. The festival was a great success said members of the Rotary Club.

Trevor Anthony, adjudicator of the choral competition, said that every now and then you hear a special voice in the crowd. After a Welsh wink, he explained that there were several such voices in the Belleville competition.

He went on to say that the competition should not be a disheartening thing to the losers, for there really are no losers in a competition of this kind. There is something to be gained by all in the exposure to an adjudicator. It is a learning experience and not a place where people should leave regretting their performance.

Mr. Anthony was delighted with the competition of the elementary school choirs. He said that the tone and balance and brightness of the performance was excellent.

Results of the choral competitions are Grade three choir: St. Michael's, 85; Bayview Public School, 84; St. Joseph's School, 82.

Girl's solo, under 16 years: Susan Walsh, 85; Jo-Anne Scott, 81 and Joy Ferguson, 80.

The grade five choir, which had only two entries, resulted in a tie between Prince of Wales School and Sir Winston Churchill School. Both received 83 points.

The single entrant in the grade four choir was Prince of Wales School. They received 85 points.

The grade three category also received a single contestant. St. Joseph's School received 85 points on their performance.

Grade two choir, Bayview Public School, 85 and Queen Victoria with the winning mark of 86.

After lunch the competition resumed with the elementary school choirs, mixed voices.

An excellent performance, said Mr. Anthony, and awarded Harry J. Clarke School two scores of 86 for their numbers.

Grade seven choir, two parts: St. Michael's School, 85.

Grade six choir: Our Lady of Fatima School, 85; Sir Winston Churchill School No. 2, 84 and a tie for third place was between Holy Rosary and Prince of Wales with a score of 83.

Girl's solo, under 20 years: Gail Shaw, 85 and Connie Vardy, 84.

The last event of the competition was the folk event which proved to be one of the most colorful of the two - day meet.

Folk songs, 20 years and under, Moira Secondary School had the only three entries in this competition and were classified as groups 1, 2, and 3. Their points followed their names with 85 for No. 1, 84 for No. 2, and 79 for No. 3.

A solo was given in the category of folk under 20, own selection, (any language). Sheila Jourard received 86 for her performance.

The same category with the English language was again won by Sheila Jourard, 85; Arty Lee Miller, 84 and Ron Hiuser, 80.

The final event of the evening was the folk choir. A fine performance was given by the Moira Secondary School Choir and they received 86 points.

Again there were a number of categories that had lone contestants but the quality of performances was very fine said Mr. Anthony.

Adjudicator Kenneth Van Barthold judged the instrumental music participants at BCI on Thursday for the second day.

Winners were:

Accordion duet, 18 years and under, Thomas Aquino and Anne Marie Aquino, 87; Lois Martin and Clyde Dawson, 85.

Sand Truck Is Struck

PICTON (Staff) — An ounce of prevention last night failed to pay off for truck driver Arnold Thompson, 37, Bloomfield, when he collided with a car on main street east near Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. A Picton police spokesman attributed the mishap to slippery road conditions . . . Mr. Thompson was operating a sand truck when the collision occurred.

A car driven by Troyce Moore, 20, Picton, swung from a hospital exit into the path of the east-bound sand truck. Both Mr. Moore and Mr. Thompson escaped injury.

Police estimated damage to the Moore vehicle at $200.

Maple Syrup Producers Face Trouble in Snow

The excessive depth of snow in the bush — now three feet or more in the Quinte area — is causing concern producers.

Burton Hubble, RR5, Belleville, Sidney township syrup producer and secretary of the Quinte Branch of the Ontario Maple Syrup Association says the deep snow will make tapping difficult and also will make for difficult movement about the bush.

Normally, producers in the Belleville area commence tapping about the first week in March, but some year the buckets are placed late in February.

Mr. Hubble says he intended to have snowmobiles make trails throughout his bush to make it easier to place buckets and other supplies.

The Sidney producer said, however, that the deep snow might discourage some makers from tapping this spring.

John Kerr, RR2, Picton, was re-elected chairman of the Quinte Branch of the provincial association at the annual meeting held in Madoc, which saw all officers returned for another year.

Chairman Kerr and Cyril Shaw of Madoc were named members to the provincial board.

In a move to promote greater use of maple products in the Quinte area, the meeting voted to have a booth this year at the Quinte Exhibition in Belleville.

The Quinte branch of the association takes in Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and part of Peterborough county.

Firemen Help Out

Belleville firemen are ready at all times to answer fire calls.

But for the past week firemen have been going one better — turning out to assist the city public works department in clearing snow away from fire hydrants.

"It's a gesture of co-operation — with the heavy snow city public works employees just can't keep up," said Fire Chief Leo Culhane today.

Chief Culhane said firemen have been busy in all sections of the city clearing snow away from buried hydrants.

So, if fire trucks are seen passing along residential streets for the next day or so it doesn't necessarily mean that there is a fire.

It could mean that firemen are acting the Good Samaritan and helping out the public works department.

Y Receives Cheque, Elects Officers

The final payment for the building fund, pledged by the Y's Men's Club, was made last night at the annual meeting of the YMCA. The pledge totalling $12,500, was paid in yearly instalments.

Ron McNutt, president of the Y's Men's Club and an Irishman, showed a little discontent last night at having to wear a kilt.

It is all part of an advertising campaign for the Breath of Scotland which will be appearing March 24.

Guest speaker, D. S. Kirk, area vice - president for the Y could not attend the meeting because of sudden illness.

City council was represented by Alderman Enos David who spoke of the first endeavors of the Y, which included going to the bank and signing a $7,000 note to finance the purchasing of playground equipment.

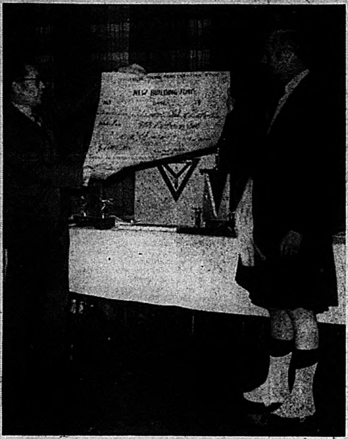
During the evening, several awards were presented to members of the Y who had given outstanding service in the past year. The Leader Fellowship award was given to Mrs. Carolyn Moynes, Brian Hallam and Mrs. Irene Harris.

Aquatic awards were given to Danny Nemirovsky, Susan Thompson, Carol Thick, Patsy Manning and David Hahn who is also an instructor at the Y.

Every aspect of the Y was demonstrated at the meeting. Judo demonstrations brought groans from the audience and the kindergym brought sighs.

Elections for the Board of Directors were held at the meeting which resulted in Doug Ashley, David Bell, Douglas Boyle, John Hayman, Frank Heisz, Dr. Douglas Horne, Dr. John Locke, Mrs. Nell Lockyer, William MacKay, Mrs. Dorothy MacKinnon, Danny Nemirovsky and Cathy Watson being chosen for the positions.

This year the board was reduced from 30 to 24 members.



Receipt for Kilted Irishman

At the annual meeting of the YMCA, the final payment of $1,000 was made from the Y's Men's Club to complete their pledge of $12,500 to the building fund of the Y. John Hayman, president, noted that the cheques from the Y's Men's Club had often come in various sizes, so this year the receipts would have to be a little special. Ron McNutt, president of the Y's Men's club and an Irishman showed some grief at the thought of wearing a kilt. The kilt was part of the promotion campaign of an upcoming event.

A Match for Them

When we think of the present confrontation between youth and the older generation, whipped up as it is to artificial proportions by the immediacy of modern communications, it is to conclude all too often that the adult world has knuckled under, relinquished its responsibility in maintaining some semblance of discipline among the rising generation.

All too often, we say, but not altogether, and we may be glad that this is so. Now and again one encounters a man of good breeding combined with inner strength and conviction, not to mention debating skill which can be more than a match for the arrogance and political dogma of the young.

Such a man is the Welsh nationalist MP, a Mr. Evans who recently defended his political aspirations against students of Oxford University in a transplanted CBC "Under Attack" program. By "transplanted" we mean that the program, from its usual base in Canada, apparently is now finding subject matter overseas.

We hold no brief for Welsh nationalism, but we liked the way Mr. Evans handled himself and the students who, like some of their politically-oriented counterparts here, were full of sound and fury and claptrap. Mr. Evans spoke quietly and knowledgeably throughout and when interrupted, he stood his ground and with a polite "let me finish" always managed to conclude what he was saying. At one point, after a student had spoken of the Welsh language as "lingo," Mr. Evans replied, "Well. to begin with you have spoken offensively (meaning the reference to 'lingo')..."

We should be similarly on the alert in this country for misuse of language (perhaps recent exchanges in the Commons suggest that we are!) and vulgarity. One example which frequently occurs is reference (usually in connection with political gatherings) to a banquet as being say a "$50 a plate" affair. Is it necessary to mention the cost at all — let alone describe it in a way that is in such questionable taste?

Still Around

Last fall, when fashion designers and manufacturers were predicting the demise of the miniskirt, we read of a Johannesburg museum curator who was seeking minis for his establishment because they might never be seen again. Of course the tables were turned; for once womenfolk decided almost unanimously that they would not heed the dictates of the fashion hierarchy and so the mini remains. Now, the controversy has gone full circle with an Ottawa museum having acquired one of CP-Air's ill-fated midi skirts, worn by the airline's stewardesses until grounded as a result of public protest.

Time Running Out

Time is running out for drivers still running on 1970 plates. Tomorrow is the deadline. But how much longer must we tolerate this tiresome ritual? As someone pointed out on television the other night this annual exercise in officialdom and bureaucracy represents a colossal waste of public time.

The Ontario government, under the new leadership of William Davis, could do us all a favor by devising some method that would eliminate the need to have new plates year after year.

Fellow Travellers

Irish activist MP Bernadette Devlin has been touring Canada and the United States. Recently she visited black power radical Angela Davis, who is in custody in a California jail. One wonders what they talked about . . . the coming revolution, we suppose, which they and fellow activists keep ranting about. The rest of us might as well take warning from such encounters, but on the less serious side we are reminded of the saying "birds of a feather flock together."

Five-year Royalty

The monarchy of Malaysia is an interesting one in that it is an elected office. Abdul Halim Shah, 43, and his beautiful Queen were installed in office at a recent ceremony in Kuala Lumpur. He is the fifth king of Malaysia and will reign for five years. In the annals of Royalty this is surely a unique situation and while it would not be a suitable practice in our part of the world it evidently suits the Malays very well.

Unrest Persists Despite Reforms

Kremlin Ready For Any Czech-Style Trends in Poland

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Unrest in Poland continues to keep the new leaders of that Communist country in a worried frame of mind despite a number of measures already taken in an attempt to tranquilize the discontented masses.

The newcomers to Communist party supremacy now have reversed the move to higher consumer prices which set off violent demonstrations of dissatisfaction in Poland's Baltic ports just before Christmas.

They also have instituted wide-ranging purges of party officials on the local level, aiming to replace followers of former Gomulka with personalities less alienated from popular feeling.

Edward Gierek, Gomulka's successor in the all-powerful post of party secretary, arrived in office with the reputation of being a tough, pragmatic Communist sparkplug.

His appearance at the top was followed rapidly by a variety of steps designed to bring the party more in line with mass demands for a better deal on the consumer front.

The protesters in the Baltic ports became less demonstrative and it seemed Gierek was producing the results many observers predicted would flow from his brand of leadership.

The policy of returning retail prices to their pre-December levels was carefully mapped out by Gierek, who gave credit to Soviet aid for his ability to give Polish consumers more retail leeway than they received from the unpopular Gomulka.

But lately there has been a strike by textile workers—many of them women—in the central Polish city of Lodz.

And reports are circulating of unrest in the Warsaw region, too, particularly at a major textile factory there.

A trip by Gierek to a farming community near Poland's frontier with the Soviet Union led to additional reports that either the party secretary was planning talks with Russian leaders or was himself concerned about the situation in what hitherto was regarded as a trouble-free area of the country.

The possibility at present is that Poland may be in for the kind of internal tension which resulted in the rise of liberal forces in Czechoslovakia four years ago and which ultimately caused the Russians to dispatch tanks and troops against the "pro-bourgeois" tendencies unleashed by Alexander Dubcek.

The Russians, with memories of that crisis still fresh in their minds, are closely watching current developments in Poland and presumably are ready to take drastic action again if they consider the pro-Moscow government to be on the brink of breakdown or defection.

But the Brezhnev-Kosygin partnership in the Soviet capital also has taken precautions at home against the kind of consumer discontent which is causing the Polish Communists so much trouble.

Ostensibly at least, the new plan covering future economic programs in Russia gives increased prominence to the development of industries turning out consumer products such as cars.

This shift in Soviet domestic policy together with the changes pressed through in Poland over the last two months show that even monolithic Communist governments no longer feel themselves capable of ignoring Western-style demands by their subjects for more of the luxuries of life.

Parkinson's Law and How It Operates: In Winnipeg Not to Mention Ottawa

Winnipeg Free Press

Politicians are slow to learn. They do not realize that Parkinson's Law — although promulgated with some levity by the writer who gave it his name— is as valid as any other law. Parkinson's Law says, in part, that the number of people in any working group tends to increase, regardless of the amount of work to be done.

Greater Winnipeg had an example when Metro was set up a decade ago. Because Metro was going to take over some of the functions of local governments, it was confidently predicted that the number of people required to run local governments would drop. Nothing of the sort happened, of course; the number of mayors, councillors, reeves, etc., stayed the same and now many of them are making the same kind of noises about the provincial government's proposals to streamline Greater Winnipeg government as they made about Metro.

The latest example of the working of Parkinson's Law comes from Ottawa. Some months ago Information Canada was set up. Its stated purpose was to act as a relatively small co-ordinating agency. It was expected that its work would take some of the load off government departments which could then cut their public relations and information staffs.

What has happened? Information Canada now has a staff of 381, expected to rise to 500; present annual salaries total $2.8 million. And have departmental information staffs decreased as a result? Not at all. In accordance with Parkinson's Law, the number of people working for departments in this line of work has gone up to 1,002 from 900 since Information Canada went into business.

Perhaps it is time that the taxpayer — who pays for the implementation of Parkinson's Law — began to put his foot down.

Highway 17's "Killer Strip"

Ottawa Journal

Probably every second major metoropolitan area in Canada has in its vicinity a stretch of highway designated by the much-misused term "killer strip". Few are as infamous as the 65-mile stretch of Highway 17 between Ottawa and the Ontario-Quebec border.

What makes a "killer strip"? That stretch of Highway 17 has for the past five years had an average of one fatal accident a month, but there are scores of other highway stretches that length with similar rates. There is justification to the argument that most of the fatal accidents on Highway 17 are caused more by driver error than the conditon of the road. But while driver error and the car itself are factors in many accidents, research has shown that the road and surroundings contribute heavily to accidents Bad roads often help cause driver errors.

The statistic that shows Highway 17 to be Canada's most dangerous stretch of major highway is the death rate in relation to miles driven, the highest rate in all Canada. This stretch has a rate of 18 deaths per 100 million motor vehicle miles driven. Highway 401 between Toronto and Montreal has a rate of only three per 100 million.

But that appalling figure seems to have little effect in Toronto, where officials are setting priorities for highway construction. Highway 417, to replace 17 between here and Point Fortune, is still at least four years away.

Four more years of the highest death rate in Canada? It's nothing short of senseless.

This relatively straightforward 65-mile highway can be built in half the time if the Highways Department will finally decide on a route and go on with putting out enough contracts to get the entire road under construction. Further western extension of the Queensway and the proposed rebuilding of Highway 17 between Arnprior and Haley Station can wait. The words "killer strip" should be taken off the Eastern Ontario map without further delay.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 26, 1951

The February meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held with the president Ald. C. L. Hyde in the chair. Mr. Hyde announced that the Honorable Rev. Major J. W. Foote, VC, MPP minister of Reform Institutions would be the speaker at the annual meeting in April.

Marking the first milestone in their career as student nurses, 21 young women were formally accepted into the school of nurses after three months' probation at the Belleville General Hospital. A. Dorothy Potts, director of Nursing, spoke briefly congratulating the students and welcoming the guests. Rev. J. G. Hornsby offered prayers.

30 YEARS AGO

February 26, 1941

With upwards of 1,000 acclaiming spectators in attendance, the Quinte Skating Club wound up the two-night presentation of its winter show at the Hume Arena.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reid have been spending a few days in Toronto.

Brotherhood Plaque for Controversial Minister

From the Kingston Whig - Standard

Rev. Brian Thrasher, controversial minister of Calvary-Zion United Church in North Kinston Parish and well-known youth worker, received the Kingston and District Summer Festival Brotherhood Plaque last Saturday.

This is the third year the brotherhood plaque has been presented. In 1969, it was awarded to Wenzel Raabe and in 1970, to Joseph Marriott.

Presenting the award to Mr. Thrasher, Ald. James Cook suggested that brotherhood is "doing things for others that the average person would not tackle."

"This man's profession requires that he be interested in all facets of social problems, to be a counsellor and problem solver. However, our recipient goes away beyond the maximum requirement.

"He is extremely interested in the youth of our city. He is teacher, counsellor, problem-solver, and on a great many occasions, fills in as a parent to youth who may be temporarily lost in this mad world.

"Our award winner is a showman and he uses his God-given talents to reach our mod-hippy age and to guide youth and old along that straight and narrow path that is required in this life," said Ald. Coob.

Helicopter Deal Causes More Ripples on African Scene

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Shipment of seven helicopters to South Africa—a relatively small order in terms of arms sales—is likely to deepen Afro-Asian disillusionment with Britain's role as Commonwealth leader.

The concern among black Africans may not be so much that the helicopters will be turned against them as the indication, through the deal, that links between the British and South African governments are increasing and becoming more intimate.

It suggests to the African mind that in the search for friends to fight apartheid they cannot expect much help or sympathy from an administration which thinks more of debatable "legal obligations" than the injustice and suffering caused by racial oppression.

The Heath government has argued that arms for South Africa are essential because of the Soviet naval threat to vital Cape of Good Hope sea routes. An eight-country Commonwealth committee, including Canada, was established to study that threat supposedly growing in the Indian Ocean.

But the speed with which the British government decided to accept orders for helicopters suggests that London does bot give much weight to the Commonwealth committee. Legal obligation, rather than Indian Ocean security, was the reason given in Parliament for the immediate move on the helicopters.

Some British commentators suggest that if the matter rests there, the damage to inter-racial co-operaion within the Commonwealth may be limited; the Commonwealth may survive. But the British government gave no assurance against further deals. The decision will rest with Britain and will be considered in the light of Britain's interests.

The extent of Commonwealth damage caused by the British move is yet to be assessed. It may take weeks before African leaders meet and consider their response, but already, in some quarters, there is talk of the need of a new Commonwealth, a new gathering of like-spirited leaders.

Advocates suggest the initial grouping may be small, but at least it would remove the element of hostility, circling the existing framework with bitterness and unreality.

Munro Calls Welfare Aid to Big Cities Unattractive Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs repeated in the Commons Thursday demands for federal aid to big-city welfare rolls, but Welfare Minister John Munro called such aid the least attractive kind of social policy.

Perry Ryan (PC—Toronto Spadina) and David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the government should transfer money to Toronto to offset rising welfare costs caused by high unemployment.

Mr. Munro replied that merely transferring funds to the city would not guarantee it would benefit those most in need.

Other policies were fairer ways of providing income to the poor than conventional welfare doles.

The MPs were debating a Conservative motion Thursday asking the House to condemn "the government's failure to foresee and take steps to provide for the escalating effects of its unemployment policy upon the social assistance funds of the provinces and municipalities and its failure to consult and co-operate with the provinces and municipalities in providing emergency financial support and employment programs."

The motion was defeated 105 to 67, with the three opposition parties uniting against the Liberals.

Standing in the 264-seat House: Liberal 152, Conservative 72, NDP 23, Creditiste 13, Independent 1, vacant 3.

Mr. Ryan, who sponsored the motion, said the government should take the example of the recently-announced United States revenue-sharing program of President Nixon, which would transfer federal tax money to the states for both specific and general purposes.

Mr. Orlikow offered an amendment to the motion to have the government raise its share of spending under the Canada Assistance Plan to 65 per cent from 50 per cent.

Provincial governments now pay 30 per cent and municipalities 20 per cent.

The amendment was also defeated 105 to 67.

Robert Kaplan (L—Toronto Don Valley) said the MPs had apparently forgotten that Canada already has a revenue-sharing plan very much better than the U.S. proposals.

Under the Income Tax Act a share of taxes is allotted to the provinces, which are permitted to raise taxes by any means except customs and tariffs.

The Nixon plan was a "pale, puny counterpart at best."

As for federal contributions of big city welfare spending, that would simply put a bigger burden on taxpayers in such cities as Toronto.

The opposition proposal was entirely illusory since the higher taxes would hit relatively well-off cities such as Toronto in a disproportionate amount.

Such a program would benefit poorer areas such as Quebec and the Maritimes. Toronto "would be substantially worse off."

Mr. Kaplan went on to score Ontario and Toronto authorities for neglecting to take up their share of the $160 million in loans offered to the provinces by the federal government in November.

During the high-unemployment period this winter, the Ontario government "was sitting back and doing nothing."

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said the Conservative government 10 years ago had made the same mistakes, with the same economic results, as the present Liberal government.

He called for a national dividend—an initial $100 to every Canadian —to stimulate buying, bring factories back into production and put men back to work.

The economic problem was under-consumption, not over-production.

E. B. Osler (L—Winnipeg South Centre) accused opposition parties of failing to offer solid suggestions to alleviate unemployment.

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer had argued that the federal government was doing nothing to overcome the province's unemployment.

The federal government had forwarded loans and grants to the provinces, and paid the lion's share of welfare and unemployment insurance costs, Mr. Osler said.

Charles Thomas (PC—Moncton) called for selective cuts in personal and corporate taxes to relieve the staggering load of urban welfare budgets.

First Pickering Nuclear Reactor Is Started

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — The first of four nuclear reactors at Ontario Hydro's Pickering nuclear power station was successfully started Thursday.

"An extended period of testing and checking will be required before the unit is advanced to its full capacity of 540,000 kilowatts," Ontario Hydro Chairman George Gathercole said in a speech.

When the plant is completed it is expected to generate 2.16 million kilowatts. It is one of the largest nuclear power stations in the world and the largest of its size near a major population centre.

It was started in 1965 on a 500-acre Lake Ontario site 20 miles east of downtown Toronto.

The second reactor unit is scheduled for start-up toward the end of this year.

The third and fourth units will not be completed until 1972 and 1973.

Estimated cost of the station is $862 million, shared by Ontario Hydro and the federal and provincial governments.

The Pickering station is the third in which Ontario Hydro has co-operated with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., which designed and built the CANDU-type reactor.

The other units are the 20,000-kilowatt nuclear power demonstration unit at Rolphto, 30 onstration unit at Rolphton, 30 the Ottawa River, and the Douglas Point station near Kincardine on Lake Huron which is supposed to produce 200,000 kilowatts.

Pollution Probe Protest Called Irresponsible

TORONTO (CP) — An anti-pollution group's intimation that dangerous radioactivity may leak from Ontario Hydro's nuclear generating stations was called "bloody irresponsibility" by a Hydro official Thursday.

Pollution Probe held a news conference Thursday shortly after Hydro successfully started up the first reactor at its new Pickering nuclear power station, 20 miles east of downtown Toronto.

Robert Wilson, of Hydro's medical services division, became angry at three taped messages Probe had prepared for eventual radio broadcast.

Mr. Wilson said ths Douglas point nuclear generating plant on Lake Huron near Kincardine, prototype of the Pickering plant, has had negligible effects on the local environment.

He said that radiation emission from Pickering will be so slight "that if you stayed at the plant boundary for a whole year you would get a dose much less than you would by living in Banff, Alta."

He later explained that Banff is at a higher elevation than Toronto, which increases its exposure to natural levels of radiation.

A news release issued by Pollution Probe called on Hydro and Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. to "tell the truth about Douglas Point and Pickering" by releasing monthly statements on radioactive emissions, accident analyses describing the possibility of mishaps at the plants, and statistics on radiation dosage of plant employees.

AECL public relations officer Roy Burge said the Probe release was "an attempt to secure publicity."

He released figures showing that Douglas Point's daily emissions in 1970 were a fraction of permissible levels set by the Atomic Energy Control Board and well below the more-stringent levels some scientists favor.

'Execution' Announcement Said Written by Paul Rose

MONTREAL (CP) — A handwritten message from the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec announcing the "execution" of Pierre Laporte was written by Paul Rose and several other messages contained his fingerprints, experts testified Thursday.

Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, a handwriting expert with the Quebec medico-legal institute, testified at Rose's trial for the kidnap-killing of Mr. Laporte that the accused wrote the note which announced the "execution" of the Quebec labor minister.

He said the message was one of three in Rose's handwriting received from the FLQ, the terrorist group which claimed responsibility for the Oct. 10 kidnapping of Mr. Laporte and his death a week later.

Sgt. Lloyd Dunham of the RCMP in Ottawa said he detected fingerprints of the accused on FLQ messages delivered Oct. 11, 12, 18 and 27 and identified Mr. Laporte's fingerprints on two of them.

Rose, 27, is charged with his brother Jacques, 23 Bernard Lortie, 19, and Francis Simard, 23, in the abduction and killing of the cabinet minister.

Dr. Roussel also identified Simard as the writer of an FLQ message found Oct. 21 explaining how Mr. Laporte suffered three deep gashes from broken glass in an attempt to escape Oct. 17.

Police received a total of eight messages in October purporting to be from the Laporte kidnappers. Four were handwritten or printed in black capital letters and the other four were typewritten.

Earlier at the trial, another RCMP expert told the Court of Queen's Bench the four typewritten messages were typed on the same machine.

The type face also matched the typing on scraps of paper found in a bungalow in suburban St. Hubert where police say the labor minister was held for a week by his captors.

All four accused made brief appearances in the courtroom Thursday for identification purposes.

Rose was identified by two Montreal taxi drivers who said they drove him to or from the St. Hubert bungalow on Oct. 11.

All four were identified by the police who took their fingerprints after they were arrested.

Rose, who has refused the services of a defence lawyer, was banished from the courtroom Feb. 8 for disrupting proceedings. Mr. Justice Marcel Nichols has offered to readmit the accused if he apologizes and promises to behave, but Rose has refused the offer.

Respect-for-Life Day Is April 25

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Roman Catholic bishops Thursday announced that a special "respect-for-life" day, mainly directed against abortion, has been set for April 25.

Archbishop Joseph-Aurele Plourde of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Catholic Conference of Bishops, told a news conference that the day will be an annual event but the emphasis will be on abortion this year because of the current importance of the issue.

He said there will be a statement from the bishops and dissemination of information by Catholic groups across the country.

The archbishop said that in coming years the emphasis may be on other aspects of life, such as the growing problem of pollution.

The bishops have also decided to meet with women church members to discuss such issues as the recent report of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, he said.

A questionnaire is being circulated to women's groups across the country to pinpoint the problems they are most concerned about.

The bishops will discuss some of these problems with representatives of Catholic women's groups at the mid-April general meeting of the conference of bishops.

The Archbishop also presented a cheque for $40,984 to Rev. Robert Riendeau, general treasurer of Caritas Internationalis, for the Pakistan Relief Fund.

Archbishop Plourde said the church is not opposed to certain types of therapeutic abortion where the fetus dies during an operation on the mother's womb. But the church would be opposed to abortion on demand.

The question of women entering the priesthood may be discussed.

He said he is not opposed to women entering the priesthood or the diaconate—the step before becoming a priest—if there are no theological objections and if a genuine need is demonstrated.

Archbishop Plourde said four bishops have been elected to represent Canadian bishops at the upcoming world synod of Catholic bishops in Rome in October.

They are: Bishop Alexander Carter of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; George Cardinal Flahiff of Winnipeg; Archbishop Paul Gregoire of Montreal; and Archbishop Plourde.

Archbishop Philip Pocock of Toronto and Bishop Henri Legare of Labrador and Schefferville, Que. have been chosen alternate delegates.

Off-duty Policemen Told to Be Careful

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday recommended that off-duty policemen be careful in pursuing any vehicle they believe is "acting in a manner contrary to safe driving."

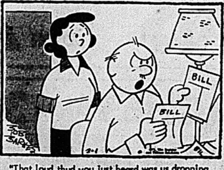
The jury, probing the Christmas Eve traffic death of Anton Myskiw, said that such caution was especially important "when a police officer has no way of identifying himself."

Detective John Bell told the jury Mr. Myskiw paid no attention to him when he tried to make him pull over to the side of the road several blocks before he was involved in a four-car accident. He died a month later.

The detective, who was off-duty and out of uniform and driving his own gold-colored car, said he blew his horn and signalled Mr. Myskiw to pull over.

The jury was told that the Myskiw car accelerated to 50 miles an hour, and collided with a car travelling in the opposite direction.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes



"That loud thud you just heard was us dropping from lower middle-class to the upper lower-class!"

You've changed.

You're in a mood to demand a lot more for your money. Good.

We've changed.

We've made mid-size Chevelle fit your mood even better.

Chevelle

Chevelle has always been one of Canada's most popular mid-size cars. So there's no way we'd make any drastic changes in the 1971 Chevelle. What we did was make a few improvements.

STARTING AT THE BEGINNING. We re-styled the grille and the front bumper. There are big, new, brighter, single Power-Beam headlights. And new front fender lights do triple-duty by serving as parking, turn-signal and side marker lights.

INSIDE. The steering wheel has a cushioned centre and there are softer and safer instrument panel knobs. Interiors are restyled for '71 with new patterns. New trim, too.

MECHANICALLY SPEAKING. Two big anti-pollution improvements. An Evaporation Control System minimizes evaporation of fuel into the atmosphere. And Chevelle's engines are designed to operate efficiently, and with lower exhaust emissions, on low-lead, no-lead, or regular fuels. You've changed. You're more concerned about clean air. So are we.

THE OUTSIDE STORY. Very bright, with a choice of 15 Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer colors—13 all new for 1971. And to wrap it all up, a resculptured rear bumper (looks good, doesn't it?) with built-in taillights.

That's the 1971 Chevelle. The mid-size car that gives you big-size value. Just what you're in the mood for.
Right?

Quinte NSA Chapter Hears Talk by MPP

The members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) were challenged "to take an active interest in our laws," by Dr. R. T. Potter, local doctor and Quinte Member of the Provincial Parliament, at the February meeting of the Chapter held at the Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

With his theme "The Secretary — How Does the Law Affect Her", Dr. Potter traced the progression of law down through the ages to the present day. "Working women in Ontario make up ⅓ of the present work force", Dr. Potter said, "and we can help protect our laws not only by preserving them and teaching them to our children, but we can also help to develop such reforms by making suggestions to our local MP."

Dr. Potter was introduced by Phylis Graham and thanked by Barbara Miller for a most interesting and thought provoking presentation.

In keeping with the "Program of the Year" theme "The Law — Scales of Justice" quizzes were distributed to test the members knowledge.

Mrs. Joan Wilson, membership committee chairman, introduced and welcomed guests, Miss Annis Culloden, Dept. of Nat'l Revenue (Income Tax Division) and our first Provisional member; June Broad, Watson and Wiegand; Linda Lovelace, Hastings Co. Board of Education; Kay Tutt, Olivetti Underwood; Lenore Wilkes and Edith Green, Ontario Society for Crippled Children; Kay Post, Pyrotenax, Trenton; Sue Johnston, Home Care Program, Belleville General Hospital; Barbara Newman, Belleville Collegiate Institute and Merle Simpson, City Hall.

Gabrielle Watkins chaired the business session. Iris Downing reported on the seminar to be held in April. Marjorie Cross announced the program for March will be the very timely subject of "Income Tax". Marlene Phillips reported plans were progressing for Secretaries' Week. Marg Kleinsteuber announced the dessert bridge and euchre to be held on Tuesday, March 2, at St. Joseph's School Auditorium. Door prize was won by Iris Downing.

FOXBORO EMMANUEL UCW

Susan Welkman and Janice Vader, delegates to the Loo Alpha conference in Niagara Falls gave a resume of their experiences at the first general meeting in 1971 of the Foxboro UCW held on February 22, with the president Mrs. Muriel Finkle in the chair.

Miss Dora Cook was in charge of the worship service and the program. Mrs. Earl Dafoe assisted Miss Cook.

During the business portion the meeting the budget for [illegible] was presented and accepted as read. Plans for a tea and for a supper were discussed and dates were set.

It was announced that the World Day of prayer is to be held at Westminster United Church on March 5 at 2 p.m. Rev. D. Himmelman will be the guest speaker and all are invited to attend.

The meeting closed with a benediction.

Dr. J. Bronskill Speaks On Anti-pollution Role

A talk on the anti-pollution role of the Belleville Research Institute was given by Dr. Joan Bronskill at the recent Canadian Federation of University Women of Belleville.

In her opening remarks she stated that the research program was directed towards finding non-polluting alternatives to conventional pesticides and herbicides for controlling insect pests and weeds. Some alternatives are now in use, while others are being developed.

Dr. Bonskill used slides to illustrate her description of alternative methods of pest and weed control. The methods included the introduction and release of predators, parasites and pathogens of insect pests. The praying mantis and diseases of the cabbage looper were cited as examples. The uses of sex attractants produced by moths, and hormones, ie chemicals produced by the insects themselves were described. Silica formulations may be applied to crop plants to protect them by interfering with the egg laying or feeding of a pest, and anti - tanning agents may be used to interfere with pest metabolism.

Research and development work being conducted by the Research Branch Canada De- Belleville and elsewhere on pest control will reduce the need for persistent chemicals on field crops.

A short business meeting preceded the speaker. A budget for the balance of 1971 was outlined by the treasurer, Mrs. D. T. Thompson. A suggestion of donations from the members was proposed to balance the budget for the year.

'Always Room For More'

STELLARTON, N.S. (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Robson live out the adage "always room for one more." They have been parents to more than 80 children.

Their house is listed as an emergency home, which means they will take a child any time of the day or night.

They began caring for other children in 1958. Then they had one child of their own and two adopted children and there were no playmates of the same ages where they lived.

The Robsons asked the Children's Aid Society for a four-year-old girl as a companion for their daughter.

Days later the society said it had two sisters, aged nine and 11, who needed a home, and the Robsons began their practice of looking after other people's children.

Although the Robsons open their doors to children for a few days or a few weeks, they also make children full-fledged members of their family.

They have had one child for five years; two sisters for six years; a boy for six years and their one-year-old baby since birth.

"When people ask which children are mine, I have to stop and think—they are all ours," Mrs. Robson says.

She claims extra children do not mean more work. "I was just as busy with two children. I decided to stop being so fussy and enjoy my children more."

The older children help the young ones get ready for school and for bed. "They keep their own rooms clean."

The Robsons' 100-year-old house has five bedrooms and is surrounded by more than two acres of land.

Mrs. Robson's formula for child care: "Basically, it boils down to loving them and showing them you care. With love, a child will do anything for you."

The Robsons usually have eight children with them at one time.

As they sit down to a meal at their large, specially-made table, Kenny Robson sometimes looks around and asks: "Any new faces?"

CLUB ACTIVITIES

QUINTE FIELD NATURALISTS

The Quinte Field Naturalists' Club held their annual dinner on Monday, February 22 at the Eastminster United Church hall. A good turnout of members and interested friends attended in spite of icy roads and poor weather.

The women of Eastminster United Church prepared and served a delicious turkey dinner. Among those at the head table were Mr. Verne Graham, president; the Rev. A. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell; Miss Gertrude Lazier, secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Knight and the guest speaker, Martin Parker, from Peterborough.

Mr. Parker is the president of the Peterborough Naturalists' Club, a second-year biology student at Trent University and during the summer months works as a naturalist at Presqu'ile Provincial Park. His talk, entitled "Through the Seasons at Presqu'ile" was accompanied by many slides of birds, flowers, animals and insects, beautifully photographed in their natural habitat, Presqu'ile Provincial Park.

During the evening a draw was held for a bird feeder, two bird nesting houses, several bowls of daffodils, and a book about birds in Prince Edward County by Terry Sprague.

The Quinte Field Naturalists bade farewell to its president, Verne Graham, who leaves in March to take up a position in Toronto. Terry Sprague of Picton, the past president, has consented to take over as president for the remainder of the year.

Bad News Should Wait 'Til Morning

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work for a heart specialist. A patient whom we have been seeing for several months just left the office in a state of near collapse. It seems a neighbor telephoned her after midnight to inform her of the death of a mutual friend. This woman, who is sick herself, became terribly upset and now she must spend several days in bed.

ANN LANDERS

Please tell me what there is to be gained by phoning a sick or elderly person in the middle of the night to give bad news? The person who gets the call can do nothing to help. He is merely robbed of a badly-needed night's sleep. I urge you to tell your readers that if they have bad news they should at least wait 'til morning. It's easier to face. And if you can tell me, Ann Landers, why people are so stupid and inconsiderate I'd appreciate it. Thank you. — SECRETARY TO A CARDIOLOGIST.

DEAR SEC.: There's more involved here than stupidity and lack of consideration. There's a tinge of sadism in the person who enjoys being the bearer of bad tidings. These gloom merchants consider it a major victory if they are the first with the bad news.

I doubt that this column will deter them, but perhaps it will help wise up the victims of such calls. That "dear friend" who wanted you to be the first to know is no friend.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing this from Vietnam. Your column appears in the Saigon daily paper and we see it whenever we can.

I received two bundles of mail last week. In the first bundle were two letters telling me that my girl is stepping out. In the second bundle was another letter — same news. Today I received two letters from my girl saying she had dinner with a guy she knew in high school. He married a friend of hers and there is no funny stuff going on. I'm sure of it.

What do people back home think they are accomplishing by writing a man in the service that his girl is cheating? Do they believe it will cheer him up? Every one of the people who wrote said they were telling me because they were "true friends." I don't call this friendship. Do you? Please print my letter and add a blast of your own. Thanks, Ann. — GRIPE OF AN INFANTRYMAN.

DEAR G.I.: Read the advice in the letter above. It applies here, also. As I said up there — "true friends" like these, nobody needs.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can be done about a teacher who picks on a child unmercifully? Our 10-year-old son Orrin is not a bad boy. He's average. No better and no worse than any of the other boys in his room.

Yesterday his teacher sent Orrin home for no reason at all. He was crying when he walked into the house — humiliated and hurt. Why would a teacher be so mean as to do this? I'd like your opinion. — MOM WHO WANTS FAIRNESS.

DEAR MOM: When a child is sent home from school "for no reason" — there's a reason. Go to the school and find out what it is.

It is interesting that you have decided the teacher is mean without knowing the facts. Mothers who blindly side with their children against teachers invariably do their children more harm than good.

Successful Living

Reader Supplies Poem Sought by Bereft

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I think it may perhaps be an ode by Ben Jonson, "On the Death of Sir H. Morrison", that your correspondent "Bereft" has in mind. I enclose a copy and hope that he may find it of some comfort to him — Mrs. E. T.

Dear Mrs. E. T.: It is such a comforting message, for any one who has lost a loved one while she was still young and lovely, that I am reproducing it here.

The Noble Nature

It is not growing like a tree
In bulk, doth make men better be:
Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and sere:
A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May,
Although it fall and die that night:
It was the plant and flower of light.
In small proportions we just beauties see:
And in short measures life may perfect be.

• • •

Dear Doris: Is it proper for a secretary (she is married) to phone her boss' wife and tell her she is not doing enough for her husband and then to go on bragging about all she does for him? After all, she is getting paid for it.

She even threatens her she will get him into her bedroom. Every birthday she brings him a big cake and taunts the boss' wife that others think her little girl resembles the boss.

This may all sound childish but I'm sure it gets very nerve-wracking for the boss' wife. — Shocked

Dear Shocked: Does anybody really think that this Office Wife is behaving like a lady? Yet I can't help wondering how she happens to feel so sure of herself. Could it be that hubby is confiding in her about the shortcomings he sees in Number One Wife?

He would probably blow his top if he knew how O.W. was betraying his confidences. If I were the lawful wife, I would face him with it all and suggest that we talk things over. A marriage counsellor might help — but not a meddling secretary.

• • •

Dear Doris: Could I change my name? We are buying a home in the city. Joint husband and wife sign bank accounts, title transfers, etc.

Is it legal for a woman to change her first name when it comes to deal in business such as I have mentioned? — What's In A Name?

Dear What's: No reason why not. Your county court will register your new first name for vital statistics purposes. Then it must be changed on all legal documents such as bank accounts, driver's licence, property deeds. Costs very little.

• • •

Doris reserves the right to ignore anonymous letters. If you have a legitimate beef, sign your name to your note about it. All names are kept confidential.

Labelled Stupid

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Two of the recommendations of the royal commission on the status of women were labelled respectively "stupid" and "crazy" recently by the woman chiefly responsible for the establishment of the commission. Laura Sabia of St. Catharines called "stupid" the recommendation that mothers be paid $500 a year for each of their children under 16. And she described as "crazy" the suggestion that a married man's tax deduction for his dependent wife be reduced from the present $1,000 to $600.

Once Added Squirrel to Brunswick Stew

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: When travelling in the South we eat a Brunswick stew that is delicious. As far as I could make out it contains — chicken pieces, kernel corn, lima beans, okra and stewed tomatoes. If you have the recipe would you please send it to me? I enjoy your column very much and use it frequently. Thank you very much. — J. W.

ANSWER: I had forgotten about Brunswick Stew. Thank you for bringing it back to my mind. We went to the files and found our October 1958 release giving it. You mention okra and it should go in. It is a common vegetable in southern United States. If you can buy it fresh frozen or canned in your area add a package or can of sliced okra and you will give the stew its authentic taste.

(Incidentally, one recipe I made up about 33 years ago started "first catch a black squirrel." My husband did shoot a squirrel (by accident) and I cleaned and added it to the pot. It was a great success.)

BRUNSWICK STEW

One 4-lb. boiling fowl
2 tsps. salt
4 potatoes, pared and cubed
1 cup fresh or canned kernel corn
2 diced onions
1 cup lima beans, fresh or dried
2 cups tomatoes, canned or fresh
¼-lb. diced salt pork or side bacon
1 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. pepper

Disjoint chicken. Put eight cups water and the 2 tsps. salt on to boil. Add chicken pieces, potatoes, corn, onion, beans, tomatoes, salt pork or bacon (and okra if used — see above). Cover and simmer for 2¾ hrs. stirring gently every ½ hr. Mix butter and flour to a smooth paste and stir in a little of the hot broth then add to simmering pot, stirring. Cover and cook 15 min. longer. Taste for salt and add some if desired.

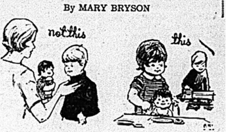
Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Mother: "Jennie, you can be the mother and Tommy can be the father and you can play house."

Tommy: "I don't want to play house."

Mother: "You play with your sister. She doesn't have anybody to play house with today."

If you have trouble getting a boy and girl to play together, suggest the girl pretend to get dinner ready while the boy is "at work" playing with his toys. When the "Daddy comes home for dinner, they can have a snack."

To keep things between a brother and sister friendly, try to suggest games that will satisfy both of them.

Entertainment Roundup

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences announced today that singer-actor Frank Sinatra and Swedish director Ingmar Bergman will receive two of the film industry's most honored awards.

Sinatra, an Oscar winner for his supporting role in the 1953 film From Here to Eternity, was voted the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award by the academy's board of governors.

The academy said Bergman will receive the Irving G. Thalberg Memorial Award, the highest honor the industry can give to a filmmaker for "creative producers whose records reflect a consistent high quality of motion picture production."

Flip's Show Richer

NEW YORK (AP) — In this time of economic recession for the U.S. television industry, 60 seconds of network time that normally commands $55,000 can be had for $40,000.

It is not unknown for an advertising agency to call up a network around 5 o'clock on a Friday afternoon and negotiate an even lower price for a weekend show.

But one show above all others is bucking the trend against knocked-down prices with a full head of steam—Flip Wilson.

The cost of time on the Flip Wilson Show has nearly doubled since NBC first announced it a year ago.

His comedy show is the most successful of the fall shows and the first since the introduction of Laugh-In in January, 1968, to zoom to the top 10 and stay there. Most often, Flip has been in the top five and twice he was No. 1.

His impish humor and such alter egos as Geraldine and the Rev. Leroy of the Church of What's Happening Now have made him a favorite with young adults, the most sought-after of audience by sponsors.

It wasn't always so for the young comedian. It took him nearly 15 years to become an overnight sensation.

"It's terribly exciting to see a young performer work his way up," said Mort Werner, programming vice-president at NBC.

"We've blown about a million bucks on this. A special he did for us was about the worst I've ever seen and so far only a few people have seen it. It's in my closet."

A second special made the grade and was a hit when it was shown in September, 1969.

Last winter after announcing his new show, NBC asked for $46,000 a minute. In September, when the show opened, the price went up to $55,000 a minute By October the price had climbed to $60,000. The following month it went to $65,000 a minute.

When the 30-second commercial was adopted by the networks that became the basic unit for the show and the price went to $40,000 for a half-minute. And that was at the time of the loss of the cigarette money.

In addition, the lead-in audience from Flip's show pulled up the price of Ironside, which follows on Thursday nights.

Ironside always had been a success, but its minute price went from $52,000 a year ago to $57,000 in October and to $60,000 in November.

The 30-second price for Ironside goes for $34,000.

Technical Course Instructors Feel Role in Education Is Misunderstood

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The role of the technical department in secondary school education is clouded by misunderstanding in the public mind.

Why the technical departments exist and just what they do needs clarification, say the teachers involved in vocational instruction.

Part of the confusion arises because the public wrongly lumps three separate types of vocational training together.

Industrial arts, trades training and technical education are three separate and distinct categories, says Milton Kerr, head of the technical department at Quinte Secondary School and elected spokesman this year for all technical teachers in the county.

"Industrial arts is an interest course designed for the academically inclined person who wants to learn a skill for hobby purposes," he says.

"Trades training, the mastering of a skill through apprenticeship leading to a journeyman's status, is the smallest part of the high school technical department's work.

"Technical education, the job the schools are concerned with, gives a good background in the theory and concepts of machinery and the part technology plays in everyday life."

Four years in the technical department of the secondary school gives a boy a broad technical background from which he can branch out into a specialty ater he leaves school.

"We teach the applications of mechanical theory, and develop manual dexterity in our boys," says Mr. Kerr. "They can't pick up the manual expertise a skilled tradesman needs in the time they spend here, but when they leave all they need is practice and experience on the job."

All technical department teachers are skilled tradesmen themselves, who have come into teaching after experience in business and industry. Their job is to give their students a foundation in technical subjects, but they can't take over trades training. Complete trades training is too expensive — it won't fit into the budgets of Ontario secondary schools.

"Industry as a whole has to start training skilled tradesmen," says Mr. Kerr. "Individual industries can't afford to take over the training — it ties up expensive equipment and holds up the production line. But industries must band together to set up training courses if they want skilled labor."

The statistics are sobering — the average age of skilled tradesmen in Canada is 55 years.

High school technical teachers cannot see community colleges taking over training of tradesmen. Such training requires on-the-job apprenticeship. The community colleges will fill the need for technicians and technologists, but not tradesmen.

The technical teachers are disturbed about another trend in their departments, accelerated by individual timetables in the school. Technical education could take on more of an academic slant, as academic students go over to the tech side of the schools to sample mechanical training as an option.

"We are primarily designed to encourage people with a mechanical bent to discover the areas and skills they wish to continue in after they finish school," Mr. Kerr says. "We don't like to see the academics taking options in tech and then taking over."

This would put the tech departments in the industrial arts field, — providing courses that school boards can't afford.

The tech teachers are sensitive about criticism of their equipment — the charge is that there is too much and it's too costly.

High quality equipment is necessary for beginners, they say. A student hasn't the skill to compensate for the inadequacies of poor equipment. And although industry might be able to carry out a given operation with one man operating one machine of its type, the teachers must train 20 boys at a time, necessitating 20 identical machines.

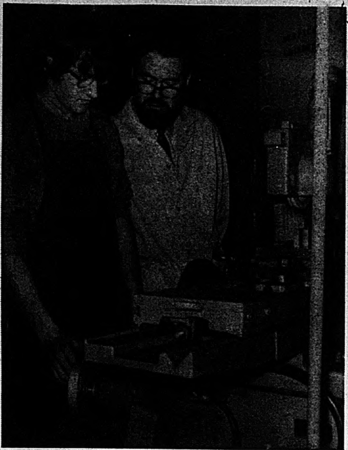
"Equipment designed for school use costs half the price of a similar machine for industrial use," Mr. Kerr says. "Manufacturers put out special equipment for schools because boards can't afford the large and complicated models needed in industry."

A new system of instruction is coming next September in some technical departments. The unit system, already in use in academic education, will permit greater flexibility in technical education and permit each student to progress through the course at his own speed.

Under the new system, each subject is broken into units, with 12 units required to be mastered for a credit.

At the beginning of the year, a student is given a "budget of materials" — references, instructions, visual aids, exercises and projects. These he works on at his own speed. When he feels he has covered the material, he asks for a test, and if he passes it he goes on to the next unit.

"This takes care of the three types of students we encounter," quips Mr. Kerr "The student who learns in spite of us, the student who learns because of us and the student who doesn't want to learn at all."



Close Shave

Technical education in secondary schools is not designed to turn out skilled tradesmen, but it gives students with the aptitude a good beginning in understanding machine technology. Working out a mechanical problem on a surface grinder in Quinte Secondary School's shop is Mark Williams, assisted by teacher James Forshaw.

Nancy Bronson Reaches Finals

Miss Nancy Bronson, a grade 8 pupil at Queen Alexandra School in Belleville was the winner of the public speaking contest for Hastings county.

Sponsored by the Ontario Public School Trustees Association and supported by Ontario Hydro, the county contest had representatives from each of the seven Associated School Groups in Hastings and one representative from the Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School system.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Ruth Howard, RR 4, Belleville; Francis Buckley, English teacher at BCIVS and James Clarke, trustee of the Hastings County board of education. Responsibilities for timing the speeches were handled by John Emerson, principal of the host school Harmony.

Gerry O'Connor, chairman of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission and representative of Ontario Hydro, presented a study lamp to the winner.

Miss Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bronson, 269 Bleecker Ave., Belleville, will now advance to the Zone 9 speaking contest as representative of Hastings County. This will be held at Sir John A. MacDonald School, Harder Drive in Belleville this Saturday, February 27 at 1.30 p.m.

Girls in Tech Classes To Be Welcome Addition

Rosie the riveter may soon be back.

No stampede is on, but it looks as though girls will soon invade the male preserve of high school technical departments.

Women's lib may claim the victory, but credit really goes to the changing climate in education — a greater appreciation of individual differences and greater willingness to meet the need of the students instead of the institution.

Teachers are taking the leadership in technical education for girls the "equality of educational opportunity" called for in the Hall - Dennis report on Ontario education.

Since high school tech departments were first introduced, teachers, parents and society have discouraged girls from entering the mechanical trades, where their superior manual dexterity and patience with detail often make them more suited to the work than boys.

An exception was during wartime, when women were welcomed into factories to take over from men recruited into the services.

Now, teachers and educational administrators are willing and eager to break down the barriers that have kept girls out of the machine shop. But society is still balking at the move.

Milton Kerr, who hopes to have at least one girl pioneer in his tech department at Quinte next year, says his greatest problem will be persuading parents to let their daughters take tech, and persuading employers to hire the female graduates.

"I can see great opportunities for women, especially in drafting and electronics," says Mr. Kerr.

Fighting adult prejudices, and the concept that it's "unfeminine" for girls to take tech, is the chief stumbling block teachers see ahead. Guidance departments are cooperating by suggesting that girls with the aptitude take technical training. The district now has a surplus of girls and women trained in commercial subjects. They can't find jobs that use their training unless they move to larger centres. The same girls could enjoy well - paid careers as skilled tradesmen if they are willing to accept the challenge.

"Maybe we need another war," suggested one educator. "In 25 years of peace women have concentrated on being sex objects, and forgotten the competence they once showed as productive members of the work force."

2.5 Million Trees Planted

The Moira River Conservation Authority, under agreement with the department of lands and forests at Tweed, planted 21,000 red and white pines last year.

The trees were planted on 17 acres in adjoining lots on concessions 10 and 11 in Madoc township and on 10 acres on concession 14 in Hungerford.

No land acquisition for reforestration purposes was bought last year by the Moira authority. Acreage now owned by the authority totals 16,408.

Forest advisory board chairman Carl Thompson said a review would be made of authority properties to determine whether some acreage should be sold and others purchased.

Total trees planted on authority property since reforestation was commenced 20 years ago now is nearly 2½ million.

Conservation Authority Budget Is $196,840

A 1971 Moira River Conservation Authority budget of $196,840 was approved yesterday by the authority executive at their annual meeting in Cannifton.

Of the over-all budget, $136,910 will be provided through government grants, another $33,930 will be raised by chief benefiting municipalities for special projects, leaving $26,000 to be levied directly for authority operations on the 17 - member municipalities.

Local levies are charged against the member municipalities on the basis of their equalized assessment within the watershed, the minimum levy being $100.

Belleville, with the greatest equalized assessment in the watershed, pays over 58 per cent of the local levy or $15,014 — up nearly $900 over that of last year.

Next largest local levy will be paid by Thurlow township with the tax bite this year to be $3,774. Sidney's bill will be $1,582 and Hungerford's $1,078.

The only question on the year's local municipal levy was raised by Madoc Township reeve Cecil Woods who claimed that the equalized assessment figure used as determined for education grant purposes was unfair to township farmers.

He said the provincially equalized assessments were based on spot checks and checks on property sales at the registry office.

This system last year had resulted in his township's authority levy being increased by more than $300.

This year's authority levy against Madoc township is$ $713 — down from $787 last year.

In addition to its municipal levy of $15,014, Belleville also this year will be asked to pay $22,950, toward property acquisition for what is known as the lower Moira green belt on the west side of the river south of Highway 401.

The authority is in the process of acquiring up to 60 acres on the east side of the river running south from Highway 401 to the Ontario Hydro property opposite the southern limits of Fry Park.

Of the total amount, about 30 acres have now been purchased, and negotiations are now under way for the balance.

Under the program, the authority is purchasing the green belt property on which it receives a 70 per cent subsidy.

Following acquisition, the property will be leased back to the city for development as park and green belt area.

James Spry Heads Moira Authority

Former township reeve and long interested in educational affairs, James Spry of Rawdon township is the new chairman for the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Mr. Spry was elected authority head at yesterday's annual meeting held at the Thurlow township hall at Cannifton. He succeeds Graham Bell of Marmora and Lake township who has been authority head for the past two years.

Authority vice - chairman is Leslie McLaren of Tyendinaga township.

Yesterday's annual meeting also saw new slates of officers chosen for the various authority advisory committees. Committee chairmen and vice-chairmen are as follows: Conservation Areas — Cecil Ketcheson and Delbert Harvey; Forests — Carl Thompson and John Thompson; Water Control — Guy Hughes and Harold Thompson; Information and Education — Mrs. Robin Jeffrey and Harold Varty; Fish and Wildlife — Dr. R. S. Morphy and Gordon Wilman.

Representatives on the Moira Authority are: Belleville, Mayor J. Russell Scott and Alderman Mrs. Robin Jeffrey; Deloro — Charles Gordanier; Elzevir and Grimsthorpe — John Thompson, Hungerford; Harold Varty; Huntingdon— Harold Thompson; Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham—Mrs. Lela Casey; Madoc township—Cecil Woods; Madoc village—William Armstrong; Marmora and Lake — Graham Bell; Richmond — Carl Richmond; Sheffield — Patrick Garrett; Sidney — Gordon Wilman, Thurlow — Cecil Ketcheson; Tudor and Cashel — James Sprackett; Tweed — Guy Hughes; Tyendinaga — Leslie McLaren.

Ontario government representatives on the authority are Dr. R. S. Morphy. Carl Thompson and Delbert Harvey.

In his acceptance speech as the new authority chairman, Mr. Spry foresaw increased demands for pollution control and heavier demands for recreational and water facilities.

This, he said, would mean more work for authority advisory board members.

The new chairman had high commendation for the work being done by conservation authorities.

"The taxpayer gets more value for his dollar through the conservation authority than any board I ever sat on," he said.

New Chairman Takes Over

James Spry, of Rawdon township, (seated) 1971 chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority, takes over from last year's Authority head Graham Bell of Marmora and Lake who continues as a member.

Conservation Authority's Target Is Pollution

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Moira River Conservation Authority will place increased emphasis on pollution control if a motion passed yesterday receives approval from the conservation branch of the Ontario department of energy and resources.

At their annual meeting yesterday at Cannifton, members passed a motion to set up a pollution control advisory board, thus bringing to six the number of such boards in the Authority.

If approved by the conservation branch in Toronto, the motion will allow the authority executive to make appointments to the board and to set out terms of reference for the board's operation.

Madoc village reeve William Armstrong prompted the dicussion for more pollution control when he stated it was time people stopped talking and started some action on the problem.

"The people of Madoc have lost their (Moira) Lake though pollution," he said. "It is time something was done about it.

The village reeve called for further investigation into the feasibility of constructing the dam upstream from Moira Lake which he said could do much toward cleaning up upstream pollution in the Moira watershed.

He said there was no use doing spot pollution control in the lower areas of the river unless upstream problems were cleared up.

There was no direct reference made during the official meeting but later Reeve Armstrong said he was referring to arsenic pollution emanating from the old Deloro Smelting and Refining Company site at Deloro.

Guy Hughes, of Tweed, chairman of the authority water control advisory board, said he would be prepared to give any assistance possible to any new pollution control board set up.

Harry Walters, member of the instructional staff at Loyalist College, and this year appointed as member to the authority information - education advisory board, disagreed with the name "pollution control" for the proposed new advisory board.

He preferred a name including the term environmental.

To this Mayor J. Russell Scott asked whether some kind of a "super" board over other authority advisory boards was being proposed He said all advisory boards of the authority in some way were concerned with environment.

"Pollution is pollution," he said. "A rose by any other name. . ."

Bill Hiscock, Tweed branch of the Ontario Lands and Forests, agreed that any pollution control board would in effect be a "super" board. He said there was bound to be overlapping in its operations.

Carl Thompson, Ontario government representative on the authority, brought the discussion to a head by calling for a vote on the motion calling for a pollution control board.

"Let's get it off the ground first," he said.

Karen Sits Fourth, Hopes Pinned on Free-skating Finale

LYON, France (CP) — Trixi Schuba of Austria, continuing her strong showing in the compulsory school figures, retained a solid lead today in the women's world figure skating championship, leaving Karen Magnussen of Canada worse off than before as far as hopes for the title are concerned.

The Vancouver girl, rated the best Canadian prospect for a medal in the current competition, still occupied fourth place in the 22-entry field but the points difference between her and the leader widened after completion of the last two of the six school figures.

Miss Schuba, who had hoped for a 100-point margin going into the Saturday night free-skating finale, scored a total of 1,263 points compared with 1,124.2 for Miss Magnussen—a margin of 138.8.

The Canadian girl, however, vowed she will "keeping fighting" and her coach is counting on a strong showing by the blue-eyed blonde in the free-skating, her specialty.

Despite the opinion of some experts that Miss Magnussen's victory chances have grown significantly slimmer, her coach, Linda Brauckmann, argued that the youthful star is "doing well."

Miss Magnussen said: "It's not over until it's all finished."

Yet Miss Schuba, obviously pleased with the way things are going, impressed observers with a prodigious display in the arduous school figures.

The tall, sturdy Austrian girl was placed first in the figures by each of the nine judges.

Julie Lynn Holmes of the United States and Rita Trapanese of Italy remained in second and third places respectively.

The two other Canadian girls in the individual women's contest — Ruth Hutchinson of Vancouver and Dianne Hall of Toronto — were 17th and 19th respectively.

Miss Holmes had 1,173.3 points and Miss Trapanese 1,123.6.

Miss Hutchinson scored 940.5 and Miss Hall 921.4.

Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia won the men's singles title Thursday, climaxing three days of neck - and - neck rivalry with runnerup Patrick Pera of France.

Nepela's victory in the men's championship came at the expense of 22-year-old Pera, who is stil showing the effects of a recent skating accident.

Bateman Battles Bulge To Keep Catching Job

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Despite the battle of the bulge John Bateman had to wage as a result of a Gene Mauch edict, he still appears set as Montreal Expos' No. 1 catcher for the 1971 National League season.

Bateman, who admits he has a bigger problem keeping weight off than taking it off, had been advised by manager Mauch to get down to 200 pounds by Wednesday's official weigh-in here or face a $100 fine for each pound he carried over the limit.

A club spokesman said Thursday that the six-foot, three-inch Bateman missed the 200-pound mark by 1½ pounds and it cost him $150.

Bateman faced the same problem last saeson, but slimmed down by about 20 pounds to his best playing weight of "about 200—or maybe a pound or two less."

JOHN BATEMAN

A bruised kidney sent Bateman to hospital early last season to add to his problems. He then had to spend a few weeks with the class AAA Buffalo Bisons of the International League, where he played seven games, to get back into shape.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Terry Humphrey, a 21-year-old catcher from Torrance, Calif., has been tagged a "comer" by Montreal Expos, but the youngster has no illusions of doing anybody out of a job with the National League club.

Humphrey is a lanky 185-pound rookie catcher attending the Expos spring training camp.

He figures he will be sent to Winnipeg Whips of the class AAA International League this season.

Slight Problem!

MONTREAL (CP) — While Montreal Expos were continuing their spring training program in the warmth of West Palm Beach, Fla., Thursday, Marc Cloutier, director of operations for the National League club, is faced with another problem.

Cloutier must find a way to remove the winter accumulation of 130 inches of snow from the baseball team's home grounds — Jarry Park—before the home opener April 13 against New York Mets.

The 130 inches of snow so far this winter is seven inches short of the record 137-inch fall set in 1946-47.

"We have drifts up to 10 feet and you have to go up about 20 to 25 rows in the stands before you can see a seat," Cloutier said.

Williams Joins Club

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Chicago Cubs handed outfielder Billy Williams the club's first $100,000 contract Thursday and a few hours later signed their lone holdout, veteran pitcher Ken Holtzman.

The Cubs, settling with Holtzman for an estimated $65,000, splurged for $150,000 in 1971 salaries for three key players within a five-day span.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., a 20-game winner for the last four seasons, signed Sunday for a reported $85,000 instead of the $100,000 he had sought.

The last previous Cub high salary was believed to be the $90,000 awarded Ernie Banks after his second consecutive Most Valuable Player season in 1959.

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Willie Mays has suggested that San Francisco Giants give him a 10-year contract at $75,000 a year and received a counter-offer of a five-year contract at the same figure.

"I think everything will be all right," said the star centre fielder Thursday after talking with club president Horace Stoneham.

Women Skips in Traffic Jam

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — The winner of the Canadian women's curling championship will be decided today after a Quebec victory Thursday night created a three-way tie.

Ian Hansen's British Columbia rink was to meet defending Saskatchewan, skipped by Vera Pezer, in the morning with the winner facing Alberta in the afternoon. They had 6-3 records.

"We found Saskatchewan tougher," said Quebec skip Nicole Janelle after defeating Kay Baldwin's Alberta entry 11-7 in the last of nine scheduled rounds.

"There was no extra pleasure for us in preventing Alberta from taking the championship tonight. We just went into the game with a desire to win."

Quebec lost 10-7 to Saskatchewan in the fourth round Tuesday.

Mabel Mitchell's Manitoba entry, Marie Toole's Prince Edward Island rink, Ontario, skipped by Helen Sillman and Quebec finished with 5-4 records.

Newfoundland, skipped by Sue Ann Bartlett, ended with a 4-5 record, Shirley Pilson's New Brunswick rink won three and Clare Purdy's Nova Scotia entry lost all nine.

Unionville Girls Win

WATERLOO (CP) — The Unionville rink of Helen Jewett defeated Fern Irwin's Toronto St. George's foursome twice Thursday night to win the Southern Ontario Ladies Curling Association championship.

Thursday night's championship game wound up a four-day bonspiel that involved rinks from each of the association's 16 districts.

Members of Mrs. Jewett's rink are Lois Roberts, Pat Oliver and Barb Watson. It was the first title for the rink, which made the 1969 finals.

Doc's Orders: Win Seniors

HALIFAX (CP) — Saskatchewan skip Burley Townsend thinks Prince Edward Island could win the Canadian seniors curling championship today.

"The way Doc's curling there's a good chance," Burley said after Dr. Wendell MacDonald's P.E.I. rink finished the ninth round Thursday tied with British Columbia for the lead.

The teams take 7-1 records into the two remaining rounds today.

B.C., skipped by Gord Moore, downed Stu Pearce's Alberta foursome 11-4 in the ninth round while P.E.I. defeated Maurice MacDonald's New Brunswick rink 10-5.

Saskatchewan defeated Gord Wallace's Ontario rink 10-4 to push its record to 6-2 and Townsend said the prospect of his rink getting back into the lead "looks pretty slim."

Alberta has a 6-3 record followed by Harry Coles' Quebec entry at 5-3. Quebec was idle during ninth-round play.

Rudy Steski's Northern Ontario rink has a 4-5 record and Ontario's is 3-5. Hugh Little's Nova Scotia rink, Mac McCrimmon's Manitoba unit and New Brunswick all had 2-6 records and John Pike's Newfoundland is 1-8.

In 10th-round play Prince Edward Island meets Newfoundland, Saskatchewan meets Manitoba, British Columbia meets Ontario, Alberta meets Quebec and New Brunswick meets Nova Scotia. Northern Ontario has the bye.

In other ninth-round matches, Newfoundland defeated Ontario 14-7 and Nova Scotia downed Manitoba 10-3.

Two other rounds were played Thursday.

In the eighth, Alberta whipped Saskatchewan 9-7, B.C. downed Quebec 12-5, P.E.I. defeated Manitoba 8-5, New Brunswick edged Northern Ontario 14-13 and Nova Scotia defeated Ontario 13-11.

Only One Clean Slate

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — The Canadian schoolboy curling championship went into its fifth and final day here today with the Greg Montgomery team from Saskatchewan still unbeaten.

Northern Ontario was in second place with only one loss, 6-5 to Saskatchewan in the fourth round.

Manitoba, tied with Northern Ontario's Doug Smith rink in second place until the eighth round, dropped to a third-place tie with British Columbia after a 9-3 loss to Smith on Thursday. Manitoba and B.C. are 6-2.

Alberta, highly favored to win the national event, had a 5-3 record. Quebec was 5-4, Ontario Nova Scotia were 2-6, Newfoundland was 1-7 and Prince Edward Island 0-9.

Quebec's Bruce Guerriero rink from Montreal has finally "started to get some luck" in the words of the skip.

Coach Bob Griffin said his Montreal team is "usually a hitting team, but they were missing the broom so they've switched to draw."

Nicklaus Unimpressed By 'Second Slam' Talk

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — The least impressed over Jack Nicklaus' bid this week for an unprecedented double grand slam in professional golf is Jack Nicklaus himself.

"I don't take much stock in it—it's something newspaper men invented," Nicklaus said Thursday after shooting a three-under-par 69 for the first-round lead in the 53rd Professional Golfers Association championship.

If Jack can maintain his present momentum and win his second PGA here this week, he will become the first player ever to win the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and PGA twice around.

Nicklaus insists his aim is a simple one. He wants to win more major championships than any player who ever lived. He needs four more to overtake the great Bob Jones, who quit at the age of 28 with 13 of them.

JACK NICKLAUS

Jones won five U.S. amateur championships, four U.S. Opens, three British Opens and one British Amateur.

Nicklaus has won two U.S. amateurs, two U.S. Opens, three Masters, two British Opens and one PGA.

After the first round Thursday, Nicklaus had a one-stroke lead over Bobby Mitchell, Bob Charles, and Bob Goalby with a group of 12 players another stroke back at 71. Another 17 shots 72s.

Arnold Palmer, still trying for his first-ever PGA title, was well back with a 75. George Knudson of Toronto shot a 74. Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls, Ont., the only other Canadian entered, had a 40-40—80.

Old-Timers Can Claim Good Average

Ivan Walmsley's goals-against average as the last line of defence for the National Hockey League Old-Timers isn't going to send shivers up anyone's spine. Scores in the troupe's exhibition schedule like 8-6 or 8-4 don't indicate defensive battles.

IVAN WALMSLEY

But the Toronto - based group of old pros has a highly-respectable fund - raising record, helping produce some $300,000 for assorted worthy causes in their three-year history.

Organizers of tonight's 9 p.m. Belleville visit by the Old-Timers hope some of that success rubs off locally to help bolster the books of the city's junior B and OMHA all - star entries.

In front of Walmsley, who had a 1948-49 stint with the New York Rangers, the Old-Timers lineup includes former NHL standouts like Bob Goldham, Sid Smith, Cal Gardner, and Danny Lewicki.

Facing the maturing, but still adept Old-Timers will be a local lineup including former McFarlands Jean-Paul Lamirande, Floyd Crawford, Wayne Brown, Ed Marineau, and Fiori Goegan, whose broken wrist playing with Syracuse Stars has promoted him to a coaching role.

Other local hockey types getting in on the act will be a forward line from the Blake Kerr Imperial midgets — Robbie Foster, Brian Cousins, and Andy Ricketts — and a line from the Quinte League's Belvedere Hotel entry, Elmer Cain, and brothers Gene and Jack Francis.

Rounding out the Belleville roster are Tom Woodley, John McConnell, Ken Brooks, Wally Dainard, Doug Murray, and Timmy Williams, while former Mac "Turk" Barclay and Claude Carr are expected to share goaltending duties.

Back-checking?

Even the unusual checking method of Calvin Hynderman wasn't enough to prevent the ANAF Dukes from taking a 3-0 decision from the Ross Royals in bantam house league hockey action Thursday. The teams are just two of the ten operating in the minor hockey league division, which operates Thursday nights as well as Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Mo-Hawk Crowds Seem Lower Than Standing Would Suggest

Seeing as how Belleville Mo-Hawks have just completed their best season in OHA Senior A hockey, it would be natural to expect they have enjoyed their best spectator support.

Not so.

Attendance for this year's fourth - place finishers in the eight-team senior league has even fallen off from last year when the club wound up in sixth place.

There were even more respectable regular - season crowds in the club's first three years of operation, which included two out-of-playoff finishes.

An especially white winter and seven home losses no doubt contributed to the Mo - Hawks' gate woes this year, but management hopes to get back on track as the club opens a best-of-seven semi - final playoff series with Galt Hornets.

BELLEVILLE

The Mo-Hawks travel to Galt Saturday for an 8 p.m. series opener. First return game will be in Belleville Thursday, at 8.30.

All Memorial Arena seats will be sold at a $2 reserved price, with the $1.75 general admission covering the last two rows of benches on both sides of the arena.

Children will be admitted for 75 cents.

Tickets are available at McKnight's Variety outlet, where season's subscribers have until noon Wednesday to reserve their usual seats.

Ski Report

Batawa Ski Club will be open Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. - 4.30 p.m., WEATHER PERMITTING.

Three tows operating. Alpine Ski School open all day Saturday.

Today's snow conditions: GOOD.

Trying to Raise Softball Ghost

A seance will be held at the Trenton Fire Hall Saturday night in an attempt by district softball enthusiasts to recall the Trent Valley Softball League ghost back from a three year exile.

The league, which last operated in 1967 could have as many as eight entries for the upcoming summer, with Cobourg, Campbellford, Picton, Trenton and Rollins Construction of Belleville expressing interest in competing, while Madoc could field both junior and senior squads.

One current problem facing the proposed loop is the forming of an executive. Bill Huffman, manager of Trenton's Carms Cleaners has been responsible for organizing the attempt at forming a league.

The organizational meeting will get under way at 7.30 Saturday night for the purpose of finding out just how many centres are definitely interested in fielding a team.

'Official' Agenda For Minor Hockey

The main item on the agenda, in fact the only item on the agenda of the March 11 meeting of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association will be the election of officers for next season.

Among the positions to be filled are president, three vice - presidents, secretary, registrar and referee - in - chief.

The meeting of coaches, assistants, managers, referees, convenors and executives will be solely for the purpose of electing officials. A general meeting will be held in April to discuss other business.

Time of the meeting is 7.30 p.m. in the conference room of Ben Bleeker Auditorium.

Fairways Preparing To Enter Lions' Den

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

The Belleville Fairways are approaching the Peterborough Lions in the manner in which the kings of the Eastern Ontario Junior B league are accustomed to being treated — cautiously.

That doesn't mean that the Belleville camp is conceding their semi-final series to the Canada Games gold medalists before it gets under way however.

"At the risk of sounding repetitious, I have to agree with what Dave Jones said about the senior A series with Galt. Any team CAN be had," offered Fairway coach Floyd Crawford, "Peterborough have a good club and they play as a unit, but they're certainly not out of reach."

Crawford is pleased with the over-all balance of his team and doesn't feel that only the fact that five of his starting lineup possess previous Junior B playoff experience will be a hindrance. "I'll be a pretty disappointed man if they don't give a far better performance than in the opening game of last year's series (a 12-4 loss to the Oshawa Crushmen). Our team this season has far better balance," he noted.

Right winger Dave Ferguson will join scoring leader Danny Lupenette and left winger Joe Clarke on one line, and is expected to provide the bulk of the defensive play for that unit.

The Fairways coach feels that Clarke's play could be the key to the Belleville offence. "This is a guy that could be the real key man. Throughout the season he's either played an excellent game or he might just as well have stayed at home, but if he's in the right frame of mind Joe can be a major factor in the series."

DAVE FERGUSON

Steady forward Dave Smith and high scoring winger Terry Meagher will be joined by juvenile pivot Rick Meagher for Saturday's opener to form another forward unit.

The "checking line" will consist of scrambling centre Rod Palmer with Cliff Janitsch and Tim Yohn of the Blake Kerr Imperial midgets. Yohn, who saw action in several Junior B contests this season could provide a big lift to the line. The midget all-star has two games of Ju ior eligibility remaining.

Defensively, the Bellevil B's have a solid blue li corps, with experienced go tending in Ron Jury, la year's Most Valuable Playe

"We're looking for Dockri (Kevin) to loosen a few hea out there and we're hoping get an aggressive perform ance from Rick Holmes. The both have the size to kee Peterborough honest", note Crawford.

"With those combinations g ing for us, we just migh have a chance with the migh Lions", he adds.

While the Belleville coac is concerned with the happen ings on the ice, team man ager Jim Matthews is inter ested in filling a few of th vacant seats in the Bellevill Memorial Arena when th teams meet Sunday night f the second game of the ser ies.

The average attendance fo 15 regular season and two ex hibition bouts in Belleville thi year has been only 246 pe game leaving the juniors with a deficit that could be erase by a big turnout for the play offs.

All secondary school stu dents presenting their studen council cards will be admit ted for 50 cents to Sunday's game.

People wishing reservations for the Saturday's noon bu to Peterborough are asked t call Frank Mulvihill at 968-8482.

Fastest Three Goals

Latest Bruins' Record Takes Only 20 Seconds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS.

Setting National Hockey League records is becoming almost an every-day routine for Boston Bruins who set two marks Thursday night on the way to an 8-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks.

With goals by Johnny Bucyk, Ed Westfall and Ted Green in 20 seconds, the Bruins set a record for the fastest three goals and Wesfall became the eighth team member to get 20 goals in a season, also a league record.

The Bruins now will rest for Sunday night when they play host to Toronto Maple Leafs in a game in which Boston could set a record for most goals in a season. They now are just five behind the mark of 303 goals they set in the 1968-69 season.

In other games Thursday, Philadelphia Flyers edged Buffalo Sabres 3-2, St. Louis Blues downed Detroit Red Wings 3-1, Minnesota North Stars tied Toronto Maple Leafs 1-1 and Montreal Canadiens beat Los Angeles Kings 5-3.

The Canucks, who last week upset the Bruins 5-4 in a game at Vancouver, took a 2-0 first-period lead in their encounter at Boston before the Bruins started back, led by Bucyk's three goals and three assists.

The 35-year-old left winger set up second - period goals by centre Fred Stanfield and right winger Johnny McKenzie before starting the record three-goal outburst at 4:50 of the third period.

Westfall beat Vancouver goalie Dunc Wilson at 5:02 and Green's goal came at 5:10.

The previous record of 21 seconds was set by Bill Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks in a 1952 game against New York Rangers.

The previous record of seven 20-goal scorers on one team was shared by several clubs.

Bucyk's second goal of the night made him a 40-goal scorer for the first time in his 16 NHL seasons. His previous high was 31 goals last season.

Among other records that stand within easy reach of the East Division leaders are most points and most wins in one season.

With 18 games remaining, they are just 10 behind the record 103 points Montreal Canadiens earned in 1968-69 and just three wins back of the 46 mark the Canadiens set the same season.

The Bruins bombarded the Vancouver netminder with 60 shots. McKenzie with two goals and three assists and Stanfield with a goal and four assists were their other big leaders.

Pete Mahovlich, playing in his first full NHL season, scored three goals, including what proved to be the winner, in Montreal's triumph at Los Angeles.

Pete's second goal of the night also moved him into the 30-goal-a-season class which older brother Frank has reached six times in 13 seasons.

Frank scored his 21st goal of the current campaign into an empty net in the last minute of play.

The Canadiens outshot the Kings 42-34 on their way to moving seven points ahead of fourth-place Toronto in the East Division.

At Toronto, the Leafs were short-handed when Dave Keon raced into the Minnesota zone for a loose puck and passed it out to defenceman Jim Dorey who banged it behind goalie Gump Worsley.

But the North Stars made few other mistakes and their close checking, plus some outstanding netminding by Worsley, kept the visitors in contention until Buster Harvey's goal at 17:43 of the third period tied it up.

The tie enabled the North Stars to stay in third spot in the West Division although they were joined by Philadelphia.

The Flyers' victory at Philadelphia came on goals by Cliff Schmautz, Andre Lacroix and Jimmy Johnson.

Buffalo rookie Gil Perreault got his 31st goal of the season, leaving him just three short of the record for a first-year man set by Nels Stewart of Montreal Maroons in 1925-26 and since equalled by Danny Grant of the North Stars and Norm Ferguson of California Seals.

Chris Bordeleau sparked the St. Louis victory at Detroit with one goal and an assist on another by Craig Cameron. Frank St. Marseille also scored for the Blues and Nick Libbett got Detroit's lone goal.

In the only game tonight, Chicago Black Hawks meet the Golden Seals at California.

Big Night For Bucyk

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Johnny Bucyk's three goals and three assists paced Boston Bruins to a 8-3 National Hockey League victory Thursday night and allowed Bucyk to edge past teammate Ken Hodge for third place in the individual scoring race.

League leader Phil Esposito was held to one assist while runners-up Orr and Hodge went pointless.

Bucyk's 41 goals and 49 assists gives him 90 points for the season.

Robert Orr Bad for Bobby

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Two men have been ordered to withdraw the registration of the name Bobby Orr's Eating Place from the New Hampshire state's secretary office.

Judge Andrew Caffrey of Boston handed down the judgment in United States District Court here.

The order said Pasquale F. Alosa of Concord and Robert K. Orr of Gilford must withdraw the name and release all rights for its use to hockey star Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins. The decision was the result of a $100,000 suit by the hockey star against Alosa and Orr, who registered the name last September.

The suit claimed the name Bobby Orr's Eating Place would be likely to prejudice or injure the Bruins star's name, reputation and good will and hinder or limit his future use of his name in the state.

There was no monetary settlement in the decision.

Petes Defeat Nearest Rivals

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Craig Ramsay and Jim Mahon scored two goals each Thursday night to lead Peterborough Petes to a 6-2 victory over Ottawa 67s, their closest rivals for top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The win increased Peterborough's standings lead to three points over Ottawa, which has two games in hand.

Paul Raymer and Tom Thomson added single goals for Peterborough. Ron Bobbette and Doug Keeler scored for Ottawa.

A crowd of 4,463, the largest ever to watch a regular-season junior game here, saw Ottawa take eight of the 14 minor penalties.

Peterborough led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-2 after the second.

U.S. Nats Win

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. National hockey team struck for two unanswered third-period goals to defeat a team of Quebec junior all-stars 5-3 in an exhibition hockey game Thursday night before 12,653 fans.

Arena Falls, Game Stands

OTTAWA (CP) — A Central Junior Hockey League game postponed Feb. 14 with Ottawa Rangers leading Pembroke Lumber Kings 1-0 goes as an Ottawa victory the league announced Thursday.

The game was called after the first period when the roof of the Pembroke arena started to give in under a weight of accumulated snow.

League president Alf Taylor Thursday announced the decision so all scoring, penalty and goaltending records would become official.

Canadian Police Association Hits Turner's Arrest Reform

OTTAWA (CP) — Police made it clear Thursday they consider Justice Minister John Turner's arrest reform bill as just another big legal loophole for criminals.

In briefs to the Commons justice committee, police also expressed fear that the proposed law may open them to lawsuit.

The 29,000-member Canadian Police Association included in its brief a cartoon showing a United States policeman telling his sergeant:

"I just made an arrest and I'd like to call my lawyer."

The CPA insisted this scene "may someday become a Canadian reality" under the proposed law. But MPs assured them the prospect is unlikely.

The association said the arrest bill is another example of over-balancing the rights of the individual against those of society.

"If it was stupid to hang people in 1900 for stealing an animal, the opposite extreme has been reached now," Guy Marcil, president of the Montreal Policemen's Brotherhood, said. "This bill will protect the criminal. What we are looking for is an intelligent balance."

The CPA also touched on capital punishment, saying that its membership is vitally concerned at federal policy in commuting death sentences.

Police also were upset by court sentences it termed lenient and thoughtless paroles. Mr. Marcil said 10 gun-fights in Montreal last year involved parolees "with records as long as your arm."

Although the committee lent an attentive ear, it wasn't entirely sympathetic.

"Why is it that every time the Criminal Code is amended, police object?" asked Harold Stafford (L—Elgin), an experienced trial lawyer.

"You're confusing us with the chiefs of police," replied Syd Brown of Toronto, CPA president. "The chiefs are here continuously, we are the Indians."

The main objection was to a clause that would allow a constable to issue an appearance notice at the time of arrest. This would avert a trip to the police station—normal even for minor offences.

The constable would only take the suspect to the station when he had "reasonable and probable grounds" to believe a further offence might be committed, or the suspect might not appear in court. Failure to establish identity clearly also would be a factor.

The police assailed these guidelines, written into the bill after objections to its 1970 predecessor, as vague and ambiguous.

They made these points:

—The constable on an urban beat lacks the experience to decide whether or not to release a suspect on arrest.

—Constables rarely draw up charges. Their superiors do at the station, and this is why suspects are hauled in.

—It is difficult to establish identity clearly on the spot. Suspects often carry falsified papers, and in an era of wigs and beards, subsequent identification in court might be difficult.

The proposed law would allow a person taken to jail to sue if he could prove that he should have been released with an appearance notice. The police representatives said this coupled with the vague guidelines, would make police reluctant to arrest.

Committee members replied that police actually would benefit from more protection.

The onus would be on the arrested person rather than the policeman to produce proof. At present, police charged with false arrest must prove their innocence.

Under questioning by John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) and Terrence Murphy (L—Sault St. Marie), the witnesses could recall only a single charge of false arrest in the last 24 years, and it was withdrawn.

Sympathy for the police argument was expressed by Douglas Hogarth (L—New Westminster), a former Crown prosecutor, who said the proposed amendments are "political window dressing."

The CPA said suspects are taken to the station to ensure that their identity is clearly established. They were often held overnight to allow their identification cards to be checked.

The association said that with more than 29,000 persons arrested under the Criminal Code in Metropolitan Toronto in the first 11 months of 1970, summonses were issued to 4,650 and divisional sergeants released another 6,738 at the station.

A 1969 amendment to the Criminal Code had made rapid release at the station easier, although most police forces apparently weren't using the section.

The CPA conceded that this might account for public pressure for further amendment of the law.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Some Folk Refuse To Yield Crutches

Some people are too scared to throw away their crutches. I recall one college professor in his late 30s who broke a leg while learning to ski. It was a simple fracture and healed satisfactorily. Yet, when it came time to discard his crutches he wouldn't give them up.

"I'm not sure that the bone has healed," he said. At last they were almost forcibly taken away. But he still was so unsure of himself that he used a cane for at least six months.

In medicine there are all kinds of crutches that people grow to be dependent upon. For example, I know many formerly obese patients who continue to take amphetamines years after their doctor has stopped prescribing them. Some have become actually addicted to "speed" tablets. By hook or by crook they continue to lay up supplies by bootlegging these medicines which were originally used as temporary, innocent crutches to help them reduce.

The sleeping pill and tranquillizer habit are forms of crutches people hang on to longer than necessary. A doctor prescribes such medications so that a patient may get over a troublesome and anxious phase of existence. Then he says, "Better stop now. Learn how to get along without them." But some patients keep on. They can't throw away their crutches because they are too scared to navigate without help.

Morphine or other painkillers are essential crutches during acute emergencies. But it makes good sense to stop taking them as soon as the doctor advises one to quit.

One patient said, "I've been going to my analyst for over six years. I can't get along without him. I lean on him as if he were a trusty, old crutch. I wish I could quit."

Whatever the medical crutch, it takes guts to quit. But it's worth the effort. Too many people get into trouble carrying on with a crutch their doctor has advised them to give up long ago.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Our young son, now at a military base, has been having stomach pains. The diagnosis is hyperacidity. The doctor prescribed a bland diet and medicine. He said he'd probably have to take the medicine all his life.

But I happen to know that our boy is extremely sensitive and high - strung and has the drive to be "top man." Isn't he the typical candidate for an ulcer some day? Meanwhile, we told him to cut down on his coffee and smoking. Wouldn't that help? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Have they taken X rays? It's important to know whether or not he has an ulcer now. Hyperacidity is often associated with ulcer.

I can't imagine what medicine your son will "have to take all his life" for simple hyperacidity. Yes, it would be a good idea for your son to cut down on coffee and cigarettes, both of which may contribute to hyperacidity.

And the answer is also yes to your question about his chances for having or getting an ulcer. It seems to be more common in high-strung, hard drivers than in placid, easy-going people. But it's quite a difficult job to persuade such individuals to gently apply the brakes.

For Mr. T.: Syringomyella is a disease of the spinal cord, lasting many years, in which there are many and extensive partial paralyses of various parts of the body.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Blessed Are the Debonair

Although the King James version of the Bible is one of the great literary triumphs of English, the translators did commit a few errors. And one that has done greivous harm to Christianity over the centuries is the beatitude, "Blessed are the meek. . ."

"Meekness" has become an unattractive word to us. We identify it with softness, with weakness, with passivity, with almost a propensity to enjoy insult, injury and self-martyrdom. To be "meek" is nearly to be cowardly in the modern lexicon.

But this is not at all what the original wording meant, either in the Hebrew of the Old Testament, or in the Greek of the New. The French Douay Bible comes much closer to it when it translates the beatitude as "Blessed are the debonair . . ." strange as that sounds to Anglo-Saxon ears.

"Debonair," the dictionary tells us, is "of pleasant manners; courteous, gracious and charming; gay and carefree." In fact, a 20th Century idiomatic translation in America might faithfully read: "Blessed are the cool. . ." without committing a theological vulgarity; for "debonair" is much of what we mean when we describe a "cool cat."

What we fail to understand is the moral and spiritual courage it takes to be "meek" in the fullest and deepest sense of the word. Far from being cowardly it requires a heroism few of us are capable of. Indeed, only a few of the apostles themselves were able to follow it.

Jesus was asking His followers not to be grim and sour, or belligerent and argumentative, as so many "religious" people of His time were. He knew that it was too easy to defend one's beliefs with name - calling and the brandishing of arms; and to commit injustices, and even kill people, in the name of religion and theological conformity.

The meek (or "debonair") are far from weak; they possess an internal strength that permits them to suffer as St. Paul suffered, without retaliation. When Jesus enjoined "Pick up your cross and follow Me," He was not urging passivity but a path that led to crucifixion. He was calling for the supreme bravery of setting an example.

And this example, of heroism and sacrifice for a belief, was not to be performed in a smug and self-righteous manner, but in a gay and carefree spirit, "taking no heed for the morrow." The meekness that ignorant men read into the gospel is a far cry from the bowed head and the downcast eye of the slave; it is the quiet smile and the sure step of the only free man among us.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Inspiration comes this morning, and you follow it. The rest of the day falls into some revised format later.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Find something constructive that really requires your concentration. Friends tend to exaggerate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Be sure your home has all the accustomed amenities available; once-over-lightly for the rest of the chores.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You are a bit freer with money, other resources than some of your friends. Let intuition guide you through tense moments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): If there is something you want, get out early and search for it. Old puzzles resolve themselves now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You may be late with some action, but go ahead as the impulse prods you. Your neighborhood is quite lively this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The run of coincidence turns your way. Personal promises are kept despite your fears of losing out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Avoid talking shop this weekend by choosing happy-go-lucky friends who don't. Domestic issues suddenly clear up.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Take advantage of the quieter hours to seek an original, profitable thought. Meanwhile, be as pleasant as you know how.

CLC Brief Bitter

Ottawa Is Urged To Copy Nixon

Inflation Fight Moves 'Brutal'

OTTAWA (CP) — In its most bitter attack to date on current economic policy, the Canadian Labor Congress will urge the government Monday to adopt the full employment budget policies already endorsed by President Richard Nixon.

The proposal is contained in the CLC's annual memorandum to the cabinet to be presented by Congress president Donald MacDonald and other executives of the 1.7 million-member labor body.

The 15,000-word brief blames unemployment on what it terms the government's "inflation syndrome" and tight fiscal and monetary policies imposed to counter inflation.

"The brutality, the callousness, the studied indifference to the human consequences of this anti-inflationary approach were matched only by its ineptitude," the brief says.

Even the most enlightened economic policies adopted now will be unlikely to reduce unemployment to an acceptable rate of three per cent of the work force in the 1970s because "the severe damage which has been inflicted on the economy . . . cannot be easily, and most certainly cannot be quickly, undone."

Measures proposed to stimulate the economy are similar to Conservative and New Democrat recommendations and include:

—Reduction of taxes for low-income Canadians;

—Abolition of the three-per-cent surcharge on income taxes and the 11-per-cent tax on building materials;

—Major increases in old age pensions;

—Immediate implementation of the government's plan to raise unemployment insurance benefits;

—Scrapping of the present anti-inflation device of deferring capital cost allowances on commercial construction in Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia;

—"An even more dynamic housing policy."

Adoption of the "high employment budget" concept, the brief says, would enable the government to bring economic performance into line with potential output.

As proposed by President Nixon, the concept claims to balance government spending with the potential revenues of an economy working at full capacity.

The brief says the approach "would make it possible to differentiate between the effects of a budget on the economy and the effects of the economy on the budget itself."

Under the present system, it says, government deficits may be more a reflection of economic recession than of measures to stimulate the economy.

The CLC also asks Prime Minister Trudeau's government to step up a campaign for international free trade and criticised the decision to invoke the War Measures Act to deal with terrorism in Quebec last fall.

"We shared the sense of horror which pervaded the whole of Canada as a result of these crimes.

"Yet at the same time we cannot condone the extreme reaction of the government.

"Events have clouded the parity of your intentions.

"Your government spoke of an apprehended insurrection and of terrorists to be counted in the thousands. The people of this country have been provided with not a little of evidence that this has been the case."

In the field of social legislation, the brief says the government has begun to implement its white paper on income security without providing opportunities for public discussion.

The government wins approval from the congress on a number of points, with praises for increases in old age income supplements and provisions to protect workers to be phased out of uneconomic textile production.

Youth Faces Piracy Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 19 - year - old California youth won a reprieve Friday night against deportation to face air piracy charges in Seattle after a Western Airlines jet was hijacked to Canada.

Lawyer Tom Berger was granted a writ of habeas corpus by Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan in British Columbia Supreme Court which requires immigration authorities to produce Chappin Scott Paterson in court Monday to show cause why he should not be released from their custody.

Paterson, a first-year college student when he was drafted into the U.S. Army, pulled off Canada's first international hijacking Thursday night when he diverted the Boeing 737 to Vancouver from its scheduled destination in Seattle.

There were 66 other inductees on the plane. All were on their way to Fort Lewis, Wash. for six weeks of basic training.

The writ was obtained while a special immigration hearing was being held on Paterson's aplication for landed immigrant status.

The hearing adjourned after seven hours when it was learned the habeas corpus writ had been granted. It will resume Tuesday morning.

The Immigration Act prohibits the landing of anyone admitting or involved in a "crime of moral turpitude."

Don Rosenbloom, the lawyer Paterson first obtained through the Vancouver Committee to aid American War Objectors, said he had made several unsuccessful requests for the immigration adjournment to allow both sides to consider certain "complicated" legal issues.

Mr. Rosenbloom, who was joined by Mr. Berger on the case, said he did not discuss any allegations made against the youth, or the motives for the hijacking.

He said no charges have been

Laotian Hill 31 Retaken

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese military headquarters said its soldiers recaptured Hill 31 along the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos today, but they were reported surrounded by two North Vietnamese regiments at a nearby base. Much heavy fighting was reported in Laos and Cambodia.

United States fighter-bomber pilots knocked out seven Soviet-made tanks in the battle to retake the hill. South Vietnamese spokesmen said 1,000 North Vietnamese were killed in three days of fighting there, some of it hand-to-hand.

Official spokesmen said they had no figures on South Vietnamese casualties, but officers in the field said they were heavy. Hill 31 is eight miles inside Laos and north of Highway 9.

Lt.-Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the 16,000 South Vietnamese in Laos, said his troops have regrouped and were reinforced after losing Hill 31 Friday. Under an umbrella of U.S. helicopter gunships, they attacked North Vietnamese positions and have retaken half of the hill, he said.

In Saigon, a spokesman for the South Vietnamese command said:

"The fighting in Laos has become intense. That is what we expected before the operation started. We would like to see the enemy stand and fight with us, and the enemy now is doing what we expected them to do."

The command also said a task force operating in Cambodia with U.S. combat air support wiped out a North Vietnamese battalion of 400 men.

Policemen Are Slain In Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — Two policemen were killed early today as gun battles raged in the fire-lit streets of this Northern Ireland capital between government forces and snipers of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Two snipers also were believed dead, and four policemen were wounded. The wounds of one were so serious he was administered last rites.

Egyptians Willing to Accept Decisions Made by Big Four

CAIRO (AP) — The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram says Egypt is prepared to accept unanimous decisions of the Big Four on the Middle East, including when the ceasefire should expire.

The announcement indicates that the Egyptian government has noted "tangible progress" in indirect peace talks at the United Nations, a condition set by President Anwar Sadat for extending the truce past March 7.

Sadat agreed this month to extend the ceasefire 30 days, its second extension since it began last August to improve conditions for the discussions under Gunnar V. Jarring.

"Egypt will not object in the coming days to any decision adopted unanimously by the Big Four powers, in consultation with UN Secretary-General U Thant and his special representative Ambassador Jarring," the newspaper says. The ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union are discussing the Middle East at the United Nations in New York at the same time as Jarring consults with representatives of Egypt, Jordan and Israel.

In Tel Aviv, Foreign Minister Abba Eban indicated future maps of the Middle East must include territorial changes in the holy city of Jerusalem, Syria's Golan Heights and Egypt's Sharm el Sheikh at the foot of the Sinai Peninsula. Israel captured the Golan Heights, the Sinai and Arab sectors of Jerusalem in the June, 1967, war.

Speaking over the army radio station Friday night, Eban said those three territories are the basic causes of hostilities in the Middle East. Israeli border settlements came under frequent bombardment from the Golan Heights before the war, and Sharm el Sheikh is beside the Straight of Tiran and controls access to the Gulf of Aqaba.

The foreign minister said the Israeli government has made no decision on acceptable peacetime borders, but he said anybody studying last week's statement by Premier Golda Meir's cabinet "could conclude there was ample room for compromise and negotiations." He reiterated, however, that Israel could not return to its prewar frontiers.

"If Egypt says she is prepared for a peace agreement, then she must be ready for another 19 agreements on disputed questions, including frontiers, security arrangements, refugees, navigation and the Suez canal," he said.

Israel handed Jarring its reply Friday to Egypt's proposals for a peace agreement, and Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said the document "makes it possible for Israel and Egypt to get down to working out in detail" peace terms.

Britain To Leave Iran Area

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government has decided to pull Britain's troops out of the Persian Gulf area, eliminating even the small token presence it planned to leave behind at the end of 1971.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home probably will make the announcement in the House of Commons Monday, authoritative sources reported today.

The policy switch apparently was prompted by resistance from Iran, Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Kuwait to a continued British presence.

Two Resignations Clear Way For Possible Cabinet Shuffle

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Wishart of Sault Ste. Marie resigned Friday as minister of justice and attorney-general of Ontario.

He was the second minister to resign in one day, making room for Premier-designate William Davis to make changes in the cabinet he will announce Monday.

Mr. Wishart said he had resigned because he believes the new premier should "have a completely free hand in forming the new government.

"This is the opportune time for new talent to be brought into the executive council."

However, Mr. Wishart's statement did not say his resignation had been accepted by Mr. Davis, as was the case earlier in the day with the announced resignation of Public Works Minister John Simonett.

Nor did Mr. Wishart give any indication of his plans, whereas Mr. Simonett said he would not seek re-election to the legislature

Mr. Wishart said he would "continue to serve the government and as a member of the legislature in whatever way opportunity offers."

Mr. Simonett, 59, has represented Frontenac-Addington in the legislature since 1959 and has been in the cabinet since 1962.

The resignations immediately touched off speculation about the makeup of the new cabinet.

The top man mentioned was Allan Lawrence, the man who was only 44 votes behind Mr. Davis in balloting for the party leadership.

Toronto newspapers speculated Mr. Lawrence would receive a key portfolio Monday—perhaps attorney-general or municipal affairs, now held by Darcy McKeough.

One source said Mr. McKeough will remain in municipal affairs, but has been promised the treasury if Treasurer Charles MacNaughton resigns after the next election—assuming the PCs maintain their hold on the government.

Car Insurance Lobby Urged

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Insurance agents were challenged last night to give "brains, bodies and money" to fight the nationalization of automobile insurance.

Richard W. Gammon of Toronto, a vice - president of the Ontario Insurance Agents Association, urged his listeners to form political action committees to prevent government take-over of auto insurance.

He was speaking to agents from Belleville, Hastings county and adjacent counties gathered at Sun Luck Gardens to hear him tell of OIAA's efforts to fight the NDP party.

OIAA's purpose, he said was to "generate enough heat to get the two major parties into the arena" to fight the trend toward nationalization of insurance.

The reason for OIAA's involvement is its opposition to socialistic policy.

"If auto insurance becomes government controlled in Ontario it would be the forerunner of other forms of government control, as happened in Saskatchewan," Mr. Gammon told his fellow agents.

His organization is fighting to retain auto insurance in the private sector because "we can do a better job" than government, Mr. Gammon said.

"Why should we agents keep a business that causes us more trouble and pays us less than any other form of insurance?" he asked. "Because it's just the beginning. The Regina Manifesto of the CCF party (forerunner of the NDP) calls for government to take over and nationalize all forms of private business.

"It is time for political involvement," he told the agents. "I personally have no sympathy for those who are too apathetic to become personally involved with the political party that supports them. Join the party of your own choice, as long as it's one of the two main ones."

Mr. Gammon noted that the NDP put nationalism of auto insurance in its platform eight years ago, but removed it four years ago.

"Our association was responsible for that," he said.

"The NDP says they can handle auto insurance for 20 per cent less than we do. That 20 per cent is their estimate of the agents' commission. But the real reason is their desire to get their hands on those premiums for investment income.

"When auto insurance was socialized in Manitoba, the NDP began by saying it would be 20 per cent cheaper. They finally admitted that cost was not important — the important thing was to keep the $35 million in premiums in the province," Mr. Gammon asserted.

Later Mr. Gammon told The Intelligencer that agents' commissions on auto insurance in Ontario ranges from 12.5 to 15 per cent of the premium cost. In the state of New York the commission is 20 to 22.5 per cent. The 20 per cent the NDP claims it can save by nationalizing insurance is wrongly based on American figures, he indicated.

Mr. Gammon took a swing at newspapers, which he said "butcher" reports of the auto insurance situation. He charged that only four or five reporters in Canada can be depended upon to treat the subject "honestly and decently".

"Except for British Columbia, we in Ontario have the best auto insurance on the continent, but you'd never know it from the newspapers," he declared.

He told the agents that the Davey report on the media in Canada revealed that "at no time in history of our country have Canadians held their news media in greater suspicion".

Specifically, Mr. Gammon charged newspapers with confusing the situation in the United States with the situation in Ontario.

He remarked on "all their conflicting laws in each state, their higher commissions," and added that "we get the slough-off from the States and it's reported in the papers as though it applied here".

As an example, he noted that if two cars collide in New York state and both drivers are partly responsible, neither can collect. In Ontario, both drivers can collect, according to the degree of negligence.

A second cause of "public irritation and distress' over auto insurance is the actions of some companies in the field, Mr. Gammon indicated.

About 1960, he said, some companies started to be "restrictive underwriters, levying excessive charges and treating claimants abominably.

"If the government continues to license these companies, we will never cure the problem and the whole industry will be tarred with the same brush," he told his fellow agents.

"Certain companies are not treating their fellow companies right," he repeated.

"These companies are offenders and the government that lets them go on will defeat our efforts to keep insurance in the private sector."

He read a list of examples of offending companies, nine in all, which he said was only a partial roll of "bad" companies. He added another list of 12 "good" companies.

Later, Mr. Gammon said about 175 competing companies are selling auto insurance in Ontario and his lists were meant only as examples.

"I chose the companies I represent by their claims records," he said. "It's time to speak out and start separating the sheep from the goats.

"It's a question of whether you want to buy your insurance over the counter when you buy your licence, or whether you want to buy it from a man who lives, works and contributes to your community and returns money to its merchants and churches and organizations," he told the press. "The choice is as simple as that."

"TO THE COMPLACENT CHURCH"

"Then write this to the angel of the Church in Laodicea: These are the words of the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of God's creation:
I know what you have done, and that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish that you were either cold or hot! But since you are lukewarm and neither hot nor cold, I intend to spit you out of my mouth! While you say 'I am rich, I have prospered, and there is nothing that I need', you have no eyes to see that you are wretched, pitiable, poverty stricken, blind and naked. My advice to you is to buy from me that gold which is purified in the furnace so that you may be rich, and white garments to wear so that you may hide the shame of your nakedness, and salve to put on your eyes to make you see. All those who I love I correct and discipline. Therefore, shake off your complacency and repent. See, I stand knocking at the door. If anyone listens to my voice and opens the door, I will go into his house and dine with him, and he with me. As for the victorious, I will give him the honor of sitting beside me on my throne, just as I myself have won the victory and have taken my seat beside my Father on his throne.
Let the listener hear what the Spirit says to the Churches".

Report of Hercules Move Not Yet an Official Stand

TRENTON (Staff) — CFB Trenton appears likely to have its first Hercules squadron operating from its facilities but premature announcement of the move has ballooned into a base enquiry.

Yesterday, The Trentonian carried the story, claiming 436 Squadron will move from Ottawa to Trenton. Reason behind the move is that with the phasing out of the Yukons April 1 the base can accommodate the Hercules heavy transport aircraft.

In addition, the newspaper said a fifth Boeing 707 would be acquired and that twin Otters will replace the Dakotas of 424 Squadron.

Source of the report apparently was an article to appear Monday in Contact, the base newspaper.

Contact is written and edited by air force personnel. It is printed by contract at the Trentonian.

Assistant editor of Contact, Cpl. F. Walsh said this morning: "There has been quite an uproar over it — but I cannot comment.

Brig. - Gen. C. Allison, chief of staff operations, Air Transport Command, told The Intelligencer today "None of it is from an official source."

However, a plan for shifting 436 Squadron here is being looked at now. When and it is accepted for release, it will be the minister of national defence himself who will announce it, he said.

Base protocol officer Wayne Crowell said his concern was over the release of material that has not been sanctioned by the department of national defence.

"I won't drop it — I want to get more facts. I don't appreciate statements made in any paper about the department of national defence that have not been issues by the department," he said.

Contact, staff will not comment on their sources but Capt. Crowell assured The Intelligencer they did not include himself or defence information services.

"A lot of it (the article) is speculation, — particularly the last paragraph," he said.

It is this paragraph that contains references to the acquisition of a fifth 707 and the twin Otters.

Capt. Crowell said no official announcement has been made on any such acquisitions.

Artificial Ice Surface Nearer for Frankford

FRANKFORD (Special) — The probability of artificial ice for the Frankford arena has moved a step nearer. At a regular meeting of the Frankford Village council last Wednesday evening, a motion was passed authorizing an application for debentures for $40,000. Permission will first have to be obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board.

In suggesting the motion, Reeve William Rose pointed out that the present arena, which has natural ice, is fully paid for. An earlier arena was destroyed by fire. The front portion, which is constructed of concrete blocks, was saved. This section houses the dressing rooms for the players, a canteen, and upstairs, the Centennial room, used for banquets and dances.

A new structure was erected a year ago over the ice surface to form the arena building.

This is an all-steel building. New lighting of the mercury type was installed, and an asphalt walkway was constructed around the ice surface.

Mr. Rose told the councillors that the cost of the arena came from donations and earnings from other projects, such as the recent carnival.

"I believe the repayment of the debenture can be met from ice rental revenue with sufficient funds over to show a profit," he said. "Computing the running costs of the arena as they stand now to include extra staff that will be repayment of the debenture, and then comparing this with anticipated income. I feel confident that theresu lts will justify the expense. These figures are based on a minimum rental charge to be on the safe side."

Mr. Rose said the cost of the arena as it now stands was about $86,000.

Illness Postpones Premiere

PICTON (Staff) — The Quinte Island Theatre's weekend production of Cactus Flower has been postponed until spring owing to illness among cast members. The play originally was scheduled for presentation tonight and Saturday night at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute. A repeat performance was to have been held March 5 and 6.

Mrs. Roger Hirst, secretary for the theatre group said this week that all tickets sold in advance will be honored when Cactus Flower is presented later this year.

It has been decided by QIT members to use part of the money raised by the production of this play to finance costumes for the children's play, The Gift of the Drum, slated for presentation in the National Arts Centre, Ottawa, during the Theatre Canada '71 Festival. The theatre group plans to take the childrens' play to the festival despite their recent financial setback.

Drug Abuse Discussed; Board Takes No Action

Belleville General Hospital treats about one to three cases a month of non-medical use of drugs at this time of the year, but in the summer the number of cases coming into emergency triples.

Acting administrator John Kunetsky gave the figures at a board of directors' meeting of Belleville General Hospital at the request of Ald. Gerald Joyce.

The number of people suffering reactions to non-medical use of drugs increased when the crisis centre was operating on Front St. last summer, he indicated.

"This is a complicated problem," said Mr. Kunetsky.

Some hospitals, he indicated, are assigning special staff to deal with drug cases and are inviting street workers in to learn how hospitals work and the services drug users can expect. Others are assisting with street clinics.

"A person on a bad trip needs someone to sit with him and our staff doesn't have time," he said. "Hotel Dieu Hospital in St. Catharines ran a project last year and it was a real schmozzle. They simply opened their emergency and a half dozen people a day lounged around in corridors—you never knew who you'd meet in the morning."

Mr. Kunetsky said the Ontario Hospital Services Commission is now conducting a survey among the province's hospitals to learn of their policies regarding drug abuse cases.

Ald. Enos David suggested that the local hospital should make a recommendation on the subject at this time "if you are going to influence OHSC's decisions".

But the directors decided to wait to see what guidelines OHSC offers for dealing with the problem.

Dr. J. Russell Scott said the hospital must be prepared to treat drug users medically on an emergency basis.

"If people take any poison in sub-clinical doses we don't get involved," he said. "But if they take anything in harmful doses we have to give emergency treatment on the same basis to all."

He said he was optimistic that drug abuse had reached its peak as far as the novelty is concerned and the problem should begin to decline in importance.

Mr. Kunetsky told the board that usual procedure is to put someone "on a bad trip" in a room in emergency.

"Someone usually comes in with him and talks him down". he said.

Dr. Peter Scott questioned the practice of treating drug cases in the emergency department.

"Putting them in emergency is not fair to nearby patients who might be in with coronaries," he said. "It's not fair to let them take up regular beds either."

Hospital Survey Proposed

The health needs of the Quinte community will soon be defined if a group of hospital consultants gets a contract to conduct a survey.

The directors of Belleville General Hospital at their regular monthly meeting yesterday considered asking such a survey and referred it to a committee for study.

The cost would be shared proportionately by Belleville, Trenton and Picton and might be eligible for an Ontario Hospital Services Commission grant. The Belleville cost has been estimated at $5,000.

The hospital itself has conducted a survey on patients' opinion of their hospital. Questionaires were mailed to all discharged patients and 50 per cent replied.

A similar questionnaire is now going out to all out-patients who have used the emergency and out-patient facilities of the hospital.

Patients are being asked their opinion of the facilities, the courtesy of the staff and how long they had to wait for treatment. They are asked to rate the out-patient departmen as excellent, good, fair or poor.

Newsletter, Booth Are Vetoed by Board

Hastings county public school trustees scuttled two public relations schemes Monday night before they could be launched.

They rejected a newsletter and a booth at Quinte Exhibition on the grounds that the returns in communication with the public weren't worth the cost.

Instead, the board authorized administrators to prepare monthly reports of educational activities and offer them for publication in all county newspapers.

The rural weeklies came in for criticism from trustees, who said they did not print news of the board and its activities and left their readers in ignorance of "what's going on down there in Belleville" (at board headquarters).

From time to time during the first two years of the board's operation, trustees have suggested that a newsletter should go out to all ratepayers.

In a report on the project, administration proposed sending out the newsletter in October, February and April of each year, at a total cost of $650 if the pupils took them home, or $1,350 if they were mailed out.

The director of the journalism course at Loyalist College offered the resources of his department for all photography, layout and any reporting services required.

In presenting his report on the proposed newsletter, Superintendent L. F. Reid sa'd home and school and trustees' associations had strongly advocated publication of newsletters.

"I have reports by teachers on seminars and conventions which people never see," he said. "Newsletters also provide for response from the public — some printed by other boards carry questionnaires on things like religious education for ratepayers to fill out and return."

Trustee F. John Follis of Bancroft was a strong supporter of a newsletter.

"The Intell gives us terrific support," he said, "but in the north we're getting rapped over the knuckles every day because people are complaining that school news doesn't get the good coverage by their paper. I have taken things down to the local weekly and been lucky if I got one-quarter published. There's a hue and cry in the north that people don't know what's going on."

"I can't shake them," went on Mr. Follis in reference to school news in his town's paper. "But if some one from here spoke to them . . ."

Emerson Robinson of Maynooth said he had spoken to the weekly's proprietors, and "they assured me that they would print any information that came from the Hastings county board and its administrators."

Milford Waller of Thurlow also favored the newsletter if it would stimulate ratepayers to take an interest in education.

"The low vote at the last election indicated people weren't interested in education," he said.

Mrs. Jean Hutchison of Trenton opposed the newsletter on the grounds that it would be "a trumpet solo for the board."

"People don't want to hear how wonderful we are," she said. "They want to know what's wrong with us and I don't suppose we're about to tell them.

"I get the idea that Loyalist is going to do the reporting for us, which strikes me as a little ludicrous," commented Mrs. Miriam Graham.

James Clarke told trustees that people tend to discount an official publication, regarding it as propaganda.

"Once a year we should get out a factual annual report of our activities," he said. "The rest of the time we should work closely with the press, perhaps give out more material and encourage the people who run weeklies."

MacDonald Smith of Belleville noted that "in the southern part of the county we get excellent coverage and the newspaper has almost 100 per cent circulation here."

The proposal to rent and staff a booth at Quinte Exhibition failed to take the fancy of trustees.

Mrs. Graham said she wasn't impressed with the display put on by the board at last year's fair.

"I thought it wasn't effective . . . too much of a sameness," she said.

Several other trustees said fair-goers hadn't shown much interest in discussing education with the trustees, teachers and students who manned the booth.

Cost of the booth was $870 last year, but would have been higher this year because most of last year's exhibit was borrowed from the department of education in Toronto.

Trustees decided the fair booth was not an effective way of communicating with the public and decided to opt out of Quinte Exhibition in 1971.

Trenton Girl On Probation

TRENTON (Staff) — A 19-year-old Trenton resident, Helen Kerr was found guilty in provincial court here yesterday of charges arising out of a College St. disturbance last July.

Trenton police constable Mark Houlden died from natural causes after he had been called to the east side residence to investigate a family squabble July 29.

Judge R. C. Jackson, taking into consideration that Mrs. Kerr is the mother of a young child, handed down a two-year suspended sentence to the defendant, charged with two counts of assaulting a police officer and one of causing a disturbance.

Mrs. Kerr was put on probation and directed not to leave the area served by Trenton provincial court without permission from her probation officer.

For a further charge of drinking under age, she was fined $35 or eight days in jail. Judge Jackson also ordered that she desist from the drinking of alcoholic beverages.

Legion Speakers Set High Standard

Sincerity won 11 - year - old Mark Ryall first place in his category at the Royal Canadian Legion public speaking competition held Wednesday evening and sponsored jointly by the Belleville Branches 99 and 587 ex-servicewomen.

Chairmen for the event were Mrs. H. Howes and Harold Vaughan.

Thirty - two pupils from grades 1 to 8 spoke in competitions that had been scheduled for Saturday and postponed because of the freezing rainstorm.

The secondary school level contest for Sunday, was unaffected by the storm, with Lauelle Callaghan, Bancroft, winning the first place in grade nine to ten competition.

Impromptu speeches were required to break the tie for points between the senior class: Sandra LaChappelle, Centennial Secondary School won over Holly Walker, Quinte S.S.

First place winner in the junior division was Mark Ryall, St. Joseph's school and Gloria Graf, L'Amable, second. Two students from Harmony Public School, Diane Jarrell and Lois Martin won the grade 7 and 8 level. All received prize money of $10 and $5 respectively for first and second place. Top winners go on to higher prizes with an ultimate goal of $500 and a chance of a bursary for the senior category, at the provincial competitions to be held in April at Toronto.

The judges last evening, Everett Fairman, Phil Acorn and Mrs. Alvin Ellis, agreed all the contestants made excellent contributions and were to be commended for topics selected and written by themselves. The only disappointment noted by Mr. Fairman was that more adults were not in attendance to appreciate the individual effort put forth by the young people.

Speaking Contest Winners Named

Students from the county secondary schools competed last Friday night in a public speaking contest that would decide who would represent the county in the zone finals that will be held this Friday at Sir Winston Churchill School.

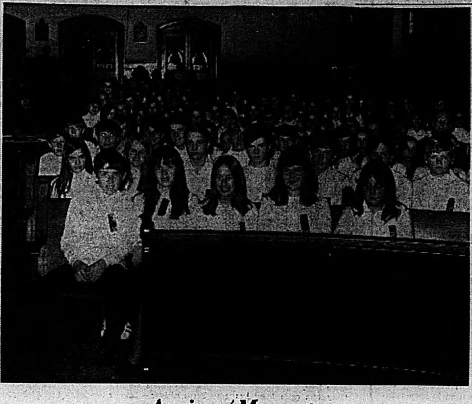
The contest is sponsored by the Ontario Public Schools Trustees Association and co-sponsored by the Ontario and Municipal Electric Association.

Sandra La Chapelle, of Centennial Secondary School, won the prepared speech and Laurelle Callahan, of North Hasting's Secondary School won the impromptu speech competitions.

These girls will appear again, with delegates from the other counties in the zone, to determine who will go to Toronto for the provincial competition.

Costs of the contest are taken care of by both of the sponsoring organizations.

Winners this Friday will receive cash prides from the Electric Association, plaques for themselves and for their schools which will be presented by Norman K. Manning of the Ontario Hydro, and their choice of a record that will serve as an added memento of their participation in the competition.



Anxious Moments

Competitors in the Rotary Music Festival sit on pins and needles as they await the outcome of the event. The school choirs, for the junior grades, gave a remarkable performance, said adjudicator Trevor Anthony.

Festival Stars Prove Talent Here

By EUGENE LANG

The third annual Rotary Music Festival came to an auspicious conclusion as the Festival of Stars was held at Centennial School Auditorium last evening before a large audience in attendance. The participants who were heard were mostly award winners chosen by the two adjudicators during the previous two days of competition, although entertainment value as well as competence was a factor in the selection of the many talented performers.

Variety was a keynote for the program traversing the musical scene from serious classics, both sacred and secular through salon pieces, novelty numbers, marches folk songs and ending in contemporary rock. Thirty-one entries were featured, all giving forth with their very best in their respective categories. To those who were present, as well as the radio listeners (the majority of the program was broadcast over Radio CJBQ) it was only too apparent that a wealth of fine musical ability exists in this area, attested to by the exemplary performances given by those on stage, both singly and collectively.

It is not our aim to pass in judgment on any of the singers or instrumentalists, as this was done earlier by those two knowledgeable and erudite Britishers, Trevor Anthony for the vocalists and choruses and his colleague Kenneth van Barthold for the instrumentalists. Suffice it to say the end result was in practically every case a testimonial for the high marks awarded by our visiting arbiters of matters musical.

In order of appearance those taking part consisted of Centennial Secondary School junior band; Ernst Johle - accordion solo; Ursula Berger - piano solo; Mary Wonnacott - vocal solo; Queen Victoria Grade 2 choir; Ursula Berger and Frank Fontyn - piano duet; Sheila Jourard, folk singer; Tabernacle United Church junior choir; Jimmy d'Amico - accordion solo; Oscar Nespoli and Jimmy d'Amico - accordion duet; Steven Levick - vocal solo; Our Lady of Fatima grade 6 choir; Debbie Johnston - piano solo; Josie Pecek - accordion solo and Harry J. Clarke grade 8 choir. These items constituted the first half of the program.

After intermission the following attractions were heard: Arden's accordion band; Ann Colebourne, soprano; Robin Ormsby - piano solo; Ann Marie Aquino - accordion solo; Colin Robbins - operatic solo; Debbit Potts - piano solo; Rosslyn Robertson - concert song; Ruth Hills - accordion solo; Gail Shaw - vocal solo; Moira folk singers; Nancy Riedel - flute solo; Susan Walsh - vocal solo; Moira folk choir; John Hitch - baritone horn solo; Reta Hough - contralto solo; and Centennial senior school band.

Each of the two adjudicators selected what he considered outstanding musical endowment in the vocal and instrumental branches of music for the City of Belleville award of $200. Top vocal honors and $100 were awarded to Ann Colebourne for her high standard of singing, a like award and sum of money going to Centennial Senior School Band for their proficiency in playing. These were presented on behalf of the City of Belleville by Alderman Mrs. Jean. E. Smith.

Throughout the evening other awards and the names of their recipients and donors were mentioned by the master of ceremonies, Linton D. Read as the winners appeared on stage. As M.C. Mr. Read handled the show with experienced aplomb, matching cornucopia of 'corn' with corpulence of copiousness.

And so we wrap up another year of the Rotary Music Festival, successful in quality this time if not in quantity. To all those who took part, musical entrants, organizers, behind the scenes workers and leg men unsung, along with teachers, accompanists, mentors and co-ordinators we extend commendations for another Festival well carried out. Thus we move on to another Rotary Music Festival for 1972 with higher hopes ever the sought after goal.

Trenton May Move Its Market

TRENTON (Staff) — The Trenton Chamber of Commerce has been approached by the town parking authority to give consideration to proposals for a new farmers' market here.

Chamber manager Jack Wilson says the obvious solution is to move to the market from its historic location in the centre of town to two small off-street parking lots on either side of the Chamber of Commerce offices on Front Street.

Reason for the parking authority's plan to move the farmers off the old market square is that they take up too much space that could otherwise be used as a parking lot.

On a new market compound the parking authority will lease covered stalls.

Piracy Charged

laid against Paterson in Canada.

In Ottawa, meanwhile, Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons the government is giving "immediate and careful consideration" to the case.

He told Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) three alternatives are being studied—deportation, extradition and prosecution.

A decision on whether to prosecute a criminal suspect normally rests with provincial authorities, but where a foreigner is involved, they must obtain leave of the federal justice department.

Under the Criminal Code, anybody aboard an aircraft who commits an act regarded as a criminal offence in the country where the plane is registered, is liable to Canadian criminal jurisdiction once the plane lands in Canada.

Federal officials suggested Canada might readily respond to a request for extradition, if only to dramtize its support for the extradition provisions of the recently-formulated Hague convention on aerial hijacking.

Canada played a leading role in drafting the treaty, aimed at ensuring that hijackers do not go unpunished because of legal technicalities.

However, the treaty has not yet come into force.

The charge of air piracy, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, was laid against Paterson Friday in Seattle by the FBI.

Folk Singing

In the adjudication on the second day of the Rotary Music Festival here Sheila Jourard received a mark of 85 for her performance in the category of folk singing in English, under 20 years.

Second was Ron Hiuser, with a mark of 84, and third was Arty Lee Miller with 80.

Focus on Traffic

Automobile manufacturers cater to man's need to get around, but as we all know there are other less desirable factors in car ownership, of which the craving for speed and the desire to show off are the most apparent.

It may be that generally speaking drivers, the young included (thanks to driver education) are becoming more mature, for either accidents are fewer these days or there is less emphasis on them.

Nevertheless, the hazards we have mentioned are always present and we must continue to emphasize the virtues of obeying the traffic laws, especially the need to keep within speed limits.

Defensive driving makes good sense in terms of consideration for oneself as well as others, and it was good to hear Monsignor Sullivan speak in such practical terms in a radio talk on this theme the other day.

Accidents do not happen — they are caused. The driver has in his hands the power of life and death. Too often it is forgotten that mishandled, a car can be an instrument of death.

In April, it is interesting to note, the Ontario Traffic Conference will be held in the new Four Seasons Hotel. On the one hand we shall be welcoming this additional traffic to Belleville, while on the other anticipating that delegates will come to grips with the problems which accrue from proliferating traffic and mushrooming road networks. Bound up in such problems are the twin spectres of rape of the landscape and pollution, not to mention strangulation of our cities. These are the kind of topics the conference must address itself to.

Trade "Down Under"

Returning from a visit to Australia last year, Ontario Minister of Trade and Development Stanley Randall went on to a ceremony in Toronto opening Australia's first trade show in eastern Canada.

Mr. Randall is a firm believer in overseas investment, including of course investment in Canada, and his address on this occasion revealed some interesting facts about the growing trade partnership between the two Commonwealth nations.

The minister noted that although Canada's exports to Australia in 1969 dropped from $186 million to $163 million — while Australia's exports to Canada rose by $20 million to $96 million — the long-term prospects were bright. In the first quarter of 1970, for example, Canada's exports to Australia were up 45 per cent, and Australia's exports to Canada were up 87 per cent.

Traditionally, about 60 per cent of Canada's imports from Australia were made up of items such as meat, raisins, raw sugar, and alumina, while a large percentage of Canada's exports to Australia were items such as sulphur, lumber, newsprint, power boilers and parts, motor vehicles and accessories. Ontario accounted for more than 40 per cent of these exports. In an effort to put the balance of trade on a more equitable footing some 80 Australian manufacturers were exhibiting in Toronto, with products ranging from heavy engineering, mining equipment, and industrial machinery to fashion fabrics, textiles, and sporting goods and housewares.

Mr. Randall noted also that with the expansion of Australian mining enterprises, along with the growth of new towns, housing, ports, roads, railways and airports, Ontario had the products and services which could speed such progress. Similarly, Australia's tourist business was expected to double in five years, affording a market for hotels and restaurants, construction materials and equipment. Yet another fruitful field for the exchange of materials and skills was electronics. The Australian import market for electronic equipment amounted to more than $20 million in 1968.

An interesting impression gained by Mr. Randall was that Australians were turning to North American styles and fashions and he concluded also that such things as home heating, which he described as still a novelty in Australia, "offer warm prospects for both of us." Yes, it does cool down a bit during the winter season "down under!"

Recent inventions in Australia which Mr. Randall said could benefit Canadians included manual oil and gasoline pumps, new and improved contact lenses, air pollution control equipment, electric and electronic instruments, and dairy and farm equipment.

Trade is the lifeblood of nations and we are glad to see that there is so much in which these two leading Commonwealth countries can deal. It means material advancement for both, as well as a cementing of Commonwealth ties.

Confrontation 1971-Style

Between P.M. and Press—A New Brand of Dialogue

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It happens to all Prime Ministers, this grinding down until the edges wear thin and the shreds of temper show.

Only it seems to happen sooner to some than to others.

And it is not just a simple matter of the time it takes to happen, but more a matter of the times in which it happens.

The pressures on Prime Ministers intensify with each succeeding administration and Parliament through every passing day and year.

And these men are fabricated of steel no more than they used to be.

So as the heat intensifies in the political furnace their metal becomes more brittle.

The smooth, cool surface suddenly ruptures and the quick rage flares through.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau for months, in fact almost from the outset, has been exchanging insults—usually good natured and mutually understood as an offbeat amiable animosity — through not-so-private sign language with former Conservative Trade Minister George Hees.

They both pride themselves on being with it, even if in their fifties — unspeakable age to the all-knowing young — Trudeau not long over the mark and Hees soon to cross it on the wrong side.

And Pierre Trudeau had traded not-quite-so-amiable and not entirely front-parlor - type words with such other Conservatives as those combative Maritimers Robert Coates, Bob Muir and Donnie MacInnis.

Even in Parliament — and after all, is the House of Commons supposed to be an 18th century drawing room — such straight-talkers as these seldom have taken the trouble to call a spade a shovel.

So there is Trudeau accused — and by no imparital witnesses — of having told the mail truck striking Montreal Lapalme drivers to "mangez de la merde," which the French - Canadians here insist is no more offensive than telling them to drop dead.

To be personal I was there quite by accident, on the way back from lunch, between the West and Centre Blocks when it happened. I heard what the Lapalme drivers shouted at the Prime Minister — it was a two-word obscenity, one of four, the other of six letters, hyphenated — and Trudeau made no audible reply nor gave any sign of acknowledgement.

And Trudeau is accused — with no confirmation on the uncensored written record of Hansard, and standing on his unqualified denial — of using himself a two-word obscenity, one of four, the other of three letters, hyphenated, to tell the Opposition as French Canadians again insist, to do no more than get lost.

It is all, the Quebeckers, MPs and Press Gallery representatives of French Canadian dailies explain, a matter of translation.

In these two cases — if Trudeau said what he was accused of saying — something was gained, rather than as usually happens lost in the translation.

This is no alibi nor rationalization for a Prime Minister, but Pierre Trudeau is up against an entirely "new wave" of aggressive, abrasive, and often abusive electronic journalists, the like of which no previous Prime Minister has had to face.

Some of them act like District Attorneys in TV court drama, brow-beating the witness with "why - don't - you - break-down-and-confess" kinds of questions.

The motive of some of these electronic prosecutors is to accuse and convict rather than to question and secure information.

So it is entirely understandable why Pierre Trudeau in frustration and contempt would turn on his heel, in sudden disgust as he has a couple of times, glaring over his shoulder an enraged "aw, you guys . . ."

With Mackenzie King, they would not have dared, because the reporters got to him only twice a year, not to bait and bully but to quietly question with some respect for the man's position as Prime Minister.

With courteous and gentle Louis "Uncle" St. Laurent, they never would have dreamed of hassling. His respect for what he obviously considered the "gentlemen of the press" commanded answering respect. Although there was once, when he was under pressure during the Suez crisis when suddenly he snapped, "my private thoughts are my own, don't pry!" And that was as abrasive as he ever got.

John Diefenbaker in his last minority year displayed a fiery temper that could burn any newsman who dared open the furnace door of his prime ministerial wrath with a deliberately offensive and provocative question. The Chief could, and did — often with a cruelty for which he later apologized—cut you up.

Lester Pearson was petulant if you provoked him, and that was about the limit to which he permitted his annoyance to go.

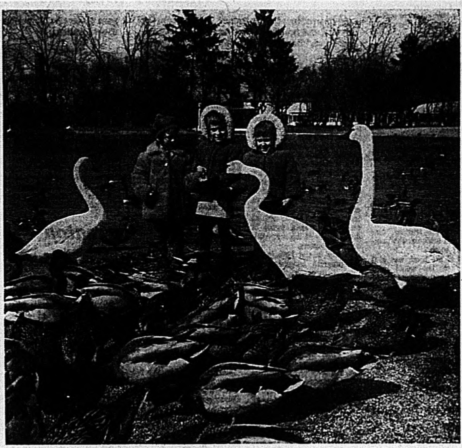
"Aw Dick," he would say more in sorrow than in anger answering some deliberately contrived awkward question, "come off it."

Treat Pierre Trudeau as a Prime Minister with courtesy and respect, and courtesy and respect you will receive in return.

But treat him, as some people have, as no Prime Minister before him has been treated, and what do you expect

A bouquet of violets?

This is a new political age—demonstration, confrontation, provocation — and this is a new breed of Prime Minister.



Safe Haven

Coastlines from Nova Scotia to California have suffered lately from oil spills. Unhappily, thousands of birds and ducks have died in the murky waters, victims of this terrible form of pollution. No such fate, however, awaits the wildlife at Jack Miner's famous sanctuary at Kingsville in western Ontario. Here three little visitors hobnob with some of the residents of the sanctuary, on Lake Erie southeast of Windsor. — (Ontario Department of Tourism and Information picture).

Saskatchewan Gets More From Ottawa

Ottawa Citizen

If the squeakiest wheel gets the most grease, Saskatchewan must have been doing some loud complaining indeed during the past year. For its equalization payments from Ottawa jump by $31 million in 1971-72—the largest increase enjoyed by any of the provinces, including Quebec, which will get an increase of $22 million.

But these payments are not calculated on the basis of the loudest complaints. They are reckoned on the basis of hard economic facts, with the goal of providing every province with enough money to give an acceptable minimum of public services.

Quebec gets the largest total, but of the poorer provinces, it has the largest population. Per capita, Newfoundland gets $200, followed by the other Atlantic provinces, to Nova Scotia with $127. There is a sharp drop to Quebec, with $76, then Saskatchewan with $65 and Manitoba with $50 per head. Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia get nothing.

The result is to help remove regional economic disparities, and to promote national unity.

Pollution Blues

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Every day the paper shouts to the world of pollution. Most people do not know the meaning of the word.

Where else in this world could you buy a home worth thousands of dollars only to find two polluted wells. One well mingles with the cesspool four to five months out of a year, the other well is permanently attached to someone's oil supply, or so it seems.

The friendly real estate people never mentioned wells, and being city folk it was just another word in the dictionary to us. In this space age, and forced to live in this condition, is hard to comprehend.

NO STRANGER TO POLLUTION.

Nearly half a ton of prehistoric stone has been airlifted from Ulster to the United States in a unique gesture by the National Trust, the body responsible for acquiring and maintaining areas of natural beauty in Northern Ireland, and British Overseas Airways Corporation. Its destination — a museum in Boston, Massachusetts.

The stone came from a quarry near the Giant's Causeway, the strange, legendary formation of symmetrical basaltic pillars generally referred to as the eighth wonder of the world.

Hockey Night Takes A Lot of Power

Hydro Matches Citizens' TV Viewing Habits

TORONTO (CP) — When Tiny Tim got married on the Johnny Carson Show, so many people stayed up late to watch that Ontario Hydro's power consumption shot up sharply.

"It was just amazing how many people stayed up to watch that show," says Don Howe. "At 1 a.m. when everyone shut off their sets and lights at the same time the power drop was incredible.

Any variation in power consumption patterns is important to Mr. Howe, 42, a production supervisor for Ontario Hydro.

His job involves levelling out shortages or surpluses of power in Hydro's 10,000-mile grid which serves about 2.3 million customers.

If Hydro has more power than it needs at any given time, he attempts to sell it—at a profit—to American or other Canadian utility companies.

If another company has a power surplus, he might arrange to buy some if the price is right.

Ontario Hydro has agreements with New York and Michigan state power pools, Great Lakes Power of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Hydro Quebec and Manitoba Hydro.

The company is second in size and output capacity only to the Tennessee Valley Power Authority. It has 262 generators across Ontario.

If Hydro agrees to sell surplus power to another utility, Mr. Howe tells a generating plant in the company's system to overgenerate the amount of power required.

The utility buying the power will, at the same time, undergenerate the amount of power it needs. The power will then flow between the two companies along special lines.

Television viewers sometimes prove to be a problem to Hydro. For example, there is always a great power surge during crucial hockey telecasts.

When a popular movie is shown on television, there is a surge in power consumption as more people stay up with television and lights on.

"You have to know a lot about lifestyles," Mr. Howe says.

"A lot of it is common sense."

Unhappy Graduate of McGill Forsook Medicine for Krishna

TORONTO (CP) — Hyman Zuckerman found his life unsatisfying so he changed his name to Rasananda Das Branachary and instead of practising medicine he became a disciple of a cult known as Krishna Consciousness.

Rasananda, 27, received his medical degree from McGill University last spring but instead of going into practice he moved into one of the cult's temples in Toronto.

In the temple where the air is redolent with the fragrance of burning incense and Indian cooking spice, Rasananda explained in an interview:

"Like the other disciples, I joined Krishna because my other life was unsatisfying."

The sect was established in the 1960s in New York by A. C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupad. Followers believe self-realization and self-purification can only be achieved through close union with Krishna, another word for the Lord.

They believe in reincarnation, vegetarianism, non-violence and kindness to all living things. The main activities are study and devotion. Wealth, alcohol, drugs, coffee, tea, meat, gambling and sex outside marriage are outlawed.

"We don't miss any of it because we have Krishna," said Rasananda. "Drugs we can especially do without.

"Most people seek pleasure in things like sex, food, drink, hockey, movies and TV. It's a waste of time because those things are emphemeral, unreal and unimportant. The only hope of fulfilment is through a life of utter devotion to Krishna."

Krishna means the all-attractive. One of the cult's main activities is the chanting of the mantra.

"The mantra is Krishna in sound," said Rasananda. "It glorifies him and summons people to worship him. When we chant privately in the temple, it's the genuine crying of a child for his mother."

The daily schedule for the 22 members in the Toronto temple begins at 4 a.m. The men shave their faces and heads clean, leaving a small tuft of hair on the crown.

"Our hair-style is a symbol of renunciation and also serves as an identification tag so Krishna can recognize us," said Rasananda.

The next four hours are spent in praying, chanting, studying and offering food at the altar for Krishna's blessing.

Breakfast is served at 8 a.m. with the men sitting on the floor around a rectangular bamboo mat and the women sitting around another.

The menu consists of plain yogurt a cooked cereal and milk.

During the day, some disciples are assigned to household chores and others chant the mantra.

In late afternoon they gather again for prayer and devotion, eat a meal and by 10 p.m the temple is dark and silent.

"We get along nicely on six hours sleep a night," said Rasananda. "We only stay in bed long enough to get rested to serve Krishna the next day. In the materialistic world, people use sleep as an escape from life."

Rasananda, who has been in the movement for more than a year, said he is more convinced than ever that the material world has little to offer.

"This is reality," he said. "Life in the outside world is unreal. People there are living in a dream. There's nothing sacred, nothing truthful, nothing permanent."

Churches Use Wealth To Further Principles

NEW YORK (AP) — American churches are using their economic clout to inject their principles into the ways of the business world.

"Social investment," the tactic is called.

Evidence of its spreading application showed up in several cases recently, including:

—Leaders of six Protestant denominations joined forces to urge two metal corporations to postpone a projected copper mining venture in Puerto Rico, saying it would endanger the natural environment and human well-being.

—A United Presbyterian committee presented resolutions to the Gulf Oil Corp. for consideration at its annual stockholders meeting, asking it to alter policies in the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

—The Episcopal (Anglican) Church called on the General Motors Corp. to cease manufacturing in South Africa, offering a resolution to that effect for a stockholders' meeting and saying South Africa's racial-separation policies would lead to turmoil and "destruction of foreign capital."

In each case, the denominations hold sizable blocs of stocks in the companies.

"Investments are the church's secret weapon," says the social action council of the United Church of Christ.

"In one religious community after another the question has been asked whether these investments are furthering, or working at cross-purposes to, the objectives to which the church is directed by its mission."

Traditionally, church investments have been handled for one old-time purpose—to bring in the best return. But new criteria have entered the picture, as expressed in 1970—approved United Church guidelines:

"Social values and social justice ought to be given consideration together with security and yield in the investment of funds."

Altogether, churches in the United States are estimated to own real estate and securities worth up to $160,000 million, as much as half of it in commercial stocks.

As use of these holdings to affect moral ends continues to grow, "it's bound to have an impact," says Frank P. White, director of resource studies for the National Council of Churches.

"The time was ripe for it," he said. "A tremendous amount of feeling has arisen in the country that moral pressure ought to be used on large institutions that have not been fully responsible to the needs of people."

Six denominations so far have been most active in the new approach—the Episcopal Church, United Methodist Church, United Presbyterian Church, American Baptists, United Church of Christ and the Lutheran Church in America.

MR. AND MRS. VAUGHAN RONALD BALAAM

Balaam – McKay

Rev. Roy Vessey officiated at the double-ring ceremony in College Hill United Church, Belleville, when Heather Diane McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. McKay of Belleville, became the bride of Vaughan Ronald Balaam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Balaam of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white crepe pantsuit trimmed with silver braid. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Miss Donna Tippett as maid of honor, who wore an avocado green pantsuit and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The bridesmaid Miss Jennifer Gainef of Toronto wore an ecru crepe pantsuit with gold braid and carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Henry Oudet of Toronto attended the bridegroom and the usher was Gary Balaam, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the bride's home following the ceremony when the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a pink brocade suit with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a black and white flowered pantsuit with red roses.

Leaving on a trip to Montreal and Quebec City, the bride donned a purple suede suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Baiaam will reside in Welland.

King George Students Hold Variety Show

King George School students played to a capacity crowd in a Variety Show given as the main feature of the monthly meeting of the Home and School Association in the school auditorium.

Following a brief business session of the Association, the K.G.S. band played the opening selection and the mood quickly changed as Mr. Bevan led the band into "Hogan's Heroes" march and two Glen Campbell numbers.

Announcer Paul Champagne announced a variety of acts, including an original skit, "The Hold-Up"; vocal duets by Vicki and Veronica Hewitt; and "Sales Resistance," an entertaining three-part "dialogue".

"Fashions' 71" featured midis, minis, and pant suits colorfully modelled by girls of Grades 7 and 8. Mrs. E. Waite co-ordinated this portion of the program.

The fancy twirling of Janice Barber picked up the tempo again, and the first half of the show closed with the blended voices of Wendy Elliott, Ronalyn Kavaner, Debbie Dunitz and Carol Morrice, accompanied by Miss Grant.

Intermission allowed stage managers Brian Gray and Joe Ross to make ready for the second half, while the audience mingled and relaxed.

The band's renditions of "Scarborough Fair" and "Windy" was a rousing opening for the second half.

Public speaking winner Veronica Groom entertained with "Angelina, the Italian Pussycat". Lori McEachern sang her own composition, "My Dream", and was then joined by Jane Burns to sing "Jean", accompanied by David MacKay.

"Venus" and "Share the Land" were played by Steve Eggleton and Leslie Little, followed by demonstrations of gymnastics learned in classes led by Mrs. Reid and Mr. Butcher.

The girls' quartet sang "Snow Bird" and "This Land is Your Land".

Closing the evening's entertainment were the Country Seekers, four girls and two boys, singing three country tunes.

Mr. Brooks, vice - principal, gave assistance to those taking part.

Mrs. Kavaner on behalf of the association expressed thanks and refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

THE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

"Have you remembrances, the glimmering arches that span the summits of the mind?" — Kahlil Gibran.

* * *

"Whenever we pass an empty place such as an abandoned building sometimes seen from 401 Highway while motoring by, I inevitably recall a certain red school house. It was not far from my grandparents' farmhouse where the teacher boarded," relates a family relative. "How I envied the pupils who attended it, set in the midst of a serene countryside, as compared to the massive, stone school house in the crowded city which I went to!

"However, when I was about ten, I had the good fortune to stay a month with my grandparents during my parents' winter holiday. A heavy snowstorm and I arrived the same day, and my grandmother took me with her when she went to call for the teacher at the school house — so that she wouldn't have to walk home in the storm, which it seemed had not deterred the Inspector. He had come and gone, leaving consternation in his wake.

"'Such awful answers!' I heard the pretty, young teacher (this was her first school and I had seen her once before) cry, sobbing, as my grandmother went inside. I did not follow, but waited outside the door, and I could not help but hear, 'I can still close my eyes and hear Sammy insist there IS many sheep in Australia; Bobby Huggins guess that "scorch" (a word he hadn't even had for spelling) meant something you drink. . .'

"I could hear my grandmother give a little giggle. 'Why, that's downright cute.

"But the teacher said it was next to a catastrophe. 'When the class read the selection,' she sobbed on, 'in the Reader about Laplanders (which describes how the harness is fastened about the reindeer's neck and attached to the tongue of the sled under its body), when asked to describe this, in his own words, Harry Smith said. "Sir, the reindeer has very tall horns and its tongue hangs down between its legs."'

"And there was fresh sobbing; the teacher declaring she might just as well sart packing her things and resign. Grandmother, however, shepherded her out finally as she soothingly said, as she smiled, 'That Inspector should accord you nothing but praise for giving him such a diverting day.' Needless to say, the teacher's fears and tears were all in vain. In spite of her youth and seeming inexperience, she was beloved by the entire community, which kept her as long as possible, for she left a year or so later to marry. She was one of those rare and fortunate persons — a born teacher.

"She had the innate gift of igniting a desire for knowledge within her pupils, from the fire of her own enthusiasm. As a visiting pupil for that entire magic month I felt it; sitting in various classes with different pupils for classmates; playing games at recess; taking part in spelling bees and arithmetic races; writing and enacting little plays. My love for nature study, agriculture, dared to blossom.

"That month ended with Christmas - time and transformed the simple little schoolhouse into a jewelled emblem of red, yellow and green lights; an embodiment of cherished friendship, fun, laughter and dreams. An illuminated vision that strangely, faithfully accompanied childhood, adolescence into adulthood with intangible meaning, and triggered an ambition which carried me on to a successful career.

"Many years passed before I saw the school-house again. It was in ruins.

"Shocked — though I recalled a poet reminds one shall not live in 'tombs made by the dead for the living' for 'that which is boundless in you abides in the mansion of the sky' — it was Joyce Kilmer's words that so hauntingly expressed the shattering impact of that first look, the:

'. . . look at the house, the tragic house
te house with nobody in it.'"

A Bellevignette: We are indebted to, and thank Donald W. Hillhouse, executive vice-president of Laura Seconrd Candy Shops who kindly informed us that, "Senator Frank O'Connor was the founder of Laura Secord. Mr. John Dennis Hayes, his brother - in law was brought into the business and was identified as secretary, and was responsible for production.

After Senator O'Connor's death in 1939, Mr. Hayes became president and served in this capacity until 1958. He was actually made president in 1938. I had the pleasure of working with Mr. Hayes and I know he had a particular affection for his home town, Belleville, which, as you may know he visited on a frequent basis.

It gives me particular pleasure to advise you we will be opening our first Laura Secord Shop in Belleville this summer in the Quinte Mall. We look forward to serving our many friends in the Belleville area."

Club Activities

THE WHITE CANE CLUB

The Belleville White Cane Club met at the Recreation Centre on Feb. 24. The meeting was opened in the regular manner with Mrs. Maude Rollins at the piano.

The president, Miss Pat Baverstock welcomed the members to the meeting. Mrs. Rollins introduced Donald Dawson and his son Clyde, who entertained the group. Clyde is a gifted accordion player and delighted everyone with his playing. Mr. Dawson, who played the guitar led in the singing of old favorites.

D. J. Gill thanked the Dawsons for a most enjoyable program.

The business meeting then followed. Mrs. Helen Wardhaugh, the secretary read the minutes of the December meeting. The January meeting was cancelled due to inclement weather. Mrs. Rollins read the correspondence.

The Friendship Group of Kingston expects to attend the White Cane Club's annual birthday party to be held at the Kiwanis Centre March 20. Plans are going forward for this event.

The national office of the Canadian Council of the Blind reports that excellent work is being done to aid the blind in developing countries. They requested continuing support for their mobile eye clinics.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind announced that the blind are now being offered instructions in sculpting and public speaking at Bakerwood.

Mrs. Rollins read an account of Garnet Budd's rabbit farm at Eldorado, Ont. Mr. Budd, who is blind operates the largest such business in Canada. His story is an inspiration to all blind persons.

Refreshments were served by the Kinettes. Mrs. Wardhaugh extended a hearty vote of thanks.

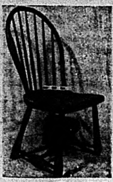
Windsor Style Chair Originated in 18th Century



Picture Credit: Dundurn Castle Restoration

One of the oldest and most comfortable is the windsor chair. The style originated in England in the 18th century and was developed and refined in the United States at the same time.

Traditionally the windsor chair was made for a rural market, not by a chair-maker, but by a wheel-wright. There is a close connection between early chair turnings and early spinning wheels. Undoubtedly early windsor chair makers made both.

In England chairs were made of yew wood for frames beech or ash for spirdles and elm for seats. On this side of the Atlantic the woods used were pine for seats, hickory or ash for spindles, maple and birch for legs, hickory, ash, oak or chestnut for hoops and maple, ash or oak for arms. No chairs were made of only one wood. Solid walnut and solid mahogany windsor chairs are impractical and invariably turn out to be promotional items of this century.

In North America, the legs of windsor chairs are set at a decided splay to the seat. In early chairs there is an H-stretcher arrangement like the chair shown, to brace the legs. Later chairs have dowells connecting the legs in a box arrangement, usually two at the front, two at the back and one each side.

The chair shown looks as though it might once have been a rocker. The turnings on the legs and occasional spindle have some connection with Georgian chairs made in imitation of bamboo, so are called bamboo turnings. The grooves would have once contained color, probably either yellow or gold.

Chairs of this type were as cheap as 10 cents apiece. By 1900 the simple windsor chair had advanced to 35 cents apiece, still cheaper than the then-stylish pressed - wood chair which started at 40 cents.

Windsor chairs were put together with skill. Each part contributed to the whole function of the chair. Split seats, which can give a painful pinch, are almost impossible to repair. Sprung hoops are equally beyond the skill of the average handyman. The majority of old windsor chairs are wired together, diagonally from front leg to back, and vertically from seat to arm.

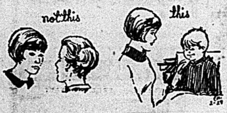
In the late 19th and early 20th century a great many "captain's" chairs were made with an anchor rod clenched through the arm and bolted to the seat. These chairs are not as comfortable, interesting, or as well made as early windsors.

The arrow back chairs, some times known as a Sheraton chair, is another form of windsor. This style continued to be made right into this century. The early version will have a handplaned and irregular underside. The factory version will be machine-planed flat or sometimes sawn flat.

Windsor chairs are cheap in Canada. Prices start as low as $18 and go up to $60. In the States prices start at $60 and go up to 10 times that amount.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Mother: "Dicky drive me wild when he's home with a fever. He's fussy if he gets up and plays, but he's so bored when he has to stay in bed."

Mother: "You can rest on the sofa here while I iron, and then you can lie on Daddy's bed and watch TV for awhile, I'll put your goldfish here so you can watch them."

A change of scenery and a different bed may help a convalescing child relax and stay fairly quiet. Even old books or toys may seem more interesting in a different room.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Fruit Adds Taste to Kitchen Recipe

By MARY MOORE

LETTER: I am an indifferent cook, and, to cover this mediocrity, I have devised a few tricks that fool my family and their teenage friends as to my culinary rank. Would these bits of "kitchen-ese" be of inspiration to cooks such as I, do you think? When I make an angel cake (I use a mix), I vary the flavor in these ways: I add a few drops of almond flavoring; or, I use juice (breakfast orange —even made from crystals, or canned applecot or orangecot) in place of water. When icing angel cake, or other plain cake I often use juice (orange or other, even apple juice) to get a bit of tang and less sweet taste. The orange juice also provides an attractive tint. For tinting, too, I usually use colored jelly powder. Sometimes I dissolve it in very little water; sometimes I add the package. I often use this in seven minute frosting for tint and cutting the sweetness. Here, raspberry, strawberry and orange are our favorites. I've produced some glorious effects when our children loved birthday cakes. Incidentally, I use the small thin candles and push them down into the icing through a colored candy with a hole (such as 5-flavored rolls). When I use packaged whipped topping on a square cake as dessert, I often add jelly powder for flavor and color. Last Sunday's dessert was a square of plain not-rich white cake topped with orange - jelly - powder - flavored whip which was itself garnished with drained sections of mandarin oranges (canned). My family is now small, and we are not heavy potato eaters. Often on Saturday, for supper, we have weiners and top-of-the-stove scalloped potatoes. I use potatoes and onions in the usual layers with salt, pepper and milk (not too much, and butter.) I bring this to a boil, reduce to simmer and continue cooking carefully. It will take 15 min. or perhaps less. Sometimes I brown the onions very lightly in butter before adding potatoes etc. for a different flavor. You can make a very small pan of the "scallops" quite easily, and there is no need to heat an oven. They taste good and they are fast. I do enjoy your column, Mrs. Moore; I try many of your recipes, and any day now, I'm going to consider myself a much improved cook. — Mrs. Rosa M.

ANSWER: Your modesty, vocabulary and ingeniousness were so encouraging I knew our readers would enjoy your letter. Thank you Rosa.

Young Lad Loses Interest in Clarinet

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 11 years old and live in White Plains. Last year I went crazy over the clarinet. The music teacher said I should use the school clarinet until she decided if I had any talent. After two months the teacher said I might turn out to be another Benny Goodman so I begged my mother to buy me a clarinet. She talked it over with my father and they agreed to rent one.

After three months of playing on a rented clarinet I begged my folks to buy me a really good instrument for my very own. On my birthday they bought me a brand new clarinet for $81.

Then summer came and I got interested in swimming and playing ball. I sort of forgot about the clarinet. We had several arguments about not practising. My teacher told Mom there was no sense in paying for lessons if I refused to practise. Now I don't care much for the clarinet and I want to take up drums. My mother is having fits. The teacher is on Mom's side because they already have a couple of good drummers in the school band and they need clarinets worse. Is this fair? — LINED UP AGAINST.

DEAR LINED: You bet it's fair. Your folks have invested $81 in a clarinet because you wanted it. Now you'd better get re-interested and live up to your end of the bargain. If your folk let you switch to drums you'll probably fall in love with the tuba.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister and her husband are in their late 60's but they enjoy good health. Each has a nice pension and they live comfortably.

Yesterday my sister told me they are taking Mamma into their home. Mamma is 87 and a semi-invalid. She lived by herself until two years ago when she fell and broke her hip. At that time we hired a woman to stay with her. Yesterday the woman gave two weeks' notice. What I'm writing about is so terrible I'm ashamed to tell you. My sister and her husband are going to charge Mamma $75 a month for room and board. Isn't this disgraceful? Please express yourself. — MEMPHIS.

DEAR MEM: Unless you've made an offer to take your mother for less, you are in no position to criticize.

* * *

DEAR MISS VINEGAR VEINS: (I made up this name for you because it fits.) What do you think of a teacher who gives kids so much homework that a 14-year-old has to stay up until three o'clock every single morning to finish.

Should I let my son stay up this late or should I insist that he go to bed at a decent hour whether he has finished his homework or not? Do you think it would help if I went to school and had a talk with his teacher? — MRS. K. W.

Rhythm of Reading Aloud Helps Youngsters

By DORIS CLARK

About one child in four has trouble learning to read. Of those who do learn to read easily, many never learn to read for pure personal pleasure. The ones who do find joy in reading have at their fingertips a wealth of knowledge to help them successfully through every phase of schooling.

How can you help your child to enjoy reading?

Read aloud to him, right from babyhood. Even before he understands everything you read, he'll delight in the rhythm and sound of the words. Later, when he can read well himself, he'll still want you to read to him.

Buy him good books of his own. Ask a children's librarian about books suitable to his age group. Get him his own library card as early as age three.

Show him early how to use a dictionary, an encyclopedia and the library's catalogue file cards. Set a good example by reading yourself, and discussing what you've read. — Dorothy Turcotte.

• • •

Dear Doris: You have helped me several times before and I want you to know how much I appreciate it.

I am an unwed mother with a three - year - old son. I will be getting married shortly. My future husband and I would like to have my son's name changed to ours. How do we do this? — Bride-To-Be.

Dear Bride - To - Be: The groom should legally adopt your son, and that will make their two surnames the same. This can be arranged through your official child care agency.

Your boy needs someone he feels he has a right to call "Father", and since your husband will be supporting your boy he has a right also to this status in the boy's life. Everybody gains.

The important thing is for the love to be great enough, all round, that this first mistake of yours will never be thrown up at you.

• • •

Dear Doris: How can I help my younger brother (31)? Our mother died of alcoholism several years ago and he drinks a great deal.

When we three sisters and two brothers get together, he will seldom come down from his room even to speak to them. I think he feels like a failure. He was a school drop-out.

He finds construction work for a few weeks at the most and then he is home again and spends just about all his time sitting alone in his room except when he has to eat. — Sister Sally.

Dear Sister: The first thing is to get your brother out of his alcoholic fog. Alcoholics Anonymous can help him do this — but he will probably balk at the idea. Talk to your A.A. branch for some ideas.

At this point the whole thing has become a vicious circle. His uselessness made him drink; his drinking makes him useless. Isolating himself in his own room makes the bottle easy to reach.

It might help to:

1. Up-grade his education with a correspondence course.

2. When he is not working at anything else, give him work he simply must be responsible for around the house.

3. Make it clear as crystal that if he wants to eat he will have to carry his weight.

Be gentle but firm. He has to know he has your love, but not your foolish indulgence. You want to be proud of him and so you expect great things of him.

Development Corporation Attacked by Both Left and Right

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition pincer attack on the proposed Canada Development Corp. rumbled on in the Commons Friday, with attacks from the left on its business bias and from the right on predicted government interference in the firm.

David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the CDC should be a Crown corporation, directed by the government, that would hand over profits to the Canadian public.

Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer) urged the government to "get out of the way" and let experienced businessmen run the corporation without political interference.

The CDC bill, now in second-reading debate, would be a vehicle for investment in Canadian industry by both government and private shareholders.

Starting with government funds, it would buy several Crown corporations and eventually issue shares to the investing public.

Eventually, CDC assets would be $2 billion, with the government owing one-eighth of the corporation.

It could invest in existing businesses and help start new ones.

Mr. Orlikow said the stock-issuing company would only benefit Canadians rich enough to buy shares.

Instead, it should be fully owned by the taxpayers through the government, and they should reap the profits.

He urged the government to require existing financial institutions —banks, insurance companies, mutual funds and the like—to invest in the CDC in amounts related to the funds they have invested in private business.

Mr. Thompson said the government had already discouraged domestic investment with its tax laws, and should stay clear of the operations of the CDC.

CDC headquarters should be located as far as possible from Ottawa and government influence and should be run by successful businessmen.

He called on the government to withdraw—at least for the moment its proposal to introduce a capital gains tax.

The tax, proposed in the government's white paper on taxation, would only continue to discourage investment by Canadians, the Alberta MP said.

John Burton (NDP—Regina East) said that private enterprise had already sold out the Canadian economy to "make a fast buck."

The government bill offered no guarantee that the CDC would stem the sell-out.

The CDC should be aimed at eliminating regional disparities.

Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) said the CDC "has no significance whatever."

It held out no solution to the basic problems facing Canada.

Since it was intended to invest in areas "where the profit potential is extremely high," it would do nothing to develop the West and the Maritimes.

Earlier in the Commons, Defence Minister Donald Macdonald said the government's policy of stimulating a higher percentage of French-speaking officers and men in the armed forces would not be achieved by freezing recruitment among English-speaking Canadians.

Mr. Macdonald said the language requirements for promotion would not discriminate against English-speaking men in the forces.

The rules applied to both groups and merely imposed the language requirements on English-speaking men that had always been in force for French-speaking men.

Prime Minister Trudeau said the language proportions set for the armed forces were not intended to apply to other government departments.

If other requirements of other departments changed, they would be announced in the House.

Waffle Group Is Attacked at NDP Gathering

TORONTO (CP) — Disapproval of the Waffle group, which wants self-determination for Quebec, was voiced Friday night when the five candidates seeking the leadership of the federal New Democratic Party spoke at an all-candidates' meeting.

At one point the Waffle group was called "an organization within an organization" which "will deter us from our objective as a party."

Leadership of the party is up for grabs when T. C. Douglas retires in April.

One candidate, David Lewis, member of Parliament for York South and deputy leader of the party, expressed disagreement with Waffle candidate James Laxer, a Queen's University professor, on two issues before an audience of about 450.

However, all the candidates, including Edward Broadbent, member of Parliament for Oshawa-Whitby, Frank Howard, MP for Skeena and John Harney, former secretary of the Ontario NDP, made frequent references to the need for party solidarity in suporting policy proposals to be adopted at the April leadership convention in Ottawa.

Mr. Laxer, who said Friday he expects 25 per cent of the votes on the first ballot at the leadership convention, criticized "anti-labor legislation" in Canada and said there are moves afoot both in Canada and the U.S. to dissolve the auto pact between the two countries which "would result in the loss of thousands of jobs."

The Waffle candidate also reiterated his stand on self-determination for Quebec in deciding whether or not to sever economic and political ties with English-speaking Canada.

Mr. Broadbent, who also expressed disfavor with the Waffle proosal for Quebec self-determination, said:

"A separated Canada would mean American capital could divide and rule. And a divided Canada would set back socialism perhaps 30 years in this country."

If Quebec wishes to express its self-determination, he said, the party could not "ignore reality" by condemning Quebec, but should work out an alternative favorable to the whole of Canada.

Snowmobiles Break Down in Tests

OTTAWA (CP) — Eleven different makes of 25-horsepower snowmobiles all broke down in one way or another during six weeks of federal tests here.

Hugh Young, federal automotive safety engineering chief, predicted that manufacturers may be required to produce quieter machines with more reliable motors and electrical equipment as a result of the tests. Space for safety kits might also be required.

"We had to add a number of safety features, notably engine shielding, before the test drivers would even get on them," he told a press briefing.

Six drivers from a private engineering firm began carrying out the tests in January. A report is expected this spring but the results may not be reflected in legislation until 1973, because manufacturers gear up assembly lines 18 months ahead.

"They're pretty unreliable," Mr. Young said of the machines used in the test. It was hoped the tests would help eliminate individual bad features and incorporate in all machines individual good features.

The tests were carried out during Ottawa's snowiest winter in a sand pit. One machine was so noisy drivers tried to avoid it, Mr. Young said. It was tested last.

The suspension system of another was wrecked in a mild test jump. Braking tests on a third had to be stopped when the steering failed.

Object of the tests was "to ensure that snowmobiles don't have built-in hazards when they reach the dealer."

Manufacturers will have to meet a number of federal standards for machines made after April 1, 1971. More regulations are expected in 1973, Mr. Young said.

He added that the manufacturers are concerned about safety and receptive to suggestions.

"They are much more co-operative than their automotive counter-parts in Detroit."

If Pay Is Below Welfare

Can Job Offer Be 'Suitable'?

TORONTO (CP) — A 32-year-old father of three said Friday he has been denied full welfare benefits because he refused a job that pays $2 a month less than welfare.

John Killen appealed the decision at a closed welfare review board Friday.

He argues that the $2.30 an hour assembly line job he refused cannot be considered "suitable employment" since after deductions it would pay $301 a month compared to the $303 he now gets in welfare.

Mr. Killen said when he told his welfare worker he didn't want the job he was advised he would be cut off welfare.

Banking Issues Highlight Week

By PETER LEICHNITZ

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Banking issues highlighted an otherwise-dull week of trading on Canadian stock markets.

A bank-rate reduction by the Bank of Canada sparked a round of prime-rate reductions by the five major Canadian chartered banks.

The banks Wednesday lowered their prime rate, the interest they charge their best customers, to 6½ per cent from seven per cent.

At Toronto, the banking sector of the industrial index jumped more than 5½ points, closing at 219.73.

Prices were sharply lower Monday with the Toronto industrial index, a broad indicator of market activity, posting the sharpest decline since Dec. 14, 1970.

Prices advanced fractionally Tuesday in what one market observer termed "bargain buying."

Wednesday's news of further interest-rate reductions sent prices higher for the remainder of the week.

The Toronto industrial index rose .99 on the week, closing at 177.39.

At New York, Wall Street posted a fractional advance.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 blue-chip issues advanced .27, closing Friday at 878.83. Trading was well below the 105.70 million shares which set a record earlier in the month.

Volume at Toronto was 11,966,996 shares, up from 11,548,000 the previous week.

At Montreal, the Montreal and Canadian exchange's composite index rose .38 to 174.49 during the week.

Combined volume was 6.65 million shares, compared with 5.07 million last week.

Speculative buying continued in western oil issues. Stocks which have an interest in the Panarctic evelopment were generally higher. News of an oil discovery in the Northwest Territories helped push prices higher.

The Toronto western-oil index climbed 3.25 points, closing at 208.31.

Heavy buying and rising prices helped push gold issues fractionally higher during the week.

At Toronto, the gold index rose .84 to 182.70.

The Toronto base-metal index dropped .03 points to close at 92.39.

Pardon Me, Claude!

NHL Old-Timer Hugh Bolton calmly cruises in on Belleville all-star goalie Claude Carr to score in the second period of Friday night's exhibition game at the Memorial Arena. The Toronto-based group of former National Hockey League players ran away with a 12-6 win but left behind some $500 to benefit city OMHA and junior B entries.

NHL Old-Timers Like Teachers Dazzling Younger City Team

By MAURICE SWITZER

Sports Editor

All the minor hockey coaches in Belleville couldn't have provided youngsters with better shinny instruction than was available at last night's National Hockey League Old-Timers exhibition in the city.

A crowd of some 1,200 — many of them members of Belleville's minor hockey system — were dazzled by the deftness of the maturing Old-Timers as they trounced a local 'all-star" contingent 12-6.

The Old-Timers, who ranged in age from Pete Conacher's 38 to Bob Goldham's 48, drew 'oohs' and 'ahs' from the appreciative crowd with slick pass work that always seemed to have them a step ahead of their local opponents, despite the toll decade - long retirements had taken on their skating legs.

The visitors led 3-2 after the opening 20 minutes, scored three unanswered second-period goals, and outscored the Belleville lineup 6-4 in the final period.

Harry Pidherny scored three times for the Old-Timers, with two goals each to crowd-pleaser Sid Smith, clownish Jackie Hamilton and Bob Robertson. Former Belleville McFarland Pete Conacher, Ron Hurst, and ex-Leaf Hugh Bolton got the others.

Scoring for the city not-so-old timers were midget recruits Brian Cousins, Andy Ricketts, and Rob Foster, and Quinte Hockey League "ringer" Elmer Cain, none of whom were born when Bob Goldham broke into pro hockey.

The sixth Belleville goal was scored by Gordie Bell, with an assist from the entire Old-Timer's team. In the game's final minute, Bell broke through the Old-Timers' defence with all the fleet-footedness of any 50-year-old ex-goalkeeper and managed to raise the puck over portly Jackie Hamilton's nonchalantly - placed stick.

Actually, that was one of the few comic-relief aspects of the game. Only after they had racked up an 11-3 lead by the middle of the third period did the Old-Timers let up on their younger challengers.

Then Hamilton, a former Maple Leaf whose physique testifies to comfortable retirement years, donned a wig, and baffled the Bellevillians by stickhandling through their entire ranks — at least until they realized he had a puck attached to his stick with an elastic band!

The game's objective was also no joke — to raise funds for the costly chore of operating city junior B and OMHA all-star entries. Although last night's estimated 1,200 crowd fell short of expectations, the groups should end up sharing in the neighborhood of $500.

In their three-year history, the Toronto-based Old-Timers have helped raise $300,000 for assorted worthy causes.

Among the most proficient crowd-pleasers were Goldham, also familiar as a commentator on CBC television's "Hockey Night in Canada", and Sid Smith, who played for Whitby Dunlops in some rousing Memorial Arena contests against the McFarlands after his standout days with the Leafs.

HARRY PIDHERNY

Former "Macs" in the Belleville lineup were Gordie Bell, Floyd Crawford, Jean Paul Lamirande, Eddie Marineau, and Don "Turk" Barclay, who split goaltending chores with Quinte Leaguer Claude Carr.

Barclay and Old-Timer Danny Lewicki were involved in the game's only out-of-character episode. Each drew genuine two-minute slashing penalties in the first period and former Ranger-Leaf Lewicki never returned to action for the remainder of the game.

Ex - Mac Fiori Goegan coached the hometowners.

Old-Timer Pete Conacher was torn between two loyalties, having played with Belleville's victorious 1959 World Hockey Champions.

Both sides attended post-game reception at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Pinnacle St.

Meagher Injury Blow To Playoff-bound Fairways

Belleville Fairways' centre strength took a tumble Friday night, despite the fact the team wasn't even on the ice.

Rick Meagher, a standout performer with the Western Tire juveniles crashed into a goalpost in Belleville's 3-2 playoff loss to Trenton Friday night.

The pocket-size pivot was slated to centre brother Terry and left winger Dave Smith when the Junior B's opened their playoff series with the Peterborough Lions today but will miss the contest after suffering a badly bruised side in the collision.

Meagher may be back in action for Sunday's 8 p.m. game in Belleville depending upon how serious the injury turns out to be.

The Fairways will have the services of wingers Bill Bunnett and Tim Yohn, however, in addition to their regular lineup.

Bunnett, who has the size to handle the rough going, came up with a strong checking performance in a 6-4 loss to the Lions the last time the teams met, while Yohn turned in several outstanding Junior B performances early in the play for the Blake Kerr midget all-stars.

RICK MEAGHER

Fairway coach Floyd Crawford was specific as to what he felt was required to beat the runaway league pennant winners. "Our team had their fun the last three or four games playing wide open hockey, but there's no way that it will work against a team like Peterborough. We have to have the wingers coming back if we're going to win."

Crawford is hoping for a big series from team captain John Mulvihill. "He's unquestionably our best offensive defenceman and if he comes up with the kind of defensive effort that he showed in the last game he could be the key to our defence," said Crawford of the second year rearguard.

All students presenting their secondary school council cards will be admitted for 50 cents to Sunday night's game when the teams square off in the second game of the series.

Juves Game But Lame

TRENTON — The Western Tire Juveniles ran out of patches last night, dropping a 3-2 decision to Trenton to eliminate them from the best-of-five OMHA play-down series in four games

Playing with a patchwork lineup due to the loss of high scoring winger Mike Goegan who has been hospitalized with a groin injury and defenceman Chuck Powell, who was working.

Another Belleville player out of action for the contest was winger Norm Pope, who sustained an ankle injury in the third game of the series.

Despite the player shortage, the Belleville all-stars carried a 2-1 lead into the final 10 minutes of the game when the injury jinx struck again.

Speedy centre Rick Meagher crashed full tilt into a Trenton goalpost and had to be helped off the ice.

The Junior Ranks juveniles were quick to take advantage of the loss, popping in a pair of goals to win the game and series.

A crowd of 1,000 fans, largest minor hockey turnout of the year in Trenton were on hand to witness the contest.

Terry Pope and Fred Stickle counted the Belleville goals, while Mike Walt, Sandy McDonald and Ray Dixon scored for the winners.

Team Scoring Title Only Kinsmen Concern

About the only competition encountered by the Belleville Kinsmen last night was the battle for team scoring honors as the bantam all-stars buried Brighton 16-2 in an exhibition bout.

Rick Barbeau, Mike Crawford, Bruce Sutherland, Peter Crawford and Steve Kirby all wore the hat with three-goal efforts. Eric Powell rounded out the Kinsmen scoring.

Point Anne Steps Up

The Point Anne midget all-stars took a giant step down the OMHA 'E' playdown trail by eliminating Colborne from their best-of-five series.

Point Anne came up with a 4-2 victory last night to give them a record of three wins and one tie in five games against Colborne.

Fournier, Bourgeau, Chris Evans and Jim Richardson scored for the winners, who meet Warsaw next Sunday in the opening game of their best-of-three series.

Aces Bombard Terriers, Still Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltending made the difference as Orillia Terriers and Barrie Flyers won the opening games of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A quarter-final series.

At Barrie, Oakville Oaks outshot the Flyers 25-24 but the goaltending of Ken Payne helped the home club to a lopsided 6-1 win.

Kingston Aces outshot the Terriers 45-31, and 22-8 in the third period, but Orillia held on at home for a 7-3 victory behind the goaltending of Gerry McNamara and Sonny Pennington.

The eight-team group's third playoff series opens tonight at Galt, when first-place Hornets entertain fourth-place Belleville Mo-Hawks in the opening game of their best-of-seven semi-final series.

On Sunday, Orillia plays host to Kingston again, Barrie visits Oakville and Galt is at Belleville.

Friday night Orillia scored three times in the first period and made it 7-0 in the second, but the Aces came back with three goals in the last period.

The Terriers, who finished second this year, finished first last year and represented Eastern Canada in the Allan Cup final.

Mike Draper, Grant Moore, Tom McCarthy, Clare Alexander, Bob Cunningham, Paul Laurent and Gary Milroy scored for Orillia. John Mercer scored twice and Tom Thurlby once for Kingston.

The Terriers had to replace McNamara with Pennington when he suffered a muscle spasm in the third period

At Barrie, Payne set up the first Flyer goal himself, then blanked the Oaks in the last two periods after allowing a first-period goal by Dunc McDonald.

Connie Mandala, Pete Stoutenburg, Mike Dubeau, John Weeks, Corby Adams and Pete Panagabko scored for the third-place Flyers before 1,322 spectators.

A total of 55 minutes in penalties were assessed in the tight-checking game, including a 10-minute misconduct to Oakville's Charlie Cipolla and a major to Barrie's Rick McClocklin.

Sets Up All Three

Mikita Content to Fill Playmaker Role

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Names such as Tony and Phil Eposito, Bobby and Dennis Hull and Bobby Orr have been crowding that of Stan Mikita for attention in the National Hockey League but that hasn't deterred the hard-working Chicago Black Hawks centre.

Instead of pressing for goals that might remind fans he swept the Art Ross, Hart and Lady Byng trophies in 1967 and 1968, Mikita toils in the background—as he did Friday night in setting up all three Chicago goals in a 3-1 victory over California Golden Seals.

The 30-year-old veteran of 12 seasons with the Hawks has scored only 17 goals so far this season, compared to the 40, 30 and 39 he collected in his three previous campaigns, but his three assists Friday gave him a total of 42, matching the pace of most of his seasons.

His top output was 67 assists in the 1968-69 season when Phil Eposito of Boston Bruins surpassed him with a record 126 points and took the Art Ross Trophy as leading scorer and the Hart as most valuable player.

Mikita's assists in the only game played Friday all came on power plays. Dennis Hull got two of the goals, his 32nd and 33rd of the season, and the other went to Cliff Koroll.

STAN MIKITA

Tommy Williams, traded earlier this week from Minnesota North Stars, scored the California goal.

The 10,420 fans at Oakland saw several fights and Mikita collected three minors in the rough contest.

Referee Wally Harris whistled a total of 124 minutes in penalties.

Keith Magnuson, Chicago's hard-rock defenceman, took a major and misconduct after a third-period scrap with California's Dennis Hextall who also sat out a fighting major.

Tony Esposito, Chicago's all-star goalie, had a relatively easy night, stopping only 20 shots, while the Hawks fired 33 at California's Gary Smith.

The win moved the Hawks back to an 18-point lead over second-place St. Louis Blues in the West Division while the Seals absorbed their 42nd loss in 62 games to stay deep in the cellar.

The Hawks continue their West Coast tour with a game tonight against the Kings at Los Angeles. Elsewhere, St. Louis meets the Canadiens at Montreal, Buffalo Sabres play the Maple Leafs at Toronto, New York Rangers take on the Penguins in Pittsburgh, Detroit Red Wings are at Minnesota and Vancouver Canucks visit Philadelphia Flyers.

Sunday, Toronto is at Boston, Vancouver at New York, Pittsburgh at Detroit, Minnesota at Buffalo and Los Angeles at Oakland.

Karen Clings to Slim Gold Chance

LYON, France (CP) — Karen Magnussen, vowing that "it's not over until it's all finished," holds Canada's last chance for a medal in the world figure skating championships as the women's singles wind up tonight.

Miss Magnussen, 18-year-old blonde from Vancouver, holds down fourth place going into tonight's free-skating competition—her specialty—and hopes to move up to at least third place for a bronze medal.

Trixi Schuba of Austria has a solid first-place lead, built up in the school or compulsory figures, with Julie Lynn Holmes of the United States second and Rita Trapanese of Italy third.

Miss Schuba has 1,263 points, Miss Holmes 1,173.3 and Miss Trapanese 1,123.6. Miss Magnussen has 1,124.2 judging points, slightly ahead of the Italian girl but trails Miss Tranpanese by 1.5 ordinals or placement points which count more in tight situations.

With fewer ordinals counting for a better placing, Miss Schuba had nine; Miss Holmes 19.5, Miss Traianese 30.5 and Miss Magnussen 32.

Miss Magnussen, who has vowed to "keep fighting," is expected to pick up points in the free skating tonight and perhaps pass the Italian girl.

Miss Magnussen vaulted from world championships at Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, due to her free-skating performance on the last day, and missed a bronze medal by only a few points.

Karen does triple jumps and spins with ease in her free-skating performances and puts on a spectacular series of jumps, pirouettes and intricate footwork to gain points at Ljubljana.

Linda Brauchmann, Miss Magnussen's coach, says her protege is "doing well" while another Canadian entrant, Ruth Hutchinson of Vancouver, says "I am very hopeful for Karen."

Miss Hutchinson, a freshman performer in this year's event, is in 17th position. Diane Hall of Toronto, another rookie, is in 19th spot among 22 contestants.

Meanwhile, Ludmila Pachamova and Alexander Groshkov of the Soviet Union Friday night won their second straight dance championship.

Angelika and Erich Buck of West Germany were second and Judy Schwomeyer and Jim Sladky of the U.S. third.

Louise Lind and Barry Soper of Vancover were in 11th place.

Miss Pachamova and Groshkov had 515.8 judging points and 16 place points. The Bucks had 512.7 and 21 while the Americans received 514.5 and 20.

The Vancouver pair had 457.1 and 103.

The German pair finished in second place although they had fewer judging points and more place points than the Americans. However, the Russian judge had placed the Americans in fourth place while the West Germans had no placing lower than third.

Bucks Good Bet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee Bucks, with one title under their belt, are shooting for another as the end of the National Basketball Association season approaches.

They scored their 14th victory in a row and their 59th in 70 games Friday night, pounding Cincinnati Royals 135-111. In other NBA action Baltimore Bullets ripped Portland Trail Blazers 114-97, Boston Celtics clipped Atlanta Hawks 136-129 in overtime, Phoenix Suns flipped Philadelphia '76ers 108-94, Detroit Pistons nipped Buffalo Braves 127-122 in overtime and Los Angeles Lakers beat Seattle SuperSonics 145-121.

By averting defeat the rest of the way, or even taking one game on the chin, Milwaukee would crack the mark of 13 setbacks set by Philadelphia in the 1966-67 season.

And by doing so the Bucks would automatically break another record the '76ers recorded that season—68 triumphs, the most in the league's history.

Milwaukee had the game all but locked up after just one period against the Royals, 17 of 27 first-period shots for a 43-29 lead.

Lew Alcindor, Bob Dandridge and Jon McGlocklin had 24 points each for Milwaukee and Charlie Paulik had 24 for the Royals.

Nicklaus Laughs At Suggestion He's Over Hill

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — On the doorstep of golf's first double grand slam, Jack Nicklaus scoffs at claims he's over the hill at 31.

"My peak's ahead," said Nicklaus. "I'm as hungry for my next major championship as I was for my first."

Nicklaus fired his second straight three-under-par 69 Friday and led the 53rd Professional Golfers' Association Championship by two strokes with 36 holes to go.

Nicklaus has already won three Masters titles, two U.S. and two British Open titles and the 1963 PGA championship. Another triumph in the PGA would top off the game's first double slam—not bad for a fellow Sam Snead said would "burn himself out at an early age."

Two shots behind Nicklaus at the PGA's 36-hole mark was Texan Miller Barber, who shot 68 Friday for a 140 total on the 7,096-yard PGA National Club course.

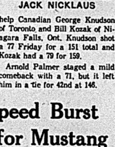
Gibby Gilbert, from nearby Hollywood, Fla., shot the tournament's lowest round with 67 to move three under par at 143.

Bob Murphy birdied the first five holes Friday before settling down en route to a 68 that left the former U.S. amateur king at 142, four behind the Nicklaus pace.

Tied with Murphy at 142 were Larry Ziegler, Tom Weiskopf, Bob Lunn, Australian Bruce Devlin, unknown club pro Gene Borek of East Norwich, N.Y., and Lionel Hebert.

Hebert's mother died Friday in Lafayette, La., and the 43-year-old pro withdrew. Oddly, the withdrawal changed the 36-hole cutoff figure to five-over-par 149. Had Hebert been able to stay, the slice would have been at 148.

The lower cut still failed to help Canadian George Knudson of Toronto and Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls, Ont. Knudson shot a 77 Friday for a 151 total and Kozak had a 79 for 159.



JACK NICKLAUS

Arnold Palmer staged a mild comeback with a 71, but it left him in a tie for 42nd at 146.

Spinnaker Speed Burst Not Enough for Mustang

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Stormy Petrel of Australia won the second race of the yachting classic, the One-Ton Cup here today, with the Canadian entry, Mustang, skippered by John Beatson of Toronto, in eighth place. Stormy Petrel also took the earlier first race.

Beatson made a sensational break early in the race but later faded in the 17-yacht field to finish in the same spot as in the first race.

The second race, a 150-mile offshore event, lasted more than a day. After the first leg, Mustang showed a remarkable burst of speed on a long spinnaker reach and rounded the next buoy in second place after sailing through the fleet.

But the yacht then burst her No. 2 genoa in changing sails and was handicapped through lack of this sail in later stages.

However she coped well with frequent wind changes to hold her position in the later stages which saw many upsets.

Beatson told an interviewer that Mustang, a Canadian-designed boat chartered from a New Zealander, was performing well in reaches with the wind but still not doing well enough when plugging into the wind. He said he hoped to take the boat out for a further trial Sunday.

The third race of the five-race series will be the 26-mile Olympic course event Monday.

Duguid Enjoys Advantage of Stand-pat Rink

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Don Duguid rink from Winnipeg faces a lot of experienced competition when it defends its Canadian men's curling title next week at Quebec City.

But then Duguid, 35, also defending world champion, is not exactly a newcomer to the national finals.

Duguid had played with Manitoba titlists in 1957 and 1965 before he took his own rink into last year's championship in Winnipeg.

His rink is unchanged with Bryan Wood, 26, returning at lead, Jim Pettapiece, 27, second and Rod Hunter, 27 third.

Among the other provincial finalists they face, the Saskatchewan rink ranks as the most experienced. Skip Bob Pickering, 38, from Avonlea has been to the national final six times and his vice-skip, Garnet Campbell, 44, is returning for a record 10th appearance.

Pickering, Campbell and second Jack Keys, 43, have been together 11 years and lead Gary Ford, 31, joined the team five years ago.

Despite all that experience, Duguid won his 1970 title with a last-rock takeout against the Saskatchewan foursome.

Returning after a 12-year absence as the Alberta contender is 44-year-old Matt Baldwin of Edmonton who has been in the final four times and won three.

Baldwin's new rink consists of lead Reg Van Wassenhove, 39, second Rick Cust, 30, and third Tom Kroeger, 27.

Duke Smale of Prince George, B.C., returns with the same rink he skipped in 1969.

Smale, 30, was runner-up to Alberta's Ron Northcott who took the 1969 title by going through the 11-rink round-robin tournament undefeated.

With Smale are lead Bob McDonald, 29, Pat Carr, 38 and Pete Sherba, 35.

Bob Cole, 36, from St. John's is the new Newfoundland skip and his vice-skip is Les Bowering who guided that province's entry to a 4-6 won-lost record in last year's final.

Lead Alex Andrews, 33 and second Ken Ellis, 32, both have been in national action in three previous years.

Frank Hoar, a 50-year-old Truro curler, has been in two national finals as a second on the Nova Scotia entry and this year leads his own rink of Don Fulton, 49, John Sanford, 48, and Doug Carter, 37.

Carter, the vice skip, joined Hoar two years ago, and Sanford has been with him for 10 years.

Representing New Brunswick are skip Paul Bordage, 29, from Moncton, with Murray Leger, 37, Dale Somers, 35, and Art Dillard, 28. Bordage, Dillard and Somers have been curling together for six years while Leger moved into their lead spot three years ago.

Kip Ready, a 37-year-old Charlottetown auditor, skips the Prince Edward Island entry with Norm MacNeill, 44, Dave Kassner, 21, and Bill MacGregor, 40.

Quebec has never won a national men's championship and this year the host province will be pinning its hopes on 38-year-old Bill Ott of Montreal whose rink was put together this season.

Ott's lead is John Walling, 40, of Quebec City. Throwing second rock is Herb Miyashita, 32, and third is Tom Fisher, 31.

The youngest rink in the competition starting Monday is Ontario's entry skiped by 24-year-old Bob Charlebois of Toronto. With him are Jim McGrath, 24, Ray Lilly, 27, and Rich Palmer, 28. Palmer has seen national action with the 1963 and 1964 Ontario entries.

Bill Tewas, a 37-year-old Thunder Bay accountant, skips a Northern Ontario entry which he formed this season. His lead is Eric Knudsen, 34, with second Jim Sargent, 32, and brother Sandy Sargent, 29.

Duguid will be aiming for Manitoba's 18th title in the national event which has been played every year since 1927 with the exception of the war years 1943-45.

Alberta has won 11 titles, Saskatchewan five, Ontario three, Nova Scotia and British Columbia two each and Northern Ontario one.

Moose Jaw Sharpshooters Burn North Ontario Twice

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Sharp-shooting Greg Montgomery and his Moose Jaw rink burned Northern Ontario for the second time in five days Friday, winning the 1971 Canadian schoolboy curling title with a no-contest 11-5 playoff victory before 700 spectators.

It was Northern Ontario's inability to cope with the powerful Saskatchewan foursome that cost the easterners the championship. Skip Doug Smith and his Thunder Bay rink lost its only game in the 11-rink, round-robin tournament to Montgomery in the fourth round.

Saskatchewan looked like a shoo-in in the five-day event until it ran into pesky Manitoba in the 10th round Friday. Montgomery lost a tight 7-6 decision and his unbeaten record, forcing the playoff.

Montgomery, with his brother Jeff at second, third Don Despins, and lead Rocky Verboom, trailed 4-3 in the sudden-death final going into the sixth end, but Smith came up light on an attempted freeze and Saskatchewan blew the game wide open.

Saskatchewan was lying three as Smith went to the hack for his first shot. He drew into the eight-foot to lie one, which Greg Montgomery then took out to lie four.

After Smith missed his last shot, Montgomery drew to the four-foot to count five.

In the seventh, Smith missed a takeout with his last rock and Saskatchewan stole one.

The Thunder Bay boys bounced back with one in the eighth, Saskatchewan took one in the ninth, and after the leads threw in the 10th, Northern Ontario conceded.

Montgomery's rink scored over 80 per cent, with Greg himself putting forth an almost flawless performance, placing stones at will.

Saskatchewan Girls Extend Title String

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Canadian women's curling championship went to Saskatchewan for the third successive year Friday when Vera Pezer's rink defeated Alberta 9-2 in a playoff.

Saskatchewan was tied for third place with Prince Edward Island and British Columbia after the eighth round Thursday with 5-3 records. Alberta led 6-2.

Then Nicole Janelle's Quebec rink defeated Kay Baldwin's Edmonton team in the ninth and last scheduled round to create a three way tie.

"I think Thursday night encouraged us the most," Miss Pezer said. "We knew we still had a mathematical possibility but that Quebec win gave us our real second chance."

Saskatchewan defeated Ina Hansen's British Columbia rink 10-7 with an extra end in the first playoff game Friday.

"We put the pressure on them right away" Miss Pezer said of the final round with Alberta. "It was our best-played round of the series."

Saskatchewan scored two in the fourth, one in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in each of the final ends.

Mrs. Baldwin's team scored in the third and fifth ends.

"We weren't as disappointed as we were Thursday by the loss to Quebec," the Alberta skip said.

Ontario skipped by Helen Sillman, Mabel Mitchell's Manitoba rink, Prince Edward Island skipped by Marie Toole and Quebec finished with 5-4 records.

PEI Perscription Long Time Coming

HALIFAX (CP) — Charlottetown skip Dr. Wendell MacDonald led his Prince Edward Island rink to the Canadian seniors curling championship Friday night, reaching a goal he has sought for seven years.

A perfect draw shot through a port of less than two feet provided the winning margin. Lying one and with the last rock coming home, the 62-year-old Charlottetown radiologist drew right to the button for two and a 10-9 victory over Burley Townsend's Saskatchewan rink in a sudden-death final.

MacDonald said following the 11-team bonspiel:

"I only come here for the people I meet. You can't eat trophies."

His rink of lead Dan O'Rourke, second Doug George and third John Squarebriggs finished the week with nine wins and two losses.

Saskatchewan had eight wins and three losses, including the playoff.

P.E.I. threw five takeout attempts right through the house in the second end of the playoff. Saskatchewan picked up five in the end and a lead that thev held right to the eighth end.

"I switched to a lighter game after they got the five in the second," MacDonald said. "I had to make them hit us."

Which Day Is Best?

☐ MONDAY ☐ THURSDAY
☐ TUESDAY ☐ FRIDAY
☐ WEDNES. ☐ SATURDAY

Advertisers frequently ask this question. Fortunately, there is no best day to advertise. Each day new wants arise, bringing new readers as old ones satisfy their wants. We recommend that you start your ad tomorrow and cancel it when you get results. After many years of experience with millions of want ads, we know tomorrow is the best day to start your ad and every day is the best day to advertise in The Intelligencer want ad leader.

BROKEN WINDOW?
. . . replace it with
PENNVERNON
Window Glass

Here's Why: Pennvernon is unusually free from distorting defects for a sheet glass . . . offers good, clear surface on both sides of the sheet. And though it is superior quality, it costs you no more than ordinary glass. Ask for Pennvernon. And look for the Pennvernon label.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

New Term Needed For 'Sudden-death'

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I suppose you'll consider this an off-beat question for a medical column, but what do you think of the use of the term "sudden-death" by sports announcers? It happens to turn my stomach. So that's a medical problem!

Comment: You may be unduly sensitive, but you have company — myself. Somewhere, some time, someone innocently suggested the term "sudden-death" to describe the action which follows a tie-score in football or golf.

As a doctor, sudden - death conjures up all the human beings I have seen in a lifetime of practice who actually met sudden death. I suppose I'm sort of a sissy even to agree with you, Mr. A., nevertheless, the careless (almost happy) usage of this term — which connotes life's greatest tragedy — describing a mere football game or golf match, seems a phony way to skirt the implications of death, simply to dramatize a sports event.

In hockey they call it overtime. Likewise, in basketball. In baseball, simply an extra-inning game. Why try to dramatize a football game or golf match?

As an excited observer I become less interested in the outcome whenever I hear an announcer joyfully say: "Well, it looks like we're going on to sudden-death!" (I wonder how that affects the sick and the dying.)

While I'm in the mood for editorializing and lambasting, I'll add another pet peeve. Whenever I hear a doctor say to an elderly patient: "What do you expect at your age?" (when the patient complains of discomfort) I feel like bopping my colleague on the head. A 70- or 80-year-old who doesn't feel well, deserves as much sympathy, understanding and care as the younger patients. Why blame it on age and let it go at that?

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have been nursing my first baby. He is now 7 months old. I used to have lots of energy, but lately I am very tired and despressed because it's an effort to take care of him and the house. Do you think it is the nursing that is the cause? — Mrs. F.

Comment: Usually, it is the other way around. Nursing seems to give mothers satisfaction and an abundance of energy. I think you will have to look elsewhere for the cause.

How is your diet? Have you checked with your doctor recently? It's possible you may be anemic. This is a common cause of fatigue.

As for your depression, this may be due to tiredness day after day. Or due to your new responsibilities in taking care of a first-born. Do you and your husband get out often enough to relieve your tensions? Often a baby-sitter is the answer to fatigue and depression.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For February 28

Your birthday today: Striving for new skills, better informa-year. What you have developed lately turns out to be so useful, so provocative that you cannot relax with current levels of results. In this time of change you find many others drifting, seeking, and in many cases you can unite for a common cause achieve important partnership or group results. There is much movement in your life now, both symbolic and real. Today's natives often have a deep sense of poetry, sometimes a gift for occult and when ill, a streak of detachment or depression.

Canadian Broadcasting System at Stake in Cable TV Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Survival of the Canadian broadcasting system is at stake in current discussion on cable television policy, the Canadian Radio-Television Commission made clear Friday.

The commission suggested that television stations may have to be bolstered by such measures as compensation by cable operators and their subscribers for loss of viewers to imported American channels.

This proposal was one of a number of alternative ideas suggested by the CRTC in a 30-page report entitled The Integration of Cable Television in the Canadian Broadcasting System. The commission will hear submissions on these proposals at public hearings in April.

The commission said that "cable television, if allowed to develop as it has until now, threatens the existence of the Canadian broadcasting system."

Pierre Juneau, CRTC chairman, told a news conference that Canadian political existence and the "cultural identity of each region of the country" are in doubt unless cable can be integrated into the broadcasting system.

The CRTC chairman said that the commission does not favor either a "laissez-faire" approach to cable or restricting cable by limiting the number of American channels that can be imported.

But the aim was to develop the television industry so that it could survive in competition with American television.

CRTC guides last year issued a list of priorities for new cable systems which included only one American commercial and one American non-commercial station—with some exceptions permitted.

Mr. Juneau also said the CRTC is anxious to find ways of avoiding a ban on microwave relays of American programming to points far from the international border. The CRTC now permits limited microwave use.

He told reporters that cable television now reaches 22 per cent of Canadian households, about 1.2 million families. This was up from 500,000 subscribers in 1967.

The commission said in its report that this "fragments" the audiences of local television stations. A large number of outside channels, Canadian and American, take away viewers from local stations.

This makes local stations less attractive to big advertisers, the report said.

One way to help local stations might be to provide compensation for loss of viewers to non-Canadian stations.

This could be based on a transfer of a percentage of a cable system's gross revenue to television or there could be a direct surcharge on subscribers.

The commission said it would like to hear submissions on how such funds could be collected.

The CRTC suggested this might be a "disincentive" to carrying American stations on cable systems.

But Robert Short, president of the Canadian Cable Television Association, and W. D. McGregor, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said they saw difficulties in the proposal.

Mr. Short said he opposed the idea. It would create a precedent—one part of the broadcasting industry supporting another.

Mr. McGregor said he apreciated what was being attempted but he doubted that the public was ready to pay much more for cable service. But the C.A.B. president said the report is a "first-rate document" giving a good outline of the problems of cable.

Other proposals for integrating cable in broadcasting:

—There could be common ownership of cable and television operations.

—Cable operators could negotiate with Canadian stations to carry their programming.

—Local television stations could install transmitters for U.S. stations and rebroadcast the signals to local viewers.

—The entire country could buy cable systems, perhaps eliminating free-air broadcasting entirely.

The commission also said it would like to hear submissions on competition by cable systems in the same geographical area.

The CRTC has largely discouraged cable groups from competing in the same area.

The report said the commission is interested in whether cable systems should be allowed to sell advertising.

It suggested cable and television systems could share in revenue gained from advertising.

Parti Quebecois to Discipline 'Provocateurs'

QUEBEC (CP) — The executive of the separatist Parti Quebecois was expected to announce disciplinary action today against several unidentified "agents provocateurs" who are reported to have infiltrated its ranks.

Jacques Parizeau, chairman of the party's national council, told delegates to the PQ's third annual convention Friday night that certain persons had infiltrated "delicate places" to "do harm to the party."

There had been earlier reports of an "internal plot."

He did not identify the members involved but said that an executive meeting would be held later to discuss possible action and that a final decision would be reported when the convention reconvened for its second session today.

Other PQ leaders, including Camille Laurin, the party's official spokesman in the Quebec national assembly, and party chief Rene Levesque, had indicated in recent interviews that there would be "a general cleanup" at the convention.

Mr. Parizeau said "documents" had been uncovered which detailed plans for "an operation to harm the party." This plot, due to coincide with court appearances in Montreal by accused terrorists, had been discovered before it could be carried out, he said.

He gave no indication what action would be taken against the alleged conspirators but said that expulsion would be considered.

Infiltration in itself was not particularly dangerous, he said, and the nature of the PQ makes it vulnerable to this type of subversion.

He said, however, that the situation becomes more serious when persons plot to sabotage the party and such plans would warrant immediate action.

"Any political, labor or social movement which challenges the established order can expect to be infiltrated by agents and representatives of the government, especially the municipal, provincial and federal police," he said.

It was better to know who these persons were than to be forced to search for others who might replace them later.

The convention also dealt with internal organization and the record of the seven PQ members in the provincial legislature during the opening session.

Drug Substitution Possible

TORONTO (CP) — A committee is studying whether pharmacists should have the authority to substitute low-cost drugs of comparable quality for higher-prices drugs prescribed by doctors, Health Minister Thomas Wells said Friday.

"There has been a great deal of discussion and numerous suggestions about lowering prescription drug prices by permitting pharmacists to substitute a comprable drug for one prescribed by doctors," the minister said in a statement.

Committee members are Julian H. Porter, a Toronto lawyer; Dr. Nathan N. Levinne, a Toronto physician and Joseph W. Spence, an Agincourt pharmacist.

The committee will hear briefs from professional groups, the drug industry and the public.
